Friends, Foes Of MVA Hit President's Flood Plan

Official Family Opposition Also Indicated for Truman Program

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Both friends and foes of a Missouri Valley Authority patterned after the Tennessee Valley Authority attacked President Truman's program for flood control in the Midwest yesterday.

Delegates to the National Valley Authority Conference at the Interior Department accepted the attitude of visiting government officials as indicating that the program also has opposition within the President's official family.

The program outlined by Mr. Truman unquestionably had the approval of the War Department. It contained a virtual indorsement of the Pick Plan for flood control on the Missouri. The plan was developed by Army Engineer Gen. Lewis A. Pick.

Displeased With Allocations

On the other hand it is reported that the Interior Department is displeased with the allocation of only 10 million dollars out of the preliminary 250 million dollars asked by Mr. Truman, for reclamation, while the Agriculture Department doesn't like to have soil conservation limited to three million. Both departments think this is out of line with the award to the Army of 237 million for flood control.

In spite of the plan coming so soon after the disastrous floods in the Midwest this spring, it was agreed yesterday that it stands little chance of adoption at this session of Congress. The reasons advanced are:

1. An economy-minded Congress.

2. Congress is already in an eleventh-hour legislative jam, with only eight more days before the scheduled July 26 adjournment.

3. Disapproval of supporters of MVA, who see in the President's plan a departure from the Roosevelt Valley Authority program.

President's Message Criticized

At the valley conference, called to start an intensive drive for MVA, the President's message came in for bitter criticism.

"Assigning the United States Army engineers to the job of controlling floods in a river is precisely like sending Typhoid Mary to stop a typhoid epidemic," Benton J. Stong, chairman, declared.

"The Ohio Valley has been fully developed by the Army engineers. It is now the scene of some of the Nation's worst floods.

"The Missouri Valley is only partly developed by the Army engineers. Thus far, with a little under 400 million dollars spent on the lower Missouri, the Army has pushed flood crests up by five, six and seven feet.

"Given time and a few more million dollars, the Army doubtless can still all opposition to their stream-clogging boondoggles by the simple process of drowning out the population.

"The 130,000 members of the Missouri Farmers Association want the Missouri River problem approached in an intelligent way—starting at the headwaters and developing the assets of the valley rather than starting at the mouth and gradually destroying values

Mother, 21, Bears 3d Child in 25 Months

Chicago, July 17 (AP).—Mrs. Claudine Callahan, who will be 21 Sunday, has become a mother three times in 25 months—each time by caesarean section.

Mrs. Callahan, 5 feet tall and weighing 115 pounds, was reported doing well today with her new daughter, 7-pound 1-ounce Louise Ann, at the University of Chicago's Lying-In Hospital.

Her other two children are Raymond, born June 7, 1945, and Ronald John, born July 10, 1946. Her husband, Raymond J. Callahan, was an Army corporal, discharged from the service last Friday.

Repeats July 2 Instructions

Hide Crime Data as Ordered, Barrett Tells His Inspectors

By Robert J. Bruskin
Post Reporter

Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett yesterday insisted that police inspectors carry out his instructions to hide crime complaints.

He retiterated his July 2 order which permits police to "hold" complaints on precinct records without being recorded in crime statistics for Washington. The order was issued despite police regulations and FBI instructions which oppose that method of compiling records, because they are incomplete.

His orders followed a two-week period in which for the first time in many years, precincts put all complaints they received on the teletype. In the first week, robbery complaints increased 500 per cent. The second week they jumped 300 per cent over the week before The Washington Post exposed the practice of hiding complaints.

Barrett apparently became alarmed at the picture of crime in the District as represented by the first accurate reporting of crimes the community has had for many years.

The Police Superintendent appeared particularly disturbed at the police precinct practice of sending complaints over the teletype before a detective bureau squad arrived.

The Washington Post found in its investigation of hidden complaints that more than 300 robbery complaints were hidden in detective bureau records for 11 months of last fiscal year. They had never been recorded in precinct records as required by police regulations. Nor had they ever been reported to the statistical branch.

Barrett also told the inspectors he wanted complaints held as provided in his July 2 order "where there is a reasonable doubt on the part of the investigating officer that a crime, in fact, occurred."

Senator Joseph H. Ball (R., Minn.), one of the sponsors of a resolution seeking a full-scale investigation of Washington police, declared when informed of the instructions:

"That's a fantastic attempt to cover up statistics."

The resolution has already been approved by the Senate District and Rules Committees. It is expected to be voted upon by the full Senate Monday.

Edward J. Flynn, executive secretary of the Washington Criminal Justice Association, appeared equally perturbed by the alleged order.

"Every report of an offense should be considered a valid report," he said. "The complete resources of the Police Department should be utilized to solve it until such time as the investigation proves it to be false or fraudulent.

"When the complaint is proved false, prosecution under our stat-

Minor Chest Reform Asked After Survey

'Greater Integration' With Council Urged; 3 Reports Written

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

A citizens committee yesterday concluded a four-month survey of the Community Chest here and issued a conciliatory majority report on the major controversial issues.

The majority report called for "greater integration" between the Chest and the Council of Social Agencies, and recommended a general set of specifications which member agencies must conform in order to remain in the Chest. This report was signed by 15 members of the 25-man Citizens Chest survey committee.

Two minority reports were issued, one condemning the majority for not being critical enough, the other condemning the majority for not adequately supporting the Chest.

First Minority Report

The first minority report, signed by the six committee members representing the Federation of Citizens Associations and the Federation of Bussinessmen's Associations, charged that the Council of Social Agencies dominated Chest operations.

The six members demanded that the Council be tossed out of the Chest, and with it 22 other of the 61 Community Chest agencies, including the Washington Urban League, Washington Housing Association, and Washington Criminal Justice Association.

A second minority report, signed by one representative of the Federal Personnel Council and three representatives of the CIO Industrial Union Council, denounced the first minority report as "seriously damaging" the Chest, and scored the majority report as a compromise which failed to iron out the "crucial issues."

Named Last Week

The Citizens Chest Survey Committee was named by the Community Chest itself last March in order to make an examination of the organization. Three representatives were appointed from the Federal Personnel Council, Feditions, Federation of Citizens Associations, Federation of Civic Associations, Board of Trade, Junior Board of Commerce, Central Labor Union (AFL), and Industrial Union Council. William E. Leahy, attorney and wartime selective service chairman, was named twenty-fifth member and chairman.

The majority report is not binding on the Chest, but merely advisory. The recommendations will be passed on to the executive committee and finally to the board of trustees itself. The investigation

R. N. Denham Named NLRB Chief Counsel

Former Sen. Murdock, J. C. Gray of Buffalo Nominated Members

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday nominated Robert N. Denham, a trial examiner in the National Labor Relations Board, to become its new general consel.

At the same time, he named former Senator Abe Murdock of Utah, and industrial relations consultant, J. Copeland Gray of Buffalo, as the two new members of the board itself.

The appointments were made under the provisions of the new Taft-Hartley Act, which expands the NLRB to five members and gives the post of general counsel vastly increased and independent authority.

Three Members Reappointed

Mr. Truman announced to his news conference that he had also reappointed the three present members of the board to continue their terms. He said he felt it was legally necessary to make the reappointments.

Those members are Paul M. Herzog, who will continue as chairman until 1950; John M. Houston, until 1948, and James J. Reynolds, jr., until 1951.

Murdock was appointed to a five-year term, Gray for two years.

Asked whether the appointees were in sympathy with the new law, Mr. Truman replied that they certainly were. They have to be, he added. All the appointments and reappointments are subject to Senate confirmation.

Counsel Administers Field

Denham, a Republican of Maryland succeeds Gerhard Van Arkel, who resigned when the new legislation was enacted. His job involves the complete administration of the NLRB's field operations. He will determine which complaints to investigate and what cases to bring before the board.

Born in Missouri in 1885, Denham studied at the universities of Missouri and Michigan. He served in World War I and later worked in a legal capacity in the War Department until 1920.

From 1920 to 1933 he engaged in liquidation operations for several banks and assisted in Washington after the bank holiday in 1933. We was in private law practice here until 1938, when he was appointed a trial examiner in the NLRB. He is also chairman of the Federal Trial Examiners Conference, an organization of Federal trial examiners set up to deal with the provisions of the Administrative Procedures Act.

Judge Spares Low-Paid Clerk In Theft of $2500 From Bank

Detroit, July 17 (AP).—Federal Judge Frank A. Picard refused today to send a Commonwealth Bank employe to jail for embezzlement after accusing the institution's officials of "dangling large sums of money" before him and of underpaying him.

The judge suspended a one-year-and-a-day sentence upon Arthur Alfred Craig, 42, even though Craig admitted taking $2500 in a two-year-period by juggling service charge records. He placed Craig on probation for two years.

"I'm not condoning you," Judge Picard told the defendant. "Stealing is stealing. It is never justified."

In questioning Craig, the judge brought out that he had been employed by the bank for 15 years and was head of the analysis department at a salary averaging $250 monthly.

"The bank informs me you were one of its best men," Judge Picard said. "You worked late hours and appeared to have the bank's interest at heart. A man with your position at the bank has to maintain a certain standing in the community. If they expect you to wear a white shirt at work, they should pay a white shirt salary."

Senate Group Votes Cost of Living Probe

Banking Committee Seeks $100,000 To Report on Prices, Profiteering by '48

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

After six months of talk about the high cost of living, Congress got started yesterday on a plan to investigate—and maybe do something about it next year.

The Senate Banking Committee approved a bill to set up a 10-man subcommittee—with a $100,000 expense fund—to find out all about high prices and draw up a report by January 1.

The subcommittee, which would be part of the Joint Economic Committee, would be under orders to go at the problem from all sides, and get the answer to such questions as whether anybody is making exorbitant profits, whether wages really will buy more now than they used to, and what Government buying does to the American consumer market.

Spotlight on Profiteering

More than that, Senator Baldwin (R., Conn.), author of the bill, said the subcommittee would try to put a brake on profiteering, if there was any. He would do this, he explained, by ruthless investigation and turning the power of pitiless publicity on the profiteers, if any.

But Baldwin said his main reason for offering the bill was to give the plain, ordinary citizen and his wife a chance to tell their side of the high price picture. He said he hoped the bill would get through both the Senate and the House before they quit for the summer, so that plain ordinary citizens and their wives could start telling their tale at hearings all over the country right away.

Meanwhile the Labor Statistics Bureau came through with some cost-of-living figures that may be right down the subcommittee's alley. Wholesale food prices went up seven tenths of one per cent last week—that's at the rate of 36.4 per cent a year—and that brought the wholesale goods index 69.1 per cent higher than it was 10 years ago.

The bureau found that the average of all wholesale prices was up a fifth of a per cent last week. All foods except fruits and vegetables went up, and these rises outweighed price cuts on some other lines.

Housing Report Asked

Besides Baldwin's move to investigate high prices, the banking committee approved a proposal by Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) to do something about housing. This, too, would be an investigation by a joint committee with orders to get a report to Congress by next March 15, and a final report by January 2, 1949.

McCarthy's resolution called for investigation of the need for housing, how far material shortage is to blame for housing shortage, why housing costs so much, what slows up construction, the effect of archaic building codes, the administration and effect of Government housing projects, the supply of private and public capital for housing, the setup of Government housing agencies and any other problem the committee wants to go into.

The housing investigation, too, would have $100,000 for expenses.

Greece Expects New Attacks; 'Free State' Move Indicated; Soviet Hits U. S. Balkan Plan

Gromyko's Blast Hints Possible Veto of Program To End Disorders

Lake Success, July 17 (AP).—Russia late today said that the United States plan for settling Balkan border disorders was "unacceptable" and thus pointed directly to a possible Soviet veto.

Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko told the Security Council that the United States proposal for creation of a semi-permanent frontier watch was a "sharp breach" of the United Nations charter.

He then added:

"The Soviet delegation cannot agree to creation of such a commission."

Gromyko spoke 45 minutes as the climax to what some delegates called a modified filibuster which found Poland on the floor 40 minutes and Yugoslavia speaking 58 minutes. With the added time for translations, the three addresses kept the Council busy from midmorning to near the evening adjournment.

Needed Votes Indicated

On the basis of arguments thus far, the United States will be supported by Britain, China, Belgium, Brazil, Syria and Australia, which would provide the necessary seven votes for passage. Such a lineup would leave a Russian veto as the only stopper.

Poland is committed to back the Russian plan and France and Colombia were placed in the doubtful ranks due to their suggested compromises on the American proposal.

Gromyko again appealed for direct settlement of the border disputes and complained that Vassili Dendramis, the Greek ambassador, "listens in cold blood" but does nothing contributing toward a solution.

The Soviet delegate warned the council that the American resolution might be described as an attempt "to create a screen behind which actions could be perpetrated by certain states in Greece which constitute real interference in the internal affairs of Greece.

Some Delegates Hopeful

Despite his slashing broadside at the American plan, some delegates held hopes that Gromyko would not use the veto. Some of these persons felt that Russia still was hoping for delays which might produce some type of compromise and open the way for Gromyko to abstain.

Backing up Russia, Poland blamed Greece for the disturbances and demanded immediate withdrawal of foreign troops from Greece, new elections and formation of a coalition government "representative of the whole nation."

"For the sake of the Greek people as well as for the sake of the peace of the world, it is imperative that Greece be extricated from the network of international power politics," Dr. Oscar Lange said.

Yugoslavia followed, stressing the same points.

Disloyalty Charges Oust 223; Final Total May Reach 1000

By Jerry Klutts
Post Reporter

At least 223 Federal workers have been fired, and possibly more than 1000 others have been either fired or forced out on disloyalty charges in the nine-month period ending April 1.

A partial survey of Government agencies has revealed the 223 known ousters. With many agencies still to report on disloyalty action, the Civil Service Commission estimates the final figure for the period may be upwards of 1000.

In addition to the 223 known firings, 18 other employes under suspicion of disloyalty were pressured to resign, and 29 other applicants for jobs were rejected on that ground.

Highlights of Report

The report was made public yesterday by Chairman Rees of the House Civil Service Committtee. It was prepared by the Civil Service Commission at the request of the chairman.

Other highlights of the report:

That the firings took place in just six departments, War, Navy, Agriculture, Commerce, Labor and the Veterans' Administration; that 38 agencies reported no disloyalty firing, and that 13 other agencies, including State, failed to meet the deadline for the report.

That 190 of the 223 employes who were fired were among only 25 per cent of War Department's 450,000 civilian employes who were covered by the report.

Reports From Other Agencies

Using similar percentages to project the number of ousters throughout the entire War Department, the Civil Service Commission concluded that 793 employes had been fired on disloyalty charges, and 18 others under suspicion had been forced to resign. But the figures are just a guess at best, since no accurate tabulation has been made.

The remaining five agencies that sent in reports on employes who

A Senate Judiciary Subcommittee's nineteenth hearing on the nomination of Philip B. Perlman of Baltimore to be Solicitor General was an on-and-off-and-on-again affair yesterday and last night.

An afternoon session started at 2, after about half an hour was recessed until 3, because neither Republican member was present; at 4 was adjourned for the day by the only Democratic member; and then resumed in less than an hour with a Republican presiding and a key witness having left for the day.

Senator McGrath (D., R. I.) adjourned the meeting for the day when Chairman Ferguson (R., Mich.) of the subcommittee sent word that neither he nor the other member, Senator Donnell (R., Mo.), could attend immediately. Ferguson's message, delivered by Robert B. Young, committee investigator, stated the meeting would "recess, subject to call of the chair."

Board Promises to Correct 'Filthy' Conditions at School

CONFISCATED—This two leafed leather whip, confiscated from the cottagemaster of the "security" building of the Cheltenham School for Boys, was one of the items the press saw in its tour of the Prince Georges County Negro State Training School

Immediate action to improve Cheltenham School for Boys was pledged yesterday by the school's board after permitting the press to tour the facilities.

The school, a State training institution for Negroes, is located in Prince Georges County.

The visit was permitted by the board only if the press would agree not to quote staff members or inmates. The reporters saw:

1. A two-leafed leather whip confiscated by a board member from the cottage master of the "security" building.

2. A dark, musty room in which "security" prisoners had held a kangaroo court and prepared booby traps for fellow inmates.

3. A wire-enclosed room in which a boy who had undergone a tonsillectomy two days previously had lain without attention.

4. A cottage in which "a number of boys" had been whipped in violation of orders of the board that no boy should be whipped unless in the presence of the acting superintendent. H. R. Harris, the acting superintendent, said he had never granted such permission nor witnessed a whipping.

5. One cottage housing 36 boys aged 13 and 14 which had four toilets and four showers.

6. The same building in which two downstairs rooms were set aside for recreation use up to 9 p. m., but had no lights.

7. Another cottage containing 35 boys aged 12 to 14 which had four toilets and five showers. The

What Secret Society?

Investigators of 'Green Bowl' Get Blank Gaze at Annapolis

Annapolis, Md., July 17 (AP).—That "Green Bowl" organization, alleged secret naval society, has Annapolis pondering.

The charge that the society of Annapolis midshipmen had grown into a "vicious" officers clique is under investigation by the Navy on orders of Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Chief of Naval Operations.

But here at Annapolis, the purported home of the Green Bowl, there is a general air of consternation and incredulity.

A random check of naval officers, Annapolis citizens, and retired officers made it appear the Green Bowl was rather mythical.

But that it does exist is attested to by Admiral Dewitt C. Ramsey, jr., vice Chief of Naval Operations, who said he once belonged to it. Its exclusive nature was shown in the fact that he said about a dozen in the class of 1912 belonged.

Among the comments on the Green Bowl picked up today were:

An active naval officer—"I think it is something like the flying saucers. Now you see it, now you don't."

Army Convinced Guerilla Forces Will Strike Soon On Larger Scale

Athens, July 17 (AP).—War Minister George Stratos told the Greek cabinet tonight the army general staff believes guerilla forces soon will launch an offensive in northern Greece greater than the twin attacks against Konitsa and Ioannina which the government crushed this week.

"We expect another invasion which will be even on a larger scale," Stratos said, indicating he believed the insurgent fighters would be organized and begin their drive over the Greek border in a foreign country. The government charges this week's attacks originated in Albania.

The cabinet met amid growing indications that a "free Communist" state would be proclaimed in northern Greece.

Guerillas Panic-Stricken

Indicating the government was taking measures to prevent the establishment of another battle front, Stratos told the cabinet that military authorities at Florina, 8 miles from the Yugoslav border, reported no invasion attempt was in evidence there. Earlier this week, government spokesmen said the guerillas might begin offensives directed at Florina and Kastoria, 26 miles from Yugoslavia.

Summing up today's battle developments, Stratos said guerilla troops were "panic-stricken" as they retreated through the Zagoria region, 12 miles north of Ioannina.

Elefthezaca Ellada, official organ of the Communist-dominated EAM (National Liberation Front), said the guerilla radio had broadcast a statement from the guerilla chieftain, Gen. Markos Vifandes, declaring it was absolutely necessary to create an independent Communist government in the "free regions" of northern Greece in order to "free Greece from (foreign) intervention whose aim is to turn Greece into the starting point for war in the Balkans."

A ranking Allied diplomat said the proclamation of a Communist government might be advantageous to Soviet satellite governments because they could recognize the guerillas as belligerents and openly give them aid.

Establish Radio Station

The Communist newspaper Rizospastis declared a radio station had been established by "headquarters of the Greek democratic army" (the guerillas) within Greece and was broadcasting two hours daily. Greek Foreign Ministry sources said they did not believe the station was in Greece but in Sofia or Belgrade, capitals of Bulgaria and Yugoslavia. These sources said the station had been operating two days.

Only minor scattered clashes were reported in the Mount Gamila area north of Ioannina, capital of Epirus, causing belief to arise that the 2500 leftists there had es-

Lady Iris, Clear On Checks, Faces Forced Trip Home

Lady Iris Mountbatten, beauteous Briton with the bouncing checks, is financially in the clear, but the same can't be said about her U. S. visitor's permit.

The Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization in Philadelphia yesterday gave King George VI's cousin until September 1 to leave the United States. Her visitor's permit expired in February and a renewal was refused "because she engaged in compensatory work contrary to terms of her papers," the bureau said.

Lady Iris gave Mrs. Wilhelmina Adams' Georgetown dress shop about $190 in worthless checks, then later squared the account through her attorney. Mrs. Adams withdrew the charges, District Attorney George M. Fay said yesterday.

Hemisphere Arms Plan Given Boost

House Foreign Affairs Unit Approves Measure but Passage in '47 Is Unlikely

By The Associated Press

A measure laying the groundwork for military cooperation between the nations of the Western Hemisphere gained yesterday the approval of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. However, there is scant chance of final passage before next year.

In the drive for adjournment, the legislative leadership tentatively planned to pigeonhole the bill until Congress returns—partly to await the outcome of this fall's Inter-American Conference at Rio de Janeiro to strengthen hemispheric solidarity.

The measure would authorize the Administration to send military missions to the other Americas and to supply them with modern arms, ships and planes as part of a long-range program of cooperation for self-protection.

Into the bill, the committee wrote these provisions:

1. Limitation of the program to five years instead of the ten sought by the Administration.

2. Restriction on expenditures to a maximum of 50 million dollars for the entire period.

3. A stipulation that the program must conform with the "Good Neighbor" Policy.

4. Power for the President to halt operation of the program in any country violating its terms.

5. Authority for Congress to end the program abruptly by passage of a concurrent resolution.

The program was advocated by Secretary of State Marshall, Secretary of War Patterson, Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, Army Chief of Staff, and Admiral Chester Nimitz, Chief of Naval Operations, as essential to the hemisphere's security.

The military chiefs told Congress that, as part of the dividends from the program, this country hopes for development of a network of American-equipped airbases, stretching from the Arctic down through South America, which could be used mutually in the event of an emergency.

These airbases would remain under the exclusive control of the countries in which they were located.

posal for a semipermanent U. N. Commission in the turbulent Balkans. In the next breath they hotly contested a report of an on-the-spot U. N. Commission which held Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania responsible for the border troubles.

Neither made any direct mention of the reported invasion of Greece from Albania reported within the last week by Greek government officials, which has intensified the atmosphere surrounding the debate on a U. N. solution.

Lange, Council president, said the internal situation in Greece was aggravated by the presence of foreign troops. He demanded that the Council order "all foreign armed forces and foreign military advisers be withdrawn immediately."

Calling fo restoration of national unity among the Greek people, Lange said these steps were necessary:

"Restoration of democratic freedom, cessation of civil war by means of a general amnesty, formation of a coalition government truly representative of the Greek nation, new elections, and cessation of persecution of national minorities."

Premier Demetrios Maximos, of Greece, took office last January 24. The present Greek government is a coalition of the center and right. The left is not represented.

An election was held in Greece in March, 1946, and last September the Greeks voted three to one in a plebiscite for the return of the King.

Britain still has some troops in Greece and the United States has military advisers there in connection with the Truman aid program.

The lengthy speech of Dr. Joza Vilfan, of Yugoslavia, was generally a repetition of all previous arguments put forward by the Soviet-supported nations.

He sharply criticized the United States for supporting the commission recommendations, which he said violated the Charter, and said the United States representatives used "elements of intimidation."

Herschel V. Johnson, deputy American delegate, sought unsuccessfully to block the Yugoslav speech on the grounds that the general debate had ended.

Prior to opening of the Balkan debate, the Council quickly agreed to take up Egypt's complaint against Britain in which Cairo asked for immediate withdrawal of troops and the termination of the British regime in the Sudan.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, asked for time to summon experts and collect evidence. The Council decided not to start debate before August 5.

Allies Divide 262 German Cargo Ships

Brussels, July 17 (AP).—Two hundred and sixty-two German merchant ships, representing 750,995 gross tons, and valued at more than 43 million dollars, have been distributed to 18 Allied nations by the Inter-Allied Reparations Agency since it started its activities 18 months ago, an agency communique stated today.

During the same period, ended June 30, German industrial capital equipment with a residual value of 138,275,378 reichmarks (1938) was also allocated.

The 1938 reichmark, the communique pointed out, was valued at four to the American dollar.

From three allocations to date the United States has received 13 ships (gross tons 44,779), 28 miscellaneous machine tools and 15 units of chemical equipment.

The United Kingdom received 95 ships (gross tons 373,407), 2 mechical plants, 127 miscellaneous machine tools and 27 units of chemical equipment.

Griswold Faces a Hard Task After His Arrival in Athens

By M. W. Fodor

(Post reporter, authority on the Balkans and the Near East, author of "South of Hitler" and other works.)

Athens (By Press Wireless).—One thing may be said of Dwight P. Griswold, newly arrived American administrator of American aid in Greece:

The man has courage!

If he was not a very brave man he would never have accepted the job of trying to bring order out of the political and economic chaos that is Greece today.

The wheels of his plane had hardly settled on Grecian soil before Griswold was neck-deep in pressing problems.

He had scarcely ceased smiling for the cameras before bad news was poured into both ears from a variety of sources.

First, the military picture was bothersome.

Arrests Laid to Americans

Then there was the annoying story, widely believed by both left and right, that wholesale arrests in Greece were ordered by the Americans. Arrests in the last 48 hours have been wholesale and have gone far beyond the alleged Communist plotters. Police in Athens are alleged to have informed protesting relatives that the arrests were ordered by the Americans. It is fantastic, but widely believed. Scotching this propaganda will be high on the Griswold agenda.

Then there are the reports that wealthy citizens of Salonika are paying fabulous sums for gold to be able to leave at any moment. This unrest is spreading.

There is no question but that persecution of non-Communist Republicans in Greece must stop, or thousands of citizens are going to join the anti-government bloc in self-defense.

The physical presence of the American administrator is going to help immeasurably in quieting things down. There has been so much uncertainty that it spawned all sorts of rumors that have fallen on fertile ground.

It is time for an authoritative American voice to remind Greece of its tradition of patriotism and its belief in justice for all citizens. The present policy of arresting non-Communist Republicans and sending them to dreary island concentration camps cannot continue.

Greece Expects New Attacks

caped a reported encirclement and were making good their retreat toward Mount Grammos, on the Albanian border to the northwest.

Military circles said they believed the leftist rebels were trying to make contact with another guerilla band of about 2000 in the Mount Grammos area which also was being attacked by Greek army forces.

Retreat of the guerillas was noted yesterday when Greek national forces attacked but failed to make contact with any considerable body of the rebels who were declared by government sources to have attacked from Albania last Sunday with the object of capturing Ioannina and making it the capital of their separate government.

Operations in the area of towering Mount Grammos, one of the most rugged regions in Greece, obliged both sides to adopt guerilla tactics.

The area was believed the most likely place for establishment of a so-called "free Communist" government.

210 Guerillas Killed

An official report said 210 guerillas had been killed, 150 wounded, 14 taken prisoner and that 50 surrendered during scattered actions the first week of July.

Ruhr Conference Confined to Coal

Dutch Inject Germany Into Parley

Paris, July 17 (AP).—Holland injected the German issue into the 16-nation European economic conference today, insisting that German productive capacity be increased along with that of the rest of the Continent.

Dr. Hans M. Hirschfeld, acting chief of the Dutch delegation, told a steering committee session that German resources must necessarily be included in any general scheme for reviving the Continent through economic coordination, French sources reported.

Hirschfeld also declared that for longterm recovery, Europeans must attract foreign capital to return to Europe by making investment opportunities attractive.

Subordination Held Vital

French sources said his statement drew an immediate response from Herve Alphand, French delegate, who asserted that Germany's industrial production must be subordinated to the security of other European nations.

The steering committee, which was scheduled to draft a questionnaire to the participating governments on industrial, trade and agricultural needs and assets under the Marshall plan, decided to delegate this task to its executive committee, which was instructed to finish it by Saturday morning.

Alphand, in replying to Hirschfeld, said France wants to raise the productive capacity of all Europe, including Germany, but believes this increase in Germany should be restricted to coal and food. The European states, he added, must see that Germany's coal production is pushed to the utmost because all nations need fuel. Her agricultural production should also be pushed as high as possible, he said, in order to lighten the burden on occupation authorities.

Both Must Read Report

Sir Oliver Franks, the British delegate who was presiding, reminded the committee that its final report must be read by Americans, and Alphand retorted, "Yes, but we must remember it is to be read by Europeans, too."

The steering committee instructed four technical committees on food, power, metal industries and transport to organize themselves as soon as possibly and drafted a work schedule for them.

British Request To Widen Agenda Rejected by U. S.

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

The coming Anglo-American conference on Germany will be confined to the subject of Ruhr coal production in spite of a British request to widen its scope.

State Department officials disclosed yesterday that the United States had turned down a British request to include financial, food and industrial problems in western Germany in the subject-matter of the discussions.

The United States also disapproved a British suggestion that if the talks were limited to the Ruhr coal problem they should be held in Berlin instead of Washington. Secretary Marshall had announced on Wednesday that the conference would take place here next week.

Explains U. S. Stand

A State Department spokesman explained that the United States was unwilling to widen the discussions because it did not want to seem to be competing with the current 16-nation studies now going on in Paris on the so-called Marshall Plan for European reconstruction.

Informed sources said the United States did not rule out the possibility of later Anglo-American "high level" discussions on the general problem of reviving western Germany.

The immediate task, it was said, was to get more coal out of the Ruhr mines, which are now under British administration. Secretary Marshall has made it clear repeatedly that he regards Ruhr coal as crucial to European economic recovery.

Coal Output Off Prewar Average

A British spokesman here said yesterday that his government would not refuse to attend a conference on Ruhr coal, although it would have preferred a broader agenda. Sir William Strang, chief political adviser to the British occupation authorities, and Lieut. Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, the commander in Germany, have already been named as delegates.

Assistant Secretary of State Willard Thorp will head the American delegation, with the help of Major General William H. Draper, deputy military governor of the American zone in Germany.

Germany Held Key To Europe's Recovery

Frankfurt, Germany, July 17 (AP). Gen. Lucius D. Clay, seeking to fit the economy of western Germany into the Marshall plan, said today European recovery could not be attained without the revival of German industry.

Clay told a news conference that he and Lieut. Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, British zone commander, had agreed on a new level of steel production for western Germany, but refused to confirm reports it had been set at between 10 million and 12 million tons yearly.

Clay was asked to comment on the policy directive this week from Washington, which gave him fresh instructions on how to handle Germany's economy.

"The policy," he said, "permits the economy of Germany to be worked into the Marshall plan, without allowing the growth of a militant Germany. It is becoming increasing clear that the problems of Germany cannot be disassociated from those of Europe as a whole.

Bevin Holds U. S. Obligated To Aid Nations

Hastings, England, July 17 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin declared today that the war devastated nations of Europe "have a claim" on the United States for economic help—because, he implied, the United States escaped direct war damage.

Addressing Britain's Transport and General Workers Union (TGWU), Bevin said U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall, in offering aid to Europe, had said in effect: "See what you can do for yourselves and we will supplement what you do."

"I think it is right they (Americans) should supplement it," Bevin continued. "The countries we are dealing with were devastated by war.

"The Americans made a great contribution to the war but it is right and proper that we have a claim on them to assist now with their great production policy."

In a private session after Bevin's speech, TGWU delegates adopted a resolution which General Secretary Arthur Deakin described as "a complete indorsement of the foreign secretary's foreign policy."

The convention sidetracked resolutions critical of British policy in Greece and Spain and adopted a general resolution calling for support of the United Nations and friendship with countries whose governments are pledged to programs similar to that of Britain's Labor Government.

With characteristic bluntness, Bevin disavowed the Russian view that Europe should limit itself to listing what it requires from the United States. In words directed at all Europe, he said:

"If you want Europe to be independent of the United States economically, and if you want Great Britain to be independent of the United States economically, the way to do it is to find out the maximum you can do for yourselves, and when you have found it, to find out the capital goods you require in order to make the machine work.

"That is what I am doing," he declared. "That is all I am doing. I was told I was leading the world to Munich, but that has been dropped since Czechoslovakia went to Moscow."

Laughter followed this remark, a reference to Czechoslovakia's last-minute decision not to attend the Russia-boycotted Paris economic conference on the Marshall plan.

Ex-Leprosarium Chief Falls 5 Stories to Death

New Orleans, July 17 (AP).—Dr. G. H. Faget, 55, former director of the leprosarium at Carville, La., fell to his death today from a fifth story window of the United States Marine Hospital here.

Hospital attaches said that Dr. Faget, a practicing physician at the hospital, apparently suffered a heart attack shortly after 9 a. m. and went to the window for some air. Dr. Faget was a pioneer in the use of sulfa drugs in the treatment of leprosy.

House Favors Repeal Of 57 Wartime Laws

By the United Press

The House yesterday passed and sent back to the Senate a bill to wipe out 57 wartime and emergency laws not needed in peacetime.

Among statutes which would be repealed are those dealing with wartime censorship of communications with foreign countries and authority of the Government to hire dollar-a-year men.

North Europe Food Sought For Germany

Berlin, July 17 (AP).—A British-American mission, leaving Sunday on a five-week swing through northern Europe, will explore the possibility of getting surplus food flown into western Germany from The Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Iceland.

Dr. Edward C. Acheson, special representative of President Truman and American head of the mission, described the task today as a "preview of the Marshall Plan."

Explaining at a news conference that the mission will try to get the northern countries to join Britain and the United States in supplying western Germany with food, mainly fish, on a deferred payment basis, Acheson said:

"The northern countries under this scheme would get paid when and if exports from the Anglo-American (occupation) zones exceed imports, just as Britain and America will."

The program, he continued, would be a start toward European countries "helping each other to overcome their difficulties, and whatever is started now eventually can be fitted into the Marshall Plan."

Col. Hugh B. Hester, chief of the American Military Government's food and agriculture branch, told the German people in a broadcast that the United States and Britain, at their own expense, had shipped nearly $62,000,000 worth of food into Germany last month.

He urged the Germans to realize that "not Germany alone but most of Europe and Asia are also hungry."

J. D. Hickerson Gets Key Post In State Dept.

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

John D. Hickerson, a career official of 27 years' experience, was appointed yesterday to the key post of director of the State Department's Office of European Affairs.

Hickerson will succeed H. Freeman Matthews, whom President Truman nominated yesterday to be Minister to Sweden. Matthews had headed the European Affairs office here since the end of 1944, and had been one of President Truman's chief diplomatic advisers at the Potsdam Conference.

Another change of high officials, expected to be announced shortly, will put James Kedzie Penfield into the post of Director of the Office of Far Eastern Affairs in place of John Carter Vincent, who will become Ambassador to Switzerland.

Hickerson has been especially identified with United States-Canadian relations during his long service in the State Department. He served two years as consul in Ottawa, later became the first chief of the department's division of British Commonwealth Affairs, and has been secretary of the American section of the joint United States-Canadian defense board since its creation in 1940.

For the past three years he has been deputy director of the Office of European Affairs, which directs the day-to-day operations of American embassies and legations in most of Europe and the British Commonwealth.

At present he is visiting European capitals to get a first-hand picture of some of the problems that will face him in his new post.

Hickerson, who is 49, was born in Texas and has a legal residence in Temple in that State. In Washington he lives at 3314 Ross pl. nw.

Newsreel Is Tattletale In Collaborator's Trial

Manila, July 17 (AP).—Dr. Jose P. Laurel, puppet president of the Philippines under the Japanese, broke into an embarrased laugh today as he viewed a newsreel of himself congratulating former warlord Hideki Tojo for "rescuing one million people in greater East Asia from Anglo-Saxon domination."

The newsreel, which, in effect, marked the opening of Laurel's trial as a collaborator, was introduced over strenuous protests of Laurel and his counsel. The reel was captured by United States Army forces during the war.

Dewey Predicts 'Better Labor Law' In About a Year

Salt Lake City, July 17 (U.P.).—New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey told Western Young Republican leaders today that there is "nothing detrimental" about the Taft-Hartley law but a "better labor law" can be expected in about a year.

Dewey had a lengthy conference with Young Republican officials while waiting to see how quickly his wife recovers from a poison oak infection before deciding whether his current Western "vacation" trip will continue as planned.

The conferees quoted him that "there is nothing detrimental about the Taft-Hartley law—and the country will realize this within a year."

Ethiopia Turns Down U. N. Offer of Aid

Lake Success, July 17 (AP).—Ethiopia today turned down a United Nations offer for aid in reconstructing her war-devastated areas.

Replying to an inquiry as to whether the Ethiopian government wanted the U. N. to carry out a field survey of her reconstruction needs, Ethiopia suggested that U. N. efforts be concentrated on countries more recently liberated. A telegram from the Ethiopian foreign office said Ethiopia already had made considerable progress in reconstruction.

Planetarium Reports Cluster of Sun Spots

New York, July 17 (AP).—The Hayden Planetarium reported today that it had observed a "very large cluster" of sun spots in a central position on the sun with other sporadic patches about the cluster.

A spokesman for the Planetarium said that because of the spots "we are likely to have an auroral display soon."

Sun spots frequently interfere with electrical communications but no serious disturbances were reported.

May Go to Leningrad

Moscow, July 17 (AP).—American informants indicated today that Frederick Reinhardt, First Secretary of the U. S. Embassy in Moscow, is expected to go to Leningrad shortly to head the American consulate which is to be opened there.

AAF Designs Jet Fighters To Dart From 'Pouch' of B-36

By the United Press

The Army Air Forces has solved partially the problem of providing fighter protection for the new ultra-long-range bombers by taking a tip from the kangaroo, it was revealed yesterday.

Now under construction at St. Louis, Mo., is a tiny, jet-propelled fighter plane called the XP85. It is the first military plane ever designed to:

1. Ride to the target area in the "belly pouch" of a giant bomber.

2. Be launched in mid-air to take on enemy fighters.

3. Return to the mother ship when the "dog fight" is over.

To Nestle in B-36 Bomb Bay

The "Baby Kangaroo" will nestle in the bomb bay of the six-engine B-36, the giant Consolidated-Vultee bomber which can fly 10,000 miles without extra fuel tanks. The extreme range of the B-36 has long presented the AAF with a vexing problem, since no plane fast enough to be an effective fighter could carry enough fuel to escort the B-36 over its full distance.

The XP85 is the answer to that problem, in the opinion of AAF engineers who are supervising construction of test models at the McDonell Aircraft Manufacturing plant in St. Louis.

THREE GENERATIONS IN THE HEATING BUSINESS

Universal Training Bill Likely To Reach House Floor in Week

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

An official survey of the House Armed Services Committee yesterday disclosed at least a 20-man majority in favor of reporting universal training legislation to the House this session.

With this assurance of majority committee backing, a meeting of the full 33-member committee has been called for next Tuesday to report out the bill.

The plan is to leave it pending on the House calendar, in line for floor action when Congress returns, either this fall or in regular session next January.

In one informed quarter it was said only an unexpected subcommittee hitch can prevent a favorable report on the legislation next week. The subcommittee, headed by Representative Harry L. Towe (R., N. J.), recently voted 9 to 3 to speed action. The subcommittee is expected to reach a vote on the bill today or Monday.

The full committee check counting only "sure" votes, disclosed 9 Republicans and 11 Democrats definitely for the bill. Votes still in the doubtful category could raise the final favorable tally as high as 25.

Republicans counted definitely for the bill were Chairman Walter G. Andrews (N. Y.), George J. Bates (Mass.), J. Pernell Thomas (N. J.), Jack Z. Anderson (Calif.), Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith (Me.), Leroy Johnson (Calif.), Towe, Leon H. Gavin (Pa.) and Walter Norblad (Oreg.).

Democrats counted definitely for the measure were Patrick H. Drewry (Va.), R. Ewing Thomason (Tex.), Overton Brooks (La.), Paul Kilday (Tex.), Lansdale G. Sasscer (Md.), L. Mendel Rivers (S. C.), Robert L. F. Sikes (Fla.), Arthur Winstead (Miss.), Carl Vinson (Ga.), Lyndon Johnson (Tex.) and F. Edward Hebert (La.).

The pending bill calls for six months of military training for all able-bodied youths as soon as possible after their 18th birthday, in line with the recommendations of the President's special commission.

Children Give Traffic Rules Cold Shoulder

Traffic dangers were ignored in the name of safety yesterday by a group of Washington youngsters who believe that school vacations should be spent on playgrounds instead of in hospitals.

So several small children took time off from their games on Powell Playground, Lamont st. and Hiatt pl. nw., to appear on a special television broadcast dedicated to traffic safety.

The youngsters demonstrated traffic mistakes which have sent more than 100 Washington children to hospitals in the past month.

An estimated 10,000 persons viewed the broadcast from 3 to 3:30 p. m. over 1200 Washington television sets. The broadcast also was televised to 12,000 sets in New York City.

Charles Kelly arranged and directed the program for the National Broadcasting Co. and WNBW, NBC's Washington television outlet.

Chelf Proposes 100,000 DPs Be Admitted

By The Associated Press.

Representative Chelf (D., Ky.) yesterday proposed passage before congressional adjournment of a stopgap bill to admit 100,000 European war refugees during the next year.

The measure—which Secretary of State Marshall has called "a lot better than nothing"—was offered as a compromise for a pending bill which would let down the immigration bars for 400,000 displaced persons in four years.

All indications are that the original bill has no chance of approval at this session.

Chelf said he has talked over his proposal with other members of a five-man judiciary subcommittee considering the subject and has assurances a majority is willing to recommend it to the full committee.

"I've got a lot of faith in General Marshall," Chelf told newsmen.

"He says he needs this measure to help stabilize the world and bring peace. If he says he needs it, then I'm for it. If he wants it for diplomatic ammunition, then let's give it to him."

'Moral Responsibility'

By the United Press

The social welfare subcommittee of the Catholic Association for International Peace said last night that the United States has a "moral responsibility" to admit a fair share of Europe's displaced persons to this country.

"Forced repatriation of these people, including child victims of war, cannot be condoned according to American or democratic principles," the subcommittee said in a statement. "The United States must make effective her traditional championship of the physical, moral and political integrity of the individual."

The misery of more than one million homeless persons is, it said, "a blot on the conscience of the world." Failure of this country to act can be "only at our common peril."

The subcommittee said that 75 per cent of the displaced persons in western Europe are Catholic, 20 per cent are Jews, and 5 per cent are Protestants.

"Adjustment of our present immigration laws would permit the entry of a group, large enough to effect materially the solution of this grave problem, small enough so that our economy would not suffer," it said.

Giant Hangar Tests Planes In All Climates

By James J. Strebig
Associated Press Reporter

The Army Air Forces announced yesterday that it has begun using a giant $8,000,000 climatic hangar to test planes and equipment in extremes of cold, heat, rain, snow, sand and wind at Elgin Field, Fla., headquarters of the air proving ground command.

The AAF now is able to make the initial test of new aircraft under controlled weather conditions instead of taking them to bases in arctic or tropical regions, such as Ladd Field, Alaska. An officer said this was expected to save many months in the early phases of type testing, but that experiments with groups of planes and personnel still must be made in the field.

Will Take 230-Ft. B-36

Described in an AAF pamphlet as the world's largest cold weather testing laboratory with "unlimited and timely possibilities in this era of polar projection routes," the main unit will accommodate the Consolidated B-36, the global bomber with a 230-foot wingspan.

This climatic hangar is 200 by 250 feet, with a ceiling peak of 60 feet, and incloses 2,900,000 cubic feet. The floor is stressed to carry a 300,000-pound airplane—considerably more weight than the B-36.

Temperatures inside the hangar and its associated units for specialized jobs can be varied from 70 degrees below zero to 165 degrees above, and humidity can be controlled from 10 to 95 per cent at temperatures above 50 degrees.

100-Mile Winds Possible

Wind storms up to 100 miles an hour, with sleet, snow, rain, dust or sand can be created as needed. Artificial sunlight can duplicate the effects of mid-day on the desert.

The hangar is so equipped that all parts and equipment of the largest military airplane now designed can be fully tested. The engines can be run, guns fired, bombs dropped, take-offs and landings can be simulated, brakes can be checked, and electrical, hydraulic and heating and ventilating systems can be tested.

The hangar can be used also to study motorized group equipment, along with the men needed to operate and maintain them.

Cripps Says Newsprint Cut to Save Dollars

London, July 17 (U.P.).—Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the Board of Trade, told the Commons today that the British government had reduced the importation of newsprint to save its vanishing reserve of dollars for food and not because it wanted to discriminate against newspapers.

Opponents of the reduction charged that British papers—which have been cut to the bone since the beginning of the war—would have to reduce both their size and circulation.

uated from the academy, served 20 years. Never heard of it."

A boarding-house keeper who has housed Naval Academy drags 25 years—"Hundreds of midshipmen have taken meals here, but no one ever mentioned the Green Bowl."

A naval officer's daughter—"I understood it was to keep officers from testifying against one another at courts-martial."

Admiral Ramsey said the "Green Bowl" was a "schoolboy thing" designed to circumvent the Navy's regulations against drinking.

Rear Admiral J. L. Holloway, Jr., Naval Academy superintendent, said the "Green Bowl" no longer existed here.

Reds Charged With Holding U. S. Family

Boston, July 17 (U.P.).—Acting Gov. Arthur W. Coolidge charged today that a Massachusetts mother an dher five children are being kept prisoners by the Russians in Siberia despite efforts of the State Department to obtain their release.

In a speech prepared for the American Legion state convention, Coolidge said the husband of the woman—who was not identified—had been by the Russians "to another concentration camp."

He said the woman's friends raised $6000 for her repatriation and Soviet authorities, the U. S. Embassy to issue an American passport but they steadfastly have refused to grant the family permission to leave the Soviet Union.

Coolidge said he cited this case to show Legionaires that foreign policy is "the immediate concern of Massachusetts citizens".

He said this Nation is in "a new contest with Moscow over economics . . . as a result of the Soviet Union's newest attempt at Paris to scuttle the Marshall Plan for world recovery."

"Perhaps the greatest tribute which as acting governor I can pay to Bay State war veterass is to tell you solemnly that your country again needs your services in what is fast recoming one of the most critical periods in our history," Coolidge said.

In Washington, the State Department announced it is checking files in an effort to find the case referred to by Colilidge. It was learned in other official quarters, however, that the case is an old one involving mixed nationalities—one of the parents being an American and the other a Soviet citizen.

Ramadier Wins Raise For Civil Workers

Paris, July 17.—Premier Paul Ramadier won a parliamentary victory for his government early today when the National Assembly unanimously passed the Premier's bill granting a total of 24,200,000,000 francs ($201,600,000) in wage increases to French civil service workers.

Union representatives, who had threatened to lead the nation's 1,200,000 state employes in a strike to enforce their demands for higher wages, raises than the premier was willing to offer, immediately condemned the action but indicated there would be no walkout. The final vote was 600 to 0.

Testimony of Eisler's Sister Links Him With Soviet Police

The dark-haired, black-eyed sister of Gerhart Eisler glanced momentarily at her brother in District Court yesterday, then linked his name with the Russian secret police.

"It is a very painful experience to testify against one's own brother," the sister, Ruth Fischer a former Communist Party member, told the court during cross-examination by Abraham J. Isserman, her brother's chief counsel.

"My antagonism is against Stalin, in whose services Mr Eisler stands, and not against Mr Eisler."

Called Chief Kremlin Agent

Her brother, a stocky, 50-year-old alien whom the FBI calls the chief Kremlin agent in the United States, is charged with making false statements to get permission to leave the United States for Mexico.

He avoided his sister's glances both yesterday and as she gave direct testimony the day previous, but otherwise he showed no emotion as she told of his Communist Party activity in the days when they were friends.

The trial, being held before Judge James W. Morris, began Monday.

"Was it painful to receive money for articles you wrote about your brother?" Isserman wanted to know. He referred specifically to articles Miss Fischer wrote for Hearst Newspapers and to material she said she supplied for a Life Magazine article.

Pay Held Customary

"I am a professional writer," she replied, "and in this country it is customary to receive pay for such articles."

She then amplified:

"I did not write about my brother as Gerhart Eisler. I wrote about him as a member of the GPU—the Russian secret police . . . I write whenever I can about the regime of Stalin and the GPU . . . in order to expose the GPU."

Two other witnesses, Charles H. White, 34, former Communist Party member now a Brooklyn streetcar operator, and William O. Nowell, former Detroit Communist Party propaganda director, also testified against Eisler.

White, a Negro, who said he joined the Communist Party at 18 when just out of high school and was sent to the Lenin Institute in Moscow in 1931 "to further my education," identified Eisler as the leader of a "debate" at the institute on the American Negro problem."

Backed Negro Republic

Eisler was advocating "self-determination" for the cotton-belt Negro, the creation of a separate Negro republic in the South, where Negroes are in majority, White testified. White added that he and other American Communists had opposed the idea.

White said he did not know Eisler's name in Moscow, but in 1935 they met again at the Communist Party headquarters in New York City and he was told then that Eisler's name was "Edwards."

Nowell, who said he was a Communist Party member from 1929 to 1936, told the five-women, seven-man jury he made two trips to Moscow, one in 1929 and again in 1931, and also attended the Lenin Institute.

He identified Eisler as the Communist leader at the Anglo-American Commission in Moscow who once called him on the carpet and told him he had "to be handled in some way to break my stubborn resistance to the party line."

Identified as Lecturer

He also identified Eisler as a lecturer at the Lenin Institute.

In Moscow, he testified, he knew Eisler as "Gerhart," but when, in 1933 he met Eisler again at the party headquarters in Detroit, he said he greeted the reputedly No. 1 Communist as "Gerhart," but that Eisler had told him to call him "Brown."

Two Insurance Rights to Expire

Although the reinstatement period for lapsed National Service Life Insurance has been extended, Veterans' Administration warned veterans yesterday that August 1 is still the deadline for applying for two other insurance benefits.

If veterans entitled to waiver of premium payments because of total disability apply by August 1 and establish eligibility, premiums previously paid while the insured was totally disabled will be refunded.

Beneficiaries of deceased NSLI policy holders who prior to their death became eligible for waiver of premiums but did not apply, may claim refunds by applying with the proper documents by August 1.

were fired on disloyalty charges are as follows:

The Navy Department fired 23 employes, forced 15 others to resign, and rejected applications of 14 people;

Veterans Administration fired three employes and turned down the applications of three others;

The Labor Department fired five employes and rejected the applications of a similar number of others;

Agriculture fired two employes, and Commerce fired three of its workers.

Whether so intended or not, the survey is seen as an answer to congressional critics who have charged the Administration has fired only a very few employes on subversive charges since the President issued his Federal worker loyalty plan.

CHECKS: It's official now, payday for Federal workers will not be delayed any longer. The President yesterday signed the Emergency Appropriation Act to permit Federal and District agencies to meet payrolls. The bill was approved Wednesday by the Congress.

The first bloc of employes to benefit is members of the Senate and their office staffs. This group will be paid today. Their regular payday was Tuesday. However, the President yesterday signed the legislative appropriation bill and checks probably would have gone out today in any event.

ACTION: The Senate yesterday approved bills to bring employes of the National Library of the Blind and Columbia Institution for the Deaf under the Civil Service retirement system. It also approved the Aiken bill to permit Federal Security to reorganize internally by shifting appropriated funds. However, it sidetracked the Cain bill to provide that veterans must get a passing mark on Civil Service tests before preference points can be added.

NEW AGENCY: A bill that would create a national science foundation is now in a Senate-House conference. If it becomes law, the new agency would take over what remains of the Office of Scientific Research and Development, and the National Scientific Roster in the Labor Department.

CLERKS: The 40,000 or so people here who took the Civil Service clerical test would have had an uneasy feeling had they attended a hearing yesterday of a subcommittee of the Senate Civil Service Committee.

The subcommittee heard the stories of St. Louis War Department people who had been both downgraded and fired. In nearly every case the facts were along these lines:

The employe had taken and passed the general clerical test, but he was downgraded and certified to a lower-grade job just the same.

And it's a good bet the same thing will happen to thousands of other war service clerical employes who pass the Nation-wide test.

Incidentally, several of the people who testified yesterday had held jobs higher than CAF-4. The exam was for jobs classified CAF-1 through 4. These people took the exam for "experience" and they had been lead to believe it wouldn't apply to them.

Dr. Condon and Chaplin To Be Summoned Later

By International News Service

Chairman Thomas (R., N. J.) of the House Un-American Activities Committee, announced yesterday that Dr. Albert U. Condon, chief of the Bureau of Standards and a key Manhattan Project scientist, will be summoned to testify.

Thomas declared, however, that reports that Condon would be questioned concerning Soviet atomic bomb activities were "merely rumors."

The chairman also revealed that Charlie Chaplin would be subpoenaed for a Washington appearance in September.

Thomas said that the motion picture actor would follow to the stand Hans Eisler, New York and Hollywood composer and brother of Gerhardt Eisler, purported Red "master mind" in the U. S.

Hearings on Communism Set

Chairman Thomas (R., N. J.) announced yesterday that the House Committee on Un-American Activities will hold hearings all next week in its investigation of communism.

Thomas announced this schedule of witnesses:

Monday, Walter Steele, chairman of the National Security Committee of the American Coalition of Patriotic Societies.

Tuesday, Victor Kravchenko, author of "I Chose Freedom," former officer of the Red Army, and an employe of the Soviet Purchasing Commission in the United States. Dr. Mladen Giunio-Zorkin, former member of the Yugoslav diplomatic service in London and former officer of the Yugoslav army.

Wednesday, Ann Mathews, Gene Pratt, Spencer Long, Edward McCree, W. C. Sheppard and Robert C. Black of Winston-Salem, N. C., who will testify concerning "alleged Communist influences in Local 22 of the Food, Tobacco and Agricultural Workers, CIO."

Thursday, Joseph Julianelle of Bridgeport, Conn., business agent of Local 203 of the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America; Michael Beresick of Bridgeport, president of Local 203 of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America.

Friday, James Joseph Conroy of New York, N. Y., organizational representative of Local 1237 of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America.

"YEAH, MANN!"
MANN'S POTATO CHIPS

Tasty with SUMMER SALADS!

Throw away your dish towel!
Glim
dishes, glasses dry crystal-clear
A tiny thimbleful does your dinner dishes!

New liquid magic floats grease away

Cuts grease faster than soap!
Glim surrounds grease, cuts it away clean as a whistle. Pots and pans, dishes shine. Even sticky egg smears disappear fast.

Speed-cleans dishes—beats soap by a mile!
Glim gobbles up the dirt, makes rinsing easier. You save on dish towels because dishes, pots and pans, drain spotlessly dry. And no sticky dishpan ring to scrub!

Dishes sparkle—no soap film!
No soap leaves glasses, silver so dazzling. Every dish shines like new—free from soapy streaks. Glim, the new dishwashing wonder, cleans completely!

Leaves hands feeling surgically clean!
Glim leaves hands cleaner than ever before. Yet no soap made—powder, flake or bar—is safer, gentler, or milder to hands. Unlike soap, Glim contains no harsh alkali. In tests with eleven leading soap and soapless dishwashers, only Glim proved 100% non-irritating to all types of skin.

Suds faster than soap!
No stubborn soap particles to dissolve. For instant suds in hard or soft, hot or cold water—pour Glim into dishpan. Add water full force. Glim keeps on cleaning even after suds have dissolved!

Nearly 700 Believed Dead As Steamer Sinks Off India

Bombay, India, July 17 (AP).—Nearly 700 passengers were reported to have perished today when a small coastal passenger ship, capsized by "two tremendous waves," sank in the monsoon-swept Arabian Sea, 11 miles south of Bombay.

C. A. Buch, general manager of the Bombay Steam Navigation Co., who assisted in the rescue work, said "not more than 15 to 20 persons have been saved." The survivors included 11 of the 39 crew members, including the captain.

The 11-year-old steamer Ramdas left Bombay this morning on its regular daily run to the fishing village of Rewas, 13 miles south of Bombay. Survivors said visibility was poor as the vessel neared Rewas Creek because of the lashing monsoon rain and that heavy swells were causing it to roll heavily.

The swells increased and the vessel was "tossed like a piece of match wood," one survivor said, when suddenly, as the captain was attempting to enter Rewas Creek, about one mile from Rewas Village, the two waves struck.

Schacht Plea Granted

Stuttgart, Germany, July 17 (AP). German denazification officials have granted Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, aging former Minister of Finance, a review on his appeal from an eight-year sentence as a major Nazi offender. The case probably will be pleaded next month.

Hostilities Feared

Indonesians Adamant as Crisis Grows

Batavia, (Friday) July 18 (AP).—A belated effort to alter the determined stand of the Indonesian government against Dutch demands had come to nothing today, and Dutch sources said the Indonesian crisis was more dangerous than ever.

A Dutch information service spokesman said the next move was now up to The Netherlands government, and that acting Governor General Hubertus J. Van Mook had sent his personal recommendations to The Hague last night.

The official texts of documents exchanged by the two governments during the past 48 hours disclosed that The Netherlands had set ultimatum dates for Indonesian action—two of which already have passed.

Deputy Indonesian Prime Minister A. K. Gani said the republican government had not altered the decision contained in a broadcast by Prime Minister Amir Sjarifoeddin which rejected the Dutch demands.

The latest Indonesian-Dutch differences arose over a proposed cease-fire order and police powers in the proposed interim government which would be set up to rule until January 1, 1949, when the United States of Indonesia would be given sovereignty.

The documents released by The Netherlands government disclosed that the Indonesians insist that police powers must rest with the individual states in the United States of Indonesia. They insist that any cease-fire order must be issued together by the Indonesian and Netherlands governments and not until conclusion of a full political agreement.

Curfew Lifted Partially in Jewish City

Jerusalem, July 17 (AP).—Natanya slowly returned to normal tonight with the partial lifting of the curfew which had placed the Jewish city under military rule for three days to facilitate a search for two British sergeants kidnaped by Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground organization.

Newspapers in the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv reported receiving telephone calls saying: "This is Irgun Zvai Leumi. Please inform the British the two kidnaped sergeants are not in Natanya so they may quit looking. We have brought them to Tel Aviv."

The two sergeants, Clifford Martin and Marvin Paice, were seized Saturday in front of a Natanya cafe. They have been held as hostages for three condemned Jewish underground members.

Work was resumed in some industries of Natanya, Palestine's diamond center with a population of 15,000. Searches still were going on in parts of the area, however.

Meantime, Moshe Shertok, head of the political department of the Jewish Agency, made a new appeal to the United Nations Palestine Commission to visit at least a few Jewish displaced persons camps in Europe before writing its report.

In a personal appearance before the commission, Shertok said there was urgent need to permit large scale immigration of homeless European Jews.

A Jewish refugee ship carrying about 4500 unauthorized Jewish immigrants to Palestine was reported by underground sources to be just outside Holy Land waters "with five British destroyers hanging close."

The vessel, reported to be the 5274-ton S. S. President Garfield, renamed the "European Exoduc," was the first refugee ship to approach the Palestine coast in two and one-half months.

Outer Mongolians Pierce China For 70 Miles, Nanking Hears

Nanking, July 17 (U.P.).—Heavily armed Outer Mongolian troops have invaded Chinese Inner Mongolia and set up headquarters 400 miles from Peiping, the usually reliable newspaper Hsin Min-Pao reported today.

A Hsin Min-Pao correspondent at Kweisui, capital of Suiyuan Province, said the Outer Mongolians have driven 70 miles into Chinese territory.

Government Information Director Hollington K. Tong said he had heard "unofficial reports" of the invasion, but there was no official confirmation. A Defense Ministry spokesman said the long desert frontier between Inner and Outer Mongolia is not manned by Chinese troops.

Crossed Border in May

The Hsin Min-pao report said Outer Mongolian infantry and artillery units crossed the border late in May, apparently in concert westward into Chinese Sinkiang Province. Sinkiang attackers found opposition, however. Four battles were said to have been fought in the area around Peitashan between June 2-7.

Hsin Min-pao said the Outer Mongolians marched into Gukuleke, 200 miles north of Kweisui and about 15 miles within Chinese territory. They then were reported to have driven 65 miles eastward to Wulantolohai, in northern Chahar Province 400 miles northwest of Peiping, where they set up headquarters.

The report said Outer Mongolian units were conducting extensive infantry and artillery maneuvers, using live ammunition, in northwestern Chahar.

Tried to Break Away

Northern Inner Mongolia is largely desert, with no roads and few caravan trails. It is inhabited by various nomadic tribes which never have been completely under Chinese control. Inner Mongolia, like its northern neighbor, made several attempts to break away from China, but did not have the political stability of Outer Mongolia.

Most of Chahar Province is dominated by Chinese Communists, although the government controls the western sector of the Kalgan-Mukden railway in southern Chahar.

The Chinese press charged last summer, during Government-Communist fighting in Manchuria, that Outer Mongolia was aiding the Communists. Shortly afterward China blackballed Outer Mongolia's application for United Nations membership.

Truman Picks Foreign Study Selection Unit

President Truman yesterday named a board of 10 educators and officials to select American students who will study abroad with expenses paid by sales of war surplus.

Congress approved the arrangement last year. The State Department said 22 countries—not including Soviet Russia—are presently eligible to take part.

Approximately 12,000 students have applied for scholarships and the first is expected to leave in a year.

The board named by Mr. Truman includes Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Veterans' Administrator; Dr. John W. Studebaker, United States Commissioner of Education; Miss Sarah G. Blanding, president of Vassar College; Dr. Walter Johnson, University of Chicago; Francis T. Spaulding, New York State Commissioner of Education; Ernest O. Lawrence, University of California; President Charles S. Johnson of Fisk University; Helen C. White, University of Wisconsin; Dean Martin P. McGuire of Catholic University, and Laurence Duggan, director of the Institute of International Education, New York City.

$137,550,000 Available

Establishment of the board was authorized by the Fulbright Act under which $137,550,000 is currently available for educational exchanges during the next 20 years.

Senator Fulbright (D., Ark.), the author, told reporters he estimated the new program would be "10 or 11 times" as large as the American share of the Rhodes scholarship for study at Oxford University in England. Fulbright, a former Rhodes scholar, said about 1100 Americans had studied at Oxford under the Rhodes plan.

Participation of foreign countries who have bought American war surplus is voluntary and Fulbright said he assumed some would be unwilling to accept students. He added that he saw no indication that Russia would join in the plan.

Could Settle Surplus Debt

The act authorizes foreign governments to settle their debts for surplus goods by financing the study of Americans in their educational institutions. Funds also may be used to pay expenses of their own nationals in American schools abroad.

William Benton, Assistant Secretary of State, reported negotiations already have started with most of the 22 countries now eligible. He said they were in an advanced stage with the Philippines, China and Burma.

Others include Australia, Austria, Belgium, Czechslovakia, Denmark, Egypt, Finland, France, Greece, Hungary, Iran, Italy, the Netherlands, Netherlands Indies, New Zealand, Poland, Siam, Turkey and the United Kingdom.

Three NLRB Posts Filled

as director of industrial relations and consultant in this field for private business. He was formerly president of the Buffalo Industrial Relations Association and conducted labor surveys for the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce.

He was chairman of the Buffalo area OPA rationing board in 1943-45, and has been a regional member of the War Labor Board and Wage Stabilization Board. He is a Republican.

Murdock, a Democrat, was Representative from Utah for four terms, and a Senator for one term, but was defeated for reelection last fall. He is a lawyer.

Immediate senatorial reaction favored Murdock. Most Senators expressed a lack of knowledge on the other appointments, although Senator Allen J. Ellender (D., La.) said he had talked to Denham and "I think he's a competent lawyer."

Senator Robert A. Taft (R., O.), co-author of the Taft-Hartley Act, declined immediate comment. Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.), who fought the bill in the Labor Committee, said he considered Murdock a "fine appointment." Similar sentiments were expressed by Senators H. Alexander Smith (R., N. J.), Elbert Thomas (D., Utah) and Carl A. Hatch (D., N. M.).

Appointment Delayed

The President said he was not yet ready to announce a fourth appointment called for by the new law. It is the director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, which takes over the functions of the Labor Department's conciliation organization.

Cyrus H. Ching, United States Rubber Co. labor relations officer, was reported in informed circles as a likely choice for the job.

Meantime, the Secretary of Labor yesterday established an office for the registration of unions, as required by the new law. Some 150 international labor organizations and between 50,000 and 75,000 local unions will be obliged to file extensive information on their organizations, officers, and finances with the new office if they wish to use the services of the NLRB in elections, complaints and certifications.

Committeemen Named

At the same time, Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr. (R., Mass.), yesterday appointed seven members of the House Labor Committee, including Chairman Fred A. Hartley (R., N. J.) to the Joint Congressional Committee on Labor-Management Relations.

The Senate also will name seven members to the committee which will investigate the entire field of labor-management relations.

Besides Hartley, House members are Representatives Gerald W. Landis (R., Ind.), Clare E. Hoffman (R., Mich.), Edward O. McCowen (R., Ohio), John Lesinski (D., Mich.), Graham A. Barden (D., N. C.) and Augustine B. Kelly (D., Pa.).

British Show Producer Faints at Marriage

London, July 17 (AP).—Alec Rea, 69, London theatrical manager and producer, fainted at the altar rail at the end of his marriage ceremony today—leaving his bride to carry on at the wedding reception alone.

"I'm feel nigmuch better," Rea said at his home this evening. "I didn't faint until the ceremony was completed, luckily, so I'm very much marrieg and very happy."

9 Girls to Vie In Semifinals

First semifinals in the "Miss Greater Washington" contest will be held at 8 tonight in the Atlas Theater, 1331 H st. ne.

Competitors will be: Shirley Ruth Bohm, Bette A. Bowers, Lillian Ruth Carter, Dru Dawson, Florence E. Frye, Frances D. Henderson, Frances Johnson, Elene Lee Michaels and Mary Ann Moffett.

The audience and a board of judges will pick three contestants from the group. The winners will be joined by two other groups of three, to be chosen in semifinals at the Naylor and Apex theaters, July 25 and August 1, respectively. Finals will be held on the Loew's Capitol Theater stage August 4.

WINE IS AN EXCELLENT VALUE RIGHT NOW

WHAT IS PORT WINE?

☑ One of the oldest wines known ...served all over the world

☑ A wine grown especially to go with fruit, cheese or cakes

PORT IS a rich sweet red wine that goes ideally with desserts or with light refreshments. Port wine is produced from fresh ripe grapes. It is a product of the farm as are all true wines.

To produce Port, the wine grower picks his grapes when fully ripe and hence at their greatest sweetness. The stems are taken off and the grapes crushed. But the grape skins are left in the vats during fermentation—that is what gives Port its ruby color.

In order to retain some of the natural grape sweetness in the wine, the vintner adds a small amount of pure grape brandy to the juice as it is fermenting. This stops the fermentation and leaves the wine with its rich Port flavor. Port is then aged, bottled and finally is ready for you to enjoy. Try serving small glasses of Port next time you have guests at your house. Wine Advisory Board, 717 Market Street, San Francisco.

CALIFORNIA WINES
Due to favorable soil, climate and the vintner's skill, California Wines are among the highest quality wines in all the world

3 CIO Pickets Arrested in Police Clash

New York, July 17 (AP).—A clash of CIO pickets and police on a Brooklyn street resulted in the arrest of three pickets today as members of Local 96, CIO Financial Employes Guild, began a city-wide strike against the Brooklyn Trust Co. and its 24 branches.

The skirmish occurred outside the bank's central office at 177 Montague st., where 150 union members attempted a demonstration after police on duty had told union officials there must be no mass picketing.

Spokesmen for the guild, affiliated with the United Office and Professional Workers of America (CIO), claimed "nearly all" of the Brooklyn Trust Co.'s 700 employes went on strike today.

The guild is seeking reinstatement of three discharged employes, job security, raises of $15 a week or 30 per cent, whichever is higher, and other benefits. The union said a majority of the bank's employes "now take home less than $35 a week."

Officials of the bank were not available for comment.

Ford Fires 32 Foremen

Detroit, July 17 (AP).—Thirty-two Ford Motor Co. foremen accused of "violence and terrorism" during a recent 47-day strike were fired today and their union countered with the threat of another walkout.

The Independent Foreman's Association of America summoned its 3800 members employed by Ford to a special meeting Sunday, two weeks to a day after they voted to end their previous strike admittedly without gaining their objective—a new contract.

Citing alleged acts of violence against nonstrikers during that stoppage, Ford officials said they would not have "the type of person who participates in this kind of gangster terrorism" in their employ.

John S. Bugas, Ford vice president and director of industrial relations, said "clubs, knives and even guns were used by FAA goon squads."

FAA President Robert H. Keys accused the company of violating "its promise to us" that there would be "absolutely no recriminations or reprisals against us."

"They men discharged were all key men in the strike and in the union," he said.

Keys and Pat Mullin, president of the FAA's Ford chapter, said an unfair labor practice charge against the company would be filed with the National Labor Relations Board.

6 Killed in Plane Crash

Baghdad, Iraq, July 17 (U.P.).—Six crew members were killed and 12 passengers seriously injured last night when a British Overseas Airways Corp. York passenger plane crashed during a sandstorm at Subai, Saudi Arabia. The plane was en route from London to India.

'Mikado' to Open 3-Night Stand At Sylvan Today

The Columbia Light Opera Company will present Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado" tonight, tomorrow and Sundday at 8:30 p. m. at the Sylvan Theater.

The first 100 persons presenting themselves at the box office on the grounds each night will be given a free chair, a spokesman said.

A native Washingtonian, Harry Crow, has the role of "The Mikado." Ethyl Manning, Columbia's permanent conductor, will guide the 60 singers and a professional orchestra. Tickets are on sale at the company's offices, 920 17th st. nw.

Settlement Sponsors 'Tired Furniture' Clinic

A clinic for treatment of "tired furniture" will be held every Wednesday from 7 to 9 p. m. at the Christ Child Settlement House, 608 Massachusetts ave. ne.

Mrs. Alice M. Cameron, conductor of the clinic, said residents of the neighborhood will progress from the renovation of their old furniture to the building of new. The settlement house, she said, will supervise the work and furnish some of the materials.

Barrett Issues New Orders

utes should be certain to prevent others from making false complaints to the police."

The FBI, in its Uniform Crime Reporting Handbook which was published May, 1947, declares all complaints should be reported in police statistics to present a true picture of the crime situation.

This applies "whether a crime has actually been committed or the commission of the crime proved to be unfounded," states the handbook.

Police of six cities were found to differ with practices imposed by Barrett's order of July 2. The Washington Post polled police headquarters of Baltimore, Richmond, Philadelphia, New York, St. Louis and Detroit.

In each, it was found all complaints were recorded in crime statistics to present a true picture of police efficiency. In several, it was found that, although some complaints are held confidential, the crime is recorded in statistics.

Retain True Picture

These cities followed the FBI instructions to show complaints which have been proved to be false as a closed case. This practice would balance out the false complaints reported and the number of cases closed, thereby retaining a true picture of a police department's efficiency.

Barrett said he "didn't know anything" about the FBI rules for uniform reporting.

Asked if his order did not conflict with police regulations which require reporting of all complaints to the Police Central Bureau statistics are now gathered from the teletype, Barrett replied:

"Now you're getting a little technical."

8. Another cottage which had two large holes in the ceiling directly over the side-by-side beds.

9. That most of the interior walls were dingy and bare, showing large cracks, peeling paint and rust stains from nearby pipes. The exteriors of the three-story brick buildings, however, were in good condition.

The president of the board, Thomas B. Sprague, a Baltimore beauty supply dealer, said he had discovered the "inexcusably filthy conditions Saturday night on a surprise inspection. He said four of his eight fellow board members had arrived about midnight to view the facilities and inquire about the whippings.

Sprague admitted his board had held only one meeting between April 2 and last week and that the board had not made an inspection in "three or four months." He disclosed the board had received $72,000 for the maintenance of the buildings last year.

The school, which receives youths sentenced by Juvenile Courts throughout the State, has 207 boys aged 10 to 18. This year the institution received $315,000, an increase of almost $100,000 over the previous year, Sprague said.

Asked why the situation had been permitted to grow uncurbed, an official present at yesterday's meeting, which was called after several requests by reporters for permission to tour the institution, pointed out that seven of the nine board members live in Baltimore, that the majority of meetings are held in Baltimore and that with the exception of Howard Hill, retired secretary of the Prisoners' Aid Association of Maryland, none of the members has had social welfare or institutional experience.

At present, Harris is in charge of the institution, although the board is expected to name a superintendent within the next month, according to Sprague. Wallace Reidt, assistant managing director of the Baltimore Criminal Justice Commission, is now representing the board at the institution, Sprague said.

The security building cottage-master has been "suspended" pending further investigation by the board. Y esterday a member of the state attorney general's office attended the meeting, which it is believed may indicate consideration of bringing charges against staff personnel.

In 1939 and 1940, charges that inmates were "whipped with a hose," and "fed inadequate food" were answered by the then board president, Joseph H. Blandford, with a statement that boys were "occasionally whipped with a hose" although they were not treated inhumanly and that food was "substantial and plentiful."

Perlman Probe On-Off Again

Rapids, Mich., and Baltimore were to return to testify.

McGrath Adjourns for Day

"He (Ferguson) ought to tell them that as a matter of common courtesy," McGrath commented.

After a discussion with Young and with Senator Tydings (D., Md.), who has strongly backed Perlman's candidacy, McGrath ruled:

"So far as I'm concerned, as the only member of the subcommittee here, I will adjourn the hearing for the day. Any witness who feels like leaving, so far as I have authority to give you permission to leave, may do so. It's the best I can do. There's nobody here to second my motion."

After McGrath's remarks, Charles Ruzicka, Baltimore attorney, who had been summoned at McGrath's request, left for his home, accompanied by Tydings. Two other waiting witnesses went with Young to the Senate, where they conferred with Ferguson, who advised them to remain. The meeting reopened at 5 p. m. with Donnell in the chair.

Ferguson arrived at the committee room after the Senate wound up its session.

Ruzicka testified earlier that statements made to the subcommittee that he is "definitely" opposed to the nomination of Perlman are "not true."

Young told the committee Monday that Ruzicka told him he "is definitely against the confirmation of the nominee" and that Perlman "is not qualified."

Cross-examined by Senator Tydings, Ruzicka, who is counsel for D. John Markey, defeated Republican in the contested 1946 Maryland senatorial election, said he "did not say" Perlman was not qualified and that Young's statement "unfairly represents my attitude."

He said "I do" when Tydings asked if he thought Perlman was "fit" to be Solicitor General.

Tydings read into the record letters from Simon E. Sobeloff, Baltimore city solicitor, and G. W. S. Musgrave, Baltimore lawyer, concerning statements Young made about conversations with them about Perlman.

Musgrave, in a letter to The Post yesterday, objected to a paragraph in The Washington Post of July 15 which referred to him as a "prominent Baltimore Republican."

"I have never been a Republican," his letter stated.

[The Post regrets the error.]

When Perlman asked Senator Donnell (R., Mo.), the third member of the subcommittee, if hearings would finish yesterday, Donnell said he hoped so, but it was impossible to make a definite statement.

Sobeloff in his letter to Tydings denied he said to Miss Aimee Weber, president of a Baltimore housewives' group opposing confirmation of Perlman, "Keep up the good work."

Young testified that Miss Weber had made such a statement to him.

Sobeloff said Miss Weber had phoned him after Young was on the stand to deny she had made any such statement to Young.

The Baltimore solicitor, who testified previously he believed Perlman was qualified for the post, added he stood on his testimony "without any reservations."

Jackson termed Perlman "the victim of petty politics" and added "many persons state that other un-American reasons are also responsible for the objections raised against confirmation."

all the way back to the headwaters."

Congressional leaders showed every indication of side-tracking the proposal, at least for this year, despite Mr. Truman's message terming it "a problem of desperate urgency."

"It is a scatterfire and poorly-conceived plan," Chairman Taber (R., N. Y.) of the House Appropriations Committee, bluntly asserted.

At his afternoon press conference President Truman was asked about the "cold reception" his plan got in Congress.

Mr. Truman expressed surprise at the question, and inquired its meaning. When told that Taber has opposed it, he remarked that Taber would oppose anything, and that he wasn't a barometer as to Congress opinion.

Strangely the comment on Capitol Hill took an opposite view from the opposition at the valley authority meeting. There the opposition was based on it being another TVA.

Representative Wint Smith (R., Kans.) called it socialistic. Representative Albert Cole (R., Kans.) said there is no need for "Government interference or Government competition as proposed by the MVA."

Both said there is no necessity of creating a new agency to handle flood control, reclamation, irrigation, navigation and power development, and that the activities should be continued under existing agencies such as the War Department and the Reclamation Bureau.

Mr. Truman, in asking for an immediate preliminary appropriation of 250 million dollars for a six billion dollar program for control of floods in the Mississippi River Basin, declared.

"This plan does not change the desirability of the ultimate establishment of valley authorities, but the urgency of the flood problem is such that we must take necessary steps to expedite this program without awaiting determination of the administrative pattern for the various regional valley development programs."

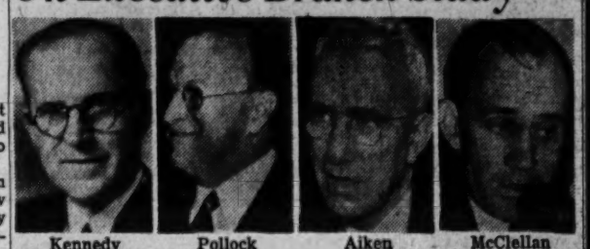
The President also recently specifically indorsed creation of a Missouri Valley Authority as proposed by Senator Murray (D., Mont.).

The President sent to Congress yesterday the details of how Army Engineers would spend 237 million dollars of the 250-million-dollar preliminary fund asked.

His message asked 177 million for general flood-control projects, 50 million for work on the lower Mississippi and its tributaries and 10 million for maintenance and improvement of existing river and harbor works on the Missouri between Sioux City, Iowa, and St. Louis.

The work includes levees, reservoirs, bank stabilization, draining and dredging.

Truman Names Four to Board On Executive Branch Study



Kennedy

Pollock

Aiken

McClellan

Hoover

Rowe

Brown

Manasco

Forrestal

Acheson

Mead

Welcoming a special study on the organization of the executive branch of the Government, President Truman yesterday announced his four appointments to the investigating board. They are:

James Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy.

Arthur S. Fleming, civil service commissioner.

George H. Mead, Dayton, Ohio, industrialist.

These four will join eight others, half appointed by the Speaker of the House and half by the president of the Senate, in a 12-man group known as the Commission on Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government.

In letters to his appointees, Mr. Truman said that the study "should prove of great value."

Bold Review Required

"A bold, comprehensive and fundamental review" of the Government's operation and organization is required if it is to meet the challenges of the modern world, he declared.

The commission was authorized by a joint congressional resolution. It will report its findings to the Eighty-first Congress in January, 1949.

Former President Herbert Hoover, one of the appointees of the Speaker of the House, is reported to be slated for chairman of the group. The other House appointees are James H. Rowe, former assistant to President Roosevelt and the assistant to the Attorney General; and Representatives Manasco (D., Ala.) and Brown (R., Ohio).

The selections of the President pro tempore of the Senate, Senator Vandenberg, were Dr. James K. Pollack of the University of Michigan; former United States Ambassador to Great Britain Joseph P. Kennedy, and Senators Aiken (R., Vt.) and McClellan (D., Ark.).

Half Outside Government

Half of the commission are members of the Government, the other half are outsiders. Each category is equally divided between Republicans and Democrats.

President Truman, who made his announcements and released his letter at his news confeernce, praised the method of appointment of the 12 members and their bipartisan, Government-private character. He said this was conducive to a "well-balanced" commission. He added:

"The role conferred upon the commission affords an opportunity to attack basic problems of government. That role is to study and investigate the present organization, methods, and operations of all executive agencies in order to determine what changes are necessary to promote economy and efficiency, and to improve service in the transaction of the public business.

"The proposed study should prove of great value. The proper organization and administration of executive agencies is a continuing problem, requiring frequent evaluation in order to adapt their structure to current conditions. The present organization of the executive branch has a long history, and many and varied factors have shaped its growth. Manageability and facility of administration have not always received sufficient emphasis in this shaping."

Big Nations Draw Lots For Japanese Ships

Tokyo, July 17 (U.P.).—Naval officers of the United States, Russia, Great Britain and China reached into a bowl again today and came up with three destroyers and five destroyer escorts apiece.

It was the second drawing of lots for 32 Japanese war vessels which will be ready to sail from Sasebo, Japan, within 10 days. The United States, however, will keep its prize ships in Japanese waters or scrap them.

Minor Chest Reform Asked After Survey

was initiated by the Community Chest.

Recommendations of the majority report are as follows:

1. "Greater integration" of the Chest and Council, with the Chest taking "direct supervision" over all functions supported by Chest funds. Also, all surveys, projects and reports undertaken by the Council with Chest funds should be approved by the Chest Board of Trustees.

2. Every agency should meet the following specifications before being admitted to the Chest and should be dropped should its work deviate from the following specifications:

"Charitable and welfare agencies which are organized to give services which are not presently provided by already existing public agencies and which are strictly directed to improve the social and health conditions of the community and its people.

"These services include: (a) Institutional care for children and the aged; (b) family and personal counseling, supplemented by such financial assistance as may be necessary and is available, and (c) education and/or recreation programs such as those with character-building emphasis, nursing, medical care and public health education."

(A leading member of the citizens committee told The Post last night that the specifications were aimed at no particular agency. He pointed out that the general specifications were such that any of the present member-agencies, except perhaps the Animal Rescue League, could conform by a few changes in function.)

Council Criticized

The Council of Social Agencies has been under attack by some civic groups for its inter-racial activities, particularly its recent racial survey, conducted with $55,000 of Chest funds.

Although an agency of the Chest, receiving $41,000 in the past year the council according to the by-laws of the Washington Community Chest is also its advisory agent. the council, asserted the first minority report, should be "subservient" to the Chest, but instead "directs the operations of the entire Chest."

The minority of six called for separation of the council from the Chest because the council duplicated work of Chest members, dominated the Chest, and became involved in controversial fields.

The six, Jerome B. McKee, Louis F. Frick, and Benjamin Strimer, of the Businessmen's Federation; Mrs. Ernest W. Howard, John H. Connaughton, and George L. Gregg, of the Citizens Federation, believes the following 15 agencies perform no charity work and therefore should be dropped from the Chest:

Animal Rescue League, Children's Protective Asociation, Social Hygiene Society, Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Foster Day Care and Counselling Service, Legal Aid Bureau, National Youth Hostels, Soldiers and Sailors Marine Club, Criminal Justice Association, Social Welfare Department of Washington Federation of Churches, Washington Heart Association, Washington Housing Association, Washington Urban League, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A.

Overlap Cited

The same minority declared seven agencies overlap the functions or responsibility of the municipal government and recommended they be continued as Chest members for but one year to allow time for the District to absorb their functions. The seven agencies are Child Welfare of Children's Hospital, Dental Fund, Mental Hygiene Institute, Special Diagnosis and Therapy Fund, Travelers Aid Society, Washington Home for Foundlings, and Washington Society for Hard of Hearing.

The examination of individual agencies was taken up by two subcommittees, which split up the 61 Chest agencies. According to committee members, there was no unanimous vote by either of two subcommittees for denying membership to any agency now belonging to the Chest.

The full committee decided against recommending specific denial of membership, and when it first issued its compromise report, there were 19 signatures affixed to it. Shortly after public release of the two reports, four who signed the majority report withdrew their names and issued a second minority report. They are Patterson H. French, of the Federal Personnel Council; Tillie W. Segadelli, Lois Sentman and Edith Lesser of the Washington Industrial Union Council.

The four stated that they had signed the majority report "in the belief a unanimous report from the committee would settle the controversies related to the Chest and would strengthen the role of this important organization in the community."

Plan Detailed Dissent

But the first minority report, "seriously damaging the functions and operations of the Chest . . ." made it obvious to them that the majority report had failed in the purpose. Therefore, the four dissenters declared, they were withdrawing their names from the majority compromise, and would issue as quickly as possible their own detailed report of the "true facts."

Three members of the citizens committee, P. Y. K. Howat, William H. Press, and Corcoran Thom, jr., representing the Board of Trade, issued the following statement last night:

"The majority report, in our judgment, sets up guideposts and specifications which will enable responsible officials of the Chest to appraise general community thinking. We were unwilling to affix our names to any report which makes too specific recommendations in view of the limited information presented to us."

Others who signed the majority report included Chairman Leahy; Frank Bentley and Frank J. Halauer, Federal Personnel Council; Mrs. Rosina C. Tucker, Richard R. Atkinson, W. D. Nixon, Federation of Civic Associations; Duane M. Paul, Gerald K. Cassidy, Hudson S. Moses, Junior Board of Commerce; C. F. Preller, F. D. Howard, Joseph P. Hillock, Central Labor Union.

Other recommendations of the majority report include the following:

1. Amendment of the Chest by-laws to provide for a board of directors of between 50 and 100 members representing a cross section of the city. Paid workers should not be members of the board or any of its committees.

2. Continuous public relations on Chest activities, rather than concentration during fund drives.

3. Establishment of a grievance committee of not more than seven members elected by the board.

4. Periodic surveys of the activities of the various Chest activities.

5. Denial of Chest membership to any agency which engages in a type of work so controversial in its nature as to handicap the common effort by its inclusion.

6. A complete and long-range survey of the entire social welfare situation in the District and the nearby area.

Full Study Promised

The majority members of the citizens committee concluded that the Federation Community Chest constitutes the best agency for operating and coordinating charitable campaigns in the metropolitan area.

Lee D. Butler, president of the Washington Community Chest, in receiving the report of the citizens committee yesterday, said that the inability of the committee to come out with a unanimous report "is in itself an indication of the complexity of problems" involved in working out effective means of meeting the local health and welfare needs.

He said the reports would be given "fullest consideration" by the Chest executive committee and board of trustees, and also by the joint committee of the Chest and Council presently studying the question of basic reorganization.

Senate Banking Group Votes Probe Into High Cost of Living

which is supposed to draw up a plan to stabilize the Nation's economy. As the committee closed its hearings for the session yesterday, a meat expert forecast slightly cheaper steaks and hamburger this fall.

R. J. Eggert of Chicago, assistant market director of the American Meat Institute, told the committee that the meat supply would and winter, with resulting lower go up about 15 per cent this fall prices. That is, he said, unless there are wage increases or other factors to increase the public demand for meat.

Leon Henderson, former price administrator, told the Senators Wednesday that the present boom would go to smash unless Congress did something to save it. But W. Randolph Burgess, vice chairman of the National City Bank of New York, took the stand yesterday with a word of reassurance. He said there was some "readjustment" to be expected, but it would not shake the economy very much.

Burgess thought high taxes were the great barrier to production in this country.

Marion B. Folsom, treasurer of the Eastman Kodak Co., told the committee he thought so, too.

"If these high taxes remain frozen much longer in our economy," said Folsom, "we run the risk of killing off the incentives which have been an important factor in our progress over the years, and of placing too much dependence upon Government rather than private enterprise."

Falsification

Past experience of the reporting defalcations of the Police Department give us no confidence in Superintendent Barrett's verbal instruction yesterday to his precinct inspectors. He has asked them immediately to halt full disclosure of robbery complaints. That seems to mean, as Superintendent Barrett put it on July 2, that where there is reasonable doubt on the part of the investigating officer of the existence of a crime, the complaint should be "held." Even in normal times no such discretion should be allowed. It is intolerable at a time when the Police Department is under senatorial scrutiny for misusing the privilege. What has disturbed the superintendent, evidently, is the sharp rise in complaints—the appearance, in other words, of a veritable crime wave—since, as a result of the expose of the department's falsification of its records, full reporting of complaints was inaugurated. We agree with Senator Ball when he describes the order as "fantastic."

Superintendent Barrett has tried to create the impression that full disclosure actually falsifies the statistics because some of the complaints after investigation may turn out to be groundless. It does nothing of the sort. On the contrary, it insures completeness and accuracy and honesty. An unfounded complaint is usually marked "cleared" when proven to be without substance. By following this practice a police department is enabled to give the true state of the crime situation. It likewise insures a community against irregularities. No other police department we know of (and we have questioned many) agrees that any other procedure is reputable. The Federal Bureau of Investigation insists upon complete records, and so does the International Association of Chiefs of Police. It is, indeed, fantastic that any leeway should be allowed our local police to deviate from full disclosure, especially, we repeat, when the Senate is looking into the whys and wherefores back of the pocketing scandal.

Peace With Japan

In the writing of peace treaties, the problem in the case of Japan is less formidable than in that of Germany. In Japan there is a functioning government, and no complication is present, as it is in Germany, of a country split up into zones run by the occupying powers. The peacemaking procedures will also be less cumbersome and more expeditious. Secretary Marshall has suggested the abandonment of the veto power on decisions on the part of the Big Powers and the substitution of agreement by a two-thirds majority. This may or may not keep the Russians away. We have always felt that a Russian refusal must not deter the peacemaking, and we are therefore glad to note the determination to proceed with the negotiations whether the Russians participate or not. So much time has been wasted in attending to this essential item in world pacification that any more delay would be criminal.

The heart of any settlement with Japan is the definition of the industry that will be left in Japan. In this connection, Mr. Hoover, in his recent plea for a separate peace with both Japan and Germany, advanced a sound suggestion. That is to limit removals of industrial plants to those which cannot be converted to peacetime use. He would have an impartial assessment of the value of other plants scheduled for reparations. Japan would then be called upon to pay this sum to claimant countries out of future production. Under this suggestion she would retain the nucleus of an industrial structure that would enable her to become more or less self-sustaining as she liquidated her obligations to world society. The snag in allocations, when they are agreed upon, will probably come when the transfers to China are arranged. There is bound to be an agitation among our anti-Chiangites against transfers to Chiang's government, even though that is the only government we recognize in China.

To put Japan back on her feet again must be the main concern of the United States. Japan, as the result of the delay in deciding upon the industry she can keep, has been hamstrung in her recovery, and the burden upon our Treasury in keeping her alive, in consequence, is intolerable. What Lord Vansittart said about Germany must be applied to Japan—we must keep her larder full and her arsenal bare. But this cannot be done without giving Japan access to world trade. Australia has had some unkind things to say about any attempt at the revival of Japanese whaling. Undoubtedly the Japanese never played the whaling game according to the international rules, but they can surely be held to account under the terms of the peace treaty. There is also talk in this country against a Japanese return to the world textile market. This is the kind of thing that would subject Japan to what General MacArthur once called a permanent "economic blockade." Either Japanese must become traders again or pensioners of America.

To be sure, a problem of security arises in connection with the future of Japan. General MacArthur, in spite of his optimism about the psychological change in Japan, does not envisage the end of guidance or controls. Already outstanding is an American offer of a 25-year treaty with the Allied powers to keep Japan disarmed, a counterpart of the treaty we have offered in the case of Germany. This should arrest any nervousness about a comeback of Japan's militarism among the lesser allies. Besides, the new Japan already has been stripped of its conquests back to 1895, and is nothing like the Dai Nippon which once bestrode the Pacific. We hope our own jingoes will set an example of moderation at the peace conference by disowning any further effort to strip Japan territorially.

Veto Power

A bipartisan movement is under way in Congress to restrict the veto power that all the Big Five enjoy in the U. N.'s Security Council by proposing an amendment to the Charter. But amendments of the Charter cannot take effect without the consent of every one of the Big Five. In other words, a veto could be used to stop any proposal to amend the veto power, and, undoubtedly, it would be used by the Russians.

Of course, a new effort could be made to spell out what is meant by the pledge entered into when the Charter was drawn up that the veto power would be exercised "sparingly." "Sparingly" has turned out to be an impostor word so far as the Russians are concerned. As with many other words, it means one thing to Russia and another to non-Russia, and deserves a place in the dictionary that is said to have been compiled at Lake Success for elucidating the exact meaning in the delegates' minds of the nonexact language used in the meetings. The Russians have already exercised the veto power 10 times, which hardly testifies to the non-Slav meaning of the word "sparingly." The result has been to reduce the Security Council to a state bordering on paralysis. Mr. Trygve Lie, sensing the effect upon world opinion, paid a visit to Moscow last year in order to persuade Mr. Stalin to exercise restraint in his use of the veto power, but the only outcome seems to have been a switch in Russian tactics from vetoing resolutions to smothering them in talk. It is clear that the Russians would not consent to the abridgement of this power by amendment of the Charter.

Would the United States? It was due to our initiative as much as Russia's that the veto power was put in the Charter. The Senate, clearly, would not have accepted the organic law of the new world organization if the voting power of the United States had been put on the same basis as that of, as Molotov would say, Honduras. That was shown when the Senate agreed to join the World Court. The reservation was attached to the act that the United States would decide whether a dispute in which it became involved with another nation were a domestic dispute and so not justiciable or an international dispute to be handled by the World Court. In other words, we retained a veto power. Since this step was taken at a time when the fuss began about the Russian misuse of the veto power in the United Nations, there appears to be little likelihood that we would consent to purge the United Nations of the veto power. Perhaps our world sense has improved to the extent that we might agree to the restriction of the veto power to any vote providing for military action against an aggressor. But one comes back again to the plain fact that no matter what we do, Russia would not consent to any such restriction.

There are three ways to proceed, it seems to us, in making world organization more effective. First, the United States must pay more and more attention to the U. N.'s General Assembly, the world's forum of opinion. Secondly, as an earnest that we believe in a reign of law among the nations, we could withdraw our own veto power over disputes submitted to the World Court. Third, we might consider the advisability of calling the nations together to talk over ways and means of setting up a new organization of peoples rather than of governments on some new principle of representation. That is precisely what happened when we formed our Federal Union. The Articles of Confederation were neither scrapped nor amended. They were merely found nonapplicable, and steps were taken to bring into existence an entirely new instrumentality, the Constitution of the United States, the framework of our Federal Union.

Filipino Prisoners

Before it adjourns we hope the Senate will take a few moments of its time to pass the bill extending benefits of the Missing Persons Act to members of the Philippine army. The purpose of the bill is to authorize the War Department to resume back pay settlements to Filipino soldiers for the period after they were taken prisoner by the Japanese in 1942. There is no question as to the legal obligation involved. The Philippine army was part of the armed forces of the United States at the time of the Bataan surrender, and approximately 55,000 Filipino soldiers became prisoners of war. Some 2500 back pay claims had already been honored when the First Recession Act was passed by Congress early in 1946. In an effort to avoid giving Filipinos other veterans' benefits, Congress inadvertently tightened that act so as to nullify further expenditures for legitimate back pay claims. The new legislation requires no additional appropriation. The War Department has ample funds among those already voted. All that is needed is congressional assent. We believe, therefore, that the Senate should without delay second the approval that already has been given by the House. This is a painless way to end the ill-feeling toward the United States that has been festering because of last year's slight.

Boom And Bust

Without debate the Senate has passed and sent to the House a resolution to extend the exercise of consumer credit controls until the end of December, with the proviso that the maximum maturity for installment credit shall not be less than 24 months and required down payments shall not exceed 20 per cent of the purchase price. The ultraliberal modification of terms made mandatory by this measure would be worse than no regulation at all. For it would encourage installment sales on easier terms than are likely to prevail if the control system is swept away. Consequently we hope that the House will refuse to accept the Senate bill and vote for immediate termination of all consumer credit curbs, as recommended by its own Banking and Currency Committee.

The Federal Reserve Board favored extension of existing controls for another year, partly to prevent excessive liberalization of installment terms of sale while many kinds of durable goods are still in short supply. It feared that immediate removal of controls would add to inflationary pressures and encourage an unsound expansion of consumer credit. Another even more important reason for advocating prolongation of controls for another year was to afford Congress an opportunity to consider the advisability of giving the Federal Reserve Board permanent powers to regulate consumer credit—a proposal that it has repeatedly recommended. Unfortunately, the Senate resolution not only affords worse than no protection against the inflationary dangers mentioned, it specifically provides that, except during war or a national emergency proclaimed by the President, no consumer credit controls shall be imposed after December 31 of this year.

Consumer credit controls were inaugurated as a wartime measure, largely with a view to curbing demands for civilian goods in short supply, and helping to protect the economy against inflation. However, peacetime regulation of such credits under a permanent law would be a most valuable auxiliary aid to the Federal Reserve authorities in modifying cyclical swings in business activity, since restrictions could be tightened to restrain consumer spending during boom periods, and relaxed to stimulate buying in periods of recession. As Dr. E. A. Goldenweiser stated in the June issue of the American Economic Review, "The extent to which consumer credit regulation can help to flatten the business cycle is not established, but that it would be a measure that could be used in the right direction can hardly be doubted."

Dr. Goldenweiser also calls attention to the present difficulties in the way of using traditional methods of credit regulation which rest in final analysis on changes in the interest rate. That makes it all the more desirable for the Federal Reserve to develop so-called selective credit control methods similar to the regulations governing credit extension to finance security transactions, installment loans and other forms of consumer credit. Both House and Senate have ignored the cogent arguments in favor of permanent regulation of consumer credit as a safeguard against boom and bust. They apparently regard existing controls as bothersome curbs that ought to be swept away along with other wartime restrictions. We do not doubt that the country will have reason to regret such an error of judgment on the part of Congress.

Saving The Voice

In lieu of continuing the State Department foreign information program full scale on its present basis, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has done the next best thing. The committee has reported out the Mundt bill, which would give it permanent status. Senator Vandenberg has promised that he will press for action by the Senate as a whole before adjournment. As an important amendment to the Mundt bill, the Foreign Relations Committee has voted a joint congressional investigation of our overseas information activities. A sum of $100,000 is provided for six Senators and six Representatives to study the program thoroughly first-hand and to report to Congress by next February 1. Both in approving the Mundt bill and in initiating the investigation, the Foreign Relations Committee has grasped the nettle. The question for consideration has nothing to do with personalities, but has an immense bearing on our basic national interest.

In itself the Senate group's vote does not remedy the crippling cuts decreed by the Appropriations Committee. But it does pave the way for restoring necessary funds through later deficiency appropriation—and on the basis of intelligent, informed judgment rather than personal whim. We know of no better way to get the facts on the need than for a joint congressional committee to view the program's on-the-scene operations. We have no doubt that the investigators will find inefficiency, places where economies can be effected and quality improved. At the same time we are confident that the committee will see clearly the vital role of our radio broadcasts, our libraries, our films and our student exchange program as lamps of our way of life in a confused and demoralized world. We feel equally sure that the committee will decide emphatically that the meager $12,400,000 now allowed for our information activities is grossly insufficient for the big-league competition we face. Events daily are proving that no American foreign policy can be fully effective without an all-out effort to insure that the aims of that policy are accurately understood everywhere.

"Plain Economics"

About this game of marbles alluded to in your editorial of July 10: Did America win all the marbles by her skill or were many of them handed over as the only way to save humanity? This at a time when the pooling of the marbles would have been the best idea to keep the game alive to the ultimate benefit of all friendly players.

I agree with all you say about the doctrinaire muddlers running England today. For years they preached class hatred and now are reaping the whirlwind of the seed they have sown. At the same time there is lethargy in the nation, a good deal undoubtedly due to lack of physical energy. Food shortage may not be the sole cause, but the statement of the government that all of the people are better fed is foolhardy and mere propaganda for socialism. There is also a neurotic hangover from the war. Why do American athletes take their steaks to England with them? Why do they sweep the board? The Americans were able to play their games throughout the war with no real shortages and free from bombings and so on; the British have lost their stamina.

It is preached that Germany has to be put on her feet to save Uncle Sam's pocket as well as Britain's. A similar state of affairs obtains regarding England. But whereas England will be grateful and cooperative for help to which she is entitled, the Germans will, as before, bite the hand that fed them.

England must export or die. America, with her marvels in production, is getting to the point where this slogan may be her slogan, too. Imports must be paid for by exports. England could not pay the last debt because America would not be paid in goods. These are statements of fact.

None regrets more than I that the present regime in England has to be helped. Their methods, in my mind, are entirely wrong. We all want to see a square deal for all men from top to bottom. The pendulum has swung too far and everything today is for one class. The middle class, the backbone of the country, is as usual the biggest sufferer. It seems to be the idea to eliminate it. It is bound hand and foot, but like your "Superman" they will triumph in the end.

Farley Articles

In the pages of a popular magazine we have recently witnessed the poor spectacle of a man regarded by many, if not great, at least as clever, intelligent and genial, who seemingly has let personal animosity get the better of his judgment.

It is difficult to conceive of the purpose which prompted Mr. James Farley to furnish the materials for his current articles to an employe of Colonel McCormick—the arch Roosevelt-hater of all time—for publication.

Mr. Farley's purpose is supposedly not economic, as he is known to draw a generous salary. His purpose cannot be political, for the man he would embarrass is dead. In trying to dishonor a memory, Mr. Farley is late with his comments. Just about everything evil and slanderous has already been said of Franklin D. Roosevelt and his family. By his articles Mr. Farley has not intensified the feeling of one Roosevelt-hater; nor will he turn away one person who loves and respects the memory of our late President.

Whatever Mr. Farley's purpose, probably his chief accomplishment has been to hurt the heart of a woman already bereaved by the loss of a loved one.

Too Much Apppeasement

Before invading Russia in 1812, Napoleon gave much consideration to the unique characteristics of Russia, but not enough. Now we have those characteristics recited in detail by John Fischer, an editor of Harper's and competent reporter on the scene, in his book, Why They Behave Like Russians.

If sound policy permitted it, we would have no means of appealing directly to the Russian people, as opposed to their rulers, so the most legitimate as well as the most effective course is to cease importuning Russia and respect the dignity of our own people and Government. It is possible that inattention may encourage a review of the Russian conception that our benevolent attitude towad the suffering peoples of Europe is but a disguise of our designs to invade the governmental spheres or trade resources of European countries.

International law has been formulated and invigorated by international conventions, and we may look forward to another which will revise the lists of outlawed warfare, so as to not only include such methods as poisoning streams, distributing the germs of deadly diseases, slaughtering women and children and, lately, using deadly gas, but to include the use of atomic bombs. That will have a soothing effect on overstrained nerves and mitigate the effect of too much appeasement.

Streetcar Windows

As a rider of the surface cars and buses in Washington, I must admit some curiosity as to the I. Q. of the local traveling public.

What impresses me is the total disregard of the riding public, the motormen and the bus operators, of the value of proper ventilation within the car or the bus. It is quite usual these summer days, when boarding such vehicles to find every seat filled and the aisles jammed with passengers and practically every window of the vehicle tightly closed and generally remaining so throughout your trip.

Why is it that neither the passengers nor the motorman or operator ever make a move to open some windows and let in some fresh, cool air?

Why couldn't the motormen and the bus drivers be instructed by their employer to see that in the summertime all windows are open each day at the beginning of their run, leaving it to the passengers to close them in case of rain?

High Wages Vs. Lower Prices

Any false idea may become a danger. However, the potency of the danger will depend a great deal on the reputation of its proponent. One such economic idea which I consider particularly dangerous is that we might have avoided the 1929 depression, or at least have alleviated it, if wages had been higher in the 1920s, and particularly after 1926. It is based on the theory that in the period of 1923 to 1929 profits were too high and wages too low. There are a few versions of this theory.

One version alleges that consumption was not high enough, and that there was too much investment. Another one is that industry could not find an opportunity for productive investment of the profits made during the period 1923 to 1929.

There is a third version of this theory, the most dangerous one, because it contains, in my view, an element of truth, and because it rallied to its support a man of the wisdom and knowledge of Mr. John H. Williams, professor at Harvard. This version is that because profits were too high they fed speculation on the stock market.

I share the view that the profits made by manufacturing corporations, chiefly of durable and semi-durable goods, during the period 1926 to 1929, having been high, fed speculation and brought about also huge capital gains, a great part of which were diverted to consumption. The doubtful proposition, however, is that the remedy for this situation would have been higher wages.

My theory is that the price level which existed in the United States before 1929 (about 50 per cent above 1914) was abnormal, and that its maintenance until 1929 was made possible chiefly by the credit expansion indulged in by the Federal Reserve banks with the purpose of maintaining economic activity and, indirectly, the high price level which we inherited from World War I and its concomitant inflation.

The main worry of the Federal Reserve banks at that time was agricultural prices, because after 1924 they began to feel the downward pull of world production and prices. A rise in wages in the period from 1926 to 1929 would have had only the effect of increasing the unbalance existing at that time in the price structure between various classes of wage-earners and between industrial vs. farm prices.

To my great surprise it is rarely mentioned that wages and salaries in the United States increased from 16,975 million dollars in 1914 to 34,565 millions in 1919, to 41,456 millions in 1920 and 45,922 millions in 1929. It is still less often mentioned that the percentage of the national income distributed in the form of salaries and wages jumped from about 60 per cent in the five years preceding 1914 to about 68 per cent in the 1920s. (In my judgment this is one of the most significant economic facts of the period 1914 to 1929. The possible causal relationship between this fact and the evidence that this country has never since recovered an economic equilibrium ought to be explored more thoroughly than it has been so far. If we had increased wages in the period 1926 to 1929 at the expense of profits, we might well have avoided a good part of the speculation on the stock market and the other effects of this speculation on economy. However, it is my opinion that such a policy would not have spared this country the necessary readjustment to a more normal level of prices.

The most plausible explanation of the severity of the 1929 depression is that readjustments made necessary by the monetary and economic policies during and after the war were superimposed on a fundamental trend toward a level of prices nearer the one we had in 1914 than the one we inherited from the war.

An increase of wages of workers in the manufacturing industries from 1926 to 1929 would have made even more severe the necessary readjustments between prices of various commodities and between costs and prices. The truth is, I think, that ever since 1918 our country has been unable to regain conditions which assure it of a high level of productive employment and domestic economic equilibrium without abnormal monetary and credit inflation or without deficit spending.

"Pocketed" Crimes

I wish to commend your paper for its expose of the "pocketing" of crime complaints in the District of Columbia. In bringing to light the practice of hiding crime reports by the police you have done the community a great service. You have and are living up to the greatest tradition of a good newspaper in that you are ever watchful of the people's interest.

What the Congress, the Commissioners, the Police Department, the people of Washington, must realize is that our city is not what it was 10 years ago or even 5 years ago. Washington has a greatly increased population. All kinds of people are here. Each day we read of numerous cases of murder, homicide, robbery, etc. This indicates a big city.

An efficient, well-organized Police Department is essential to cope with the increased crime. Washington is a world capital and should strive to be as cosmopolitan as possible. Money should be voted to study the best methods and operation for the Police Department so that the visitors and residents alike may feel protected and proud of the law enforcement agency.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Surrender To Lobbies

WHEN THE list of 842 registered lobbyists was made public some time ago, almost every interest was represented. Wool, sugar, metals, motors, they were all there with a man to break a lance for them.

Maybe an addition to this list is called for—a lobbyist for the public interest. A people's lobby does exist here in Washington, but it never has had much influence, perhaps because it lacks the generous operating funds that most lobbyists have.

The other day, with little debate, a bill passed the House which will cost the average household money if it finally becomes law. It is a bill to scale down the authority of the Federal Power Commission to regulate the sale of natural gas.

How much it would cost the consumer is arguable. The sponsors for the measure say the added cost would be nominal. The opposition says no one can foresee how much would be added onto the consumer's gas bill.

Among the backers of the bill are Congressmen from States in which there are important natural-gas interests. They said repeatedly, during the discussion on the floor, that "the public" had been given full opportunity to express opposition.

THE RECORD of the hearings shows, however, that "the public" took a minor part in the proceedings. Many of the witnesses were from oil and gas companies that have been trying for a long time to curb the authority of the power commission. Others were Washington lobby-lawyers representing one or another of the private interests involved—including coal, with the mine owners anxious to check the expansion of the natural-gas industry.

Still others spoke for State utility commissions. They argued for States' rights in controlling the production and local use of natural gas, limiting the Federal authority to interstate transportation.

Public spokesmen appeared for Kansas City, Mo., Cleveland, Ohio, and Rockford, Ill. They opposed the bill because it would increase gas rates in their cities.

One thing becomes evident when you look into an issue such as this one. It is so complicated, so hedged around by legalisms, that "the public" rarely gets the point. In the present Congress, these changes are being brought about quietly, with as little publicity as possible. And, "the public" may discover what it means when the cost of living keeps going up.

In theory, Congress is meant to represent the interests of all the people. More and more, however, the tendency is for the Congressman to speak for the special interests of his district or his State. He becomes a kind of ambassador for the major industry back home.

THUS, Ross Rizley of Oklahoma was the chief sponsor of the bill to cut down Federal authority over natural gas. In the Senate, a similar measure is backed by Senator Ed Moore of that same State. Rizley and Moore are ambassadors for oil and gas.

In spite of the last-minute rush, it is possible the Senate may go along with the House in curbing the power commission. But it would certainly be wiser to take more time, so that the effects of this move can be studied and made clear.

Several years of preparation went into the amendments to the Power Commission Act which give the FPC authority over natural gas. Chairman Nelson Lee Smith of the FPC recognizes the need for some changes. The corrective changes he proposed were incorporated in a substitute bill introduced by Representative Percy Priest of Tennessee. But these changes did not go far enough to suit the ambassadors of gas and oil. The substitute was voted down, 254 to 64.

The special-interest ambassadors have, of course, a legitimate right to defend the group back home that means prosperity and jobs. That right, however, is not superior to the public interest. If Congress is to be nothing more than an arena in which the special interests struggle to get their own way by the familiar process of log-rolling, then we might better substitute the lobbyists themselves. In this light the Congressman appears to be merely a rather expensive middleman for transmitting the wishes of a wide variety of special interests.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

The Strip Tease Ends

AFTER HIS speech at the Governors' Conference, Secretary of State George C. Marshall planned to get a day of well-earned rest with a fishing rod, while his aide, Charles E. Bohlen, continued the task of briefing the Governors on the grim facts of the world situation. But almost in the instant of his arival at Salt Lake City, Marshall received word that the international brigade—the Communist foreign legion assembled by the Kremlin for the capture of Greece—was at last reported crossing the Greek border in force, and so he made his speech, and flew back all that night to Washington.

When telegrams announcing dangers overseas recall Cabinet members from vacation, even from very brief vacation, it begins to be disagreeably reminiscent of past times which the whole world has hoped would not recur. The worst of it is that this echo is not inaccurate.

Conceivably, to be sure, the crisis may be over before these words are printed. It is possible that in the present fighting at Yanina, the Greek army may permanently break the international brigade's strength. It is also possible that the dubious Greek government may have exaggerated a mere reconnaissance into a major assault on its border. But whatever its outcome, the Greek crisis already has had one critically important result in Washington. It has brought into the open, for the first time, serious discussion among high officials of the use of force.

The question debated has been whether the United States will accept in Greece, a reverse rather worse than the British suffered at Munich, or will employ its full powers, including force, if need be, to prevent this reverse.

AS TO THE nature of the Greek situation itself, it is relatively simple. The Communist-led Greek guerillas have long been nourished, succored and directed from across the border. Their base has been in the territories of the Soviet Union's Balkan puppets, Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria. The guerilla movement by itself, however, has been too weak to realize the ultimate goal of the Kremlin—the capture of Greece as a whole. Reinforcements therefore began to be assembled some time ago, in the form of an international brigade recruited among Communist Parties of Europe on the pattern of the international brigade in Spain. As was first revealed in this space rather recently, the brigade has gathered along the borders of the three Balkan puppet states. It is now estimated to number approximately 4000. And it can of course be greatly reinforced by the simple expedient of adding to it units of the large Yugoslav, Albanian and Bulgarian armies in nonnational uniforms.

For the Kremlin, the decision to send the brigade into action has long been recognized as the decision to declare overt hostilities against the wretched semblance of international order built up since the end of the war. That decision has now apparently been taken. American members of the United Nations Balkan Commission staff have been able to confirm the claims of the Athens government. Two American observers have actually watched help coming to the guerillas from across the Yugoslav border, at the critical conclusion of a hard, all-day battle.

In the eyes of Washington, meanwhile, there is much more to the Greek problem than the dropping of the G-string in the long strip tease by which the Kremlin has revealed its real world purposes. (The brassiere went only a few days earlier, when Czechoslovakia was brutally forbidden to join the Paris talks on the Marshall Plan.)

IN THE EYES of Washington, in fact, the American future is at stake, as it was when the Greek-Turkey aid plan was launched. If Greece is allowed to go, Turkey will follow. The ensuing chain reaction will continue irresistibly until all the Middle East and most probably all of western Europe have become involved in the general collapse. The weak points are too obvious to mention. Italy, like Turkey, cannot survive with a puppet Greece for neighbor. Britain and France are totally dependent on the Middle Eastern oil which the capture of Greece must eventually place under Kremlin control. And if this chain reaction occurs, the Soviet Union will attain such swollen predominance that this country in turn will have to make the appeasers' choice—between knuckling in our turn or being driven to fight it out.

Under the circumstances, it is inconceivable that the American policy-makers will remain passive in the face of danger in Greece. If the attack on Greece develops further the United Nations will be asked as a matter of course to intervene. If the Soviets have not by then backed down, they will certainly veto U. N. action in the Security Council.

Most probably, this country will then point to the American naval units in the Mediterranean, and give the Soviets' Balkan puppets choice between ending the attack on Greece, once and for all, or accepting extremely unpleasant consequences. Fortunately there is no doubt here that, barring the worst kind of accident, this sort of firmness will be enough to do the job. It tells much, however, that this sort of firmness should even have to be considered. That it is being considered in all seriousness there can be no doubt, whatever denials may be formally offered.

New-Found Mammal Skeletons Date Back 60 Million Years

Santa Fe, N. Mex., July 17 (AP).—Skeletons of mammals of 60 million years ago have been found within 50 miles of the spot where 200 million-year old dinosaurs recently were unearthed, it was disclosed today.

The mammal discovery was "just as sensational in the mammal field" as that of the dinosaurs in the reptile field.

An expedition from the American Museum of Natural History found a rock pocket that yielded complete skeletons of at least six small dinosaurs—about six feet long—near Ghost Ranch, 50 miles of Santa Fe. Dr. Edwin H. Colbert, curator of fossil reptiles for the museum, called it "easily one of the most important discoveries yet made of the continent's early life."

Dr. George Gaylord Simpson, curator of geology and paleontology for the museum, made the other discovery 50 miles to the west. From the red rocks near Lindrith, Dr. Simpson and his assistant, William E. Fish, chiselled the complete skeleton of a meniscotherium. A small five-toed animal which they said inhabited the swamps some 60,000,000 years ago.

Also found were bone fragments of "40 or 50" animals of the same period "nine-tenths of which are new to paleontologists."

Both the small dinosaur and the meniscotherium previously were known only from bone fragments.

Senate Committee Rejects Bill To End Natural Gas Price Curb

The Rizley bill to take price control off natural gas was turned down, 6 to 5, by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee yesterday.

This vote probably leaves the Federal Power Commission, until next year at least, the authority to regulate the rates on gas piped from one State to another. The saving to the public from FPC control has been estimated at 150 million dollars in the last nine years.

All six Democrats on the committee voted against the bill. They were Johnson (Colo.), Stewart (Tenn.), McFarland (Ariz.), Magnuson (Wash.), Myers (Pa.) and McMahon (Conn.).

Voting for the bill were five Republicans, White (Me.), Reed (Kans.), Hawkes (N. J.), Moore (Okla.) and Capehart (Ind.).

Senator Brewster (R., Me.) was at the meeting, but did not vote. Senator Tobey (R., N. H.) was absent. He is said to be dead against the bill, but Chairman White did not cast his proxy vote.

Democrats who had fought the bill said they planned to ask Tobey for a regular proxy, for use if Moore went through with his plan to ask for reconsideration.

The FPC regulates gas under the Natural Gas Act of 1938. Its power over rates was upheld in the District Court last year by Justice David A. Pine and affirmed by the Supreme Court early this summer.

As soon as the Supreme Court had acted, a drive was begun by the natural gas industry for passage of a bill by Representative Ross Rizley (R., Okla.) which took from the FPC power over the production and gathering of natural gas, allowed pipe lines to set themselves up as common carriers and required the FPC to take the market price of gas in the field as a base for rate making.

Experts said this last provision stripped the FPC of power over the price of gas, as there would be no way to tie the market price to the cost of bringing up the gas. Under the Rizley bill, it was said, a gas company could have a subsidiary bring up gas at about 4 cents a unit, then sell it to the parent company at double that cost and the FPC would have to allow the 8-cent price as a rate base.

The bill went through the House in two hours last week.

Senator Moore (R., Okla.) then took up the sponsorship of the bill. He brought it up in the Interstate Commerce Committee last week, but he found most of the members against the bill. Yesterday Moore tried again, and gave up the clause that put pipe lines under the Interstate Commerce Commission. This change brought Senators Hawkes (R., N. J.) and Reed (R., Kans.) over to Moore's side, but the Democrats stood pat.

Several of the Democrats said they were impressed by the FPC analysis, which showed that the Rizley bill would take most of the effective controls off the price of gas in many large cities, and leave the gas companies free to charge all the traffic would bear. They said it was likely the present gas act needs amendment, but they were in favor of waiting until next year, when Congress will have the help of an FPC report on the subject, which has been two years in the making and is due to be finished this fall.

GOP to Force Vote on Inquiry In Missouri Election Probe

By The Associated Press

Republican leaders served notice yesterday they will hold the Senate in session tonight and tomorrow if necessary to reach a vote on legislation authorizing an inquiry into the Justice Department's handling of a Kansas City election investigation.

It was the pending business during a six and a quarter hour session yesterday, but virtually no progress was made.

Senator Kem (R., Mo.), who is pressing for the investigation, complained numerous times during the day of the delays.

Actually pending is a motion to take up Kem's resolution which would discharge the Judiciary Committee from further consideration of the matter.

The committee, with Senator Langer (R., N. Dak.) voting with the Democratic minority, decided 7 to 6 earlier in the week to postpone indefinitely action on the Kem resolution calling for a complete inquiry into the Justice Department's conduct in the matter.

Kem contends that the department "whitewashed" an investigation into alleged irregularities in the 1946 Kansas City Democratic primary, in which former Representative Roger Slaughter was defeated by Enos Axtell, who had the support of President Truman.

Axtell subsequently lost out to Representative Reeves (R., Mo.) in the general election.

Kem encountered repeated obstacles in his drive for Senate action.

First he had to wait for the Senate to act on dozens of bills pending on its unanimous consent calendar. Then Minority Leader Barkley (D., Ky.) and Senators McCarran (D., Nev.) and Hatch (D., N. M.) let it be known that there would be "some debate" on Kem's proposal.

Barkley described the proposal as "rather unusual," since it seeks to discharge a committee from further consideration of matter on which it already has acted. He pointed out that discharge motions customarily are resorted to only when a committee declines to act.

Then Senator Magnuson (D., Wash.) introduced a resolution opposing British military rule in Palestine. Speeches by him and several co-authors consumed another two hours.

GOP Isolationists

"No Tax Relief, No Foreign Relief"

WARNINGS are beginning to issue from the Hill that unless tax relief is voted at this session Congress may refuse to authorize further foreign economic aid. The apparent purpose of these warnings is to change the votes of enough Senators to override the President's veto of the tax reduction bill.

Lindley

Similar hints were dropped before Mr. Truman's first tax veto and while he was considering his action on the Taft-Hartley labor bill. It is now being said that by exercising his veto power in these, and less important instances, the President has violated an offer to cooperate with the Republicans. It is hinted or implied that therefore the Republicans need not feel any further obligations to support the President's foreign policy.

There never has been any obligation on the part of the Republicans in Congress to support Mr. Truman's foreign policy. The central parts of it are not his foreign policy but a bipartisan policy in the sense that important Republicans have had a hand in its formulation. Genuine and persistent efforts have been made by the Administration to expand the area of genuine bipartisanship in the field of foreign policy.

HOWEVER, a majority of the Republican Party in Congress voted against the British loan last year and a substantial minority voted against aid to Greece and Turkey and against the post-UNRRA relief authorization. Since these authorizations were made, powerful members of the House Appropriations Committee have until now blocked the appropriation of the money to make the authorizations good. Even at this writing it is uncertain whether the authorizations will be fully honored with appropriations.

What is important to note about the "no tax relief, no foreign relief" warnings is that they originate among Republicans who have consistently opposed effective foreign aid. Some of these, as their votes clearly show, are outright isolationists. Some are the extreme economizers who, while giving lip service to the foreign policy supported by a majority of their party, have sought to make it ineffectual by withholding the means of carrying it out.

THE BLUNT facts are that the Republican Party in Congress is badly split on the main questions of foreign policy and that it contains a large and hard isolationist core. This group contains some determined and wily politicians who can be relied upon to keep on trying to break up the so-called bipartisan front.

The building up of the bipartisan front on foreign policy was never contingent upon agreement between the two parties on domestic policy. It was a recognition rather, that politics should stop at the water's edge: that the time had come when this country should have a truly national foreign policy which would not change in substance with shifts in control of Congress and the Executive.

What is contemplated under the Marshall proposal for Europe is not relief, but economic rehabilitation as a means of restoring political stability under democratic governments. The alternative is chaos and Russian domination of Europe and probably of Asia and the Middle East.

It is unlikely that the "no tax relief, no foreign relief" theme will change any Senate votes on overriding the tax bill veto. The theme is more significant as an indication of the line, or one of the lines, which the isolationist Republicans intend to take.

W. Va. Election Investigation Opened by Senate Committee

By The Associated Press

The Senate Rules Committee launched a full-scale investigation yesterday into charges of fraud in last fall's election of Senator Kilgore, West Virginia Democrat.

Kilgore's official margin over Tom Sweeney, the Republican nominee, was 3534 votes out of a total of more than a half million.

Kilgore's aides said he had no immediate comment.

The committee declared "it appears from . . . preliminary investigation that vote frauds, election irregularities, and the purchase of votes were prevalent" in the West Virginia election.

A subcommittee headed by Senator Jenner (R., Ind.) recommended the general inquiry after a spot check in two counties. It will be conducted in 12 counties cited by Sweeney in his complaint—Boone, Cabell, Fayette, Kanawha, Logan, Mercer, Mingo, Munroe, McDowell, Raleigh, Wayne and Wyoming.

Forty per cent of the votes in the State were cast in the 12 counties.

The committee will push the work immediately. Eight staff members already are in West Virginia and Jenner said eight more will be sent there for "a general, detailed and specific" investigation. He said ballots already have been impounded.

The Rules Committee asked the Senate for $95,000 in additional funds to carry out the investigation.

Jenner announced that Nelson Deranian will serve as chief counsel in the investigation. He replaces Jack W. Hardy.

Hardy told reporters last week that votes had been bought in West Virginia for $2 or a bottle of whisky—sometimes both.

Deranian, 38, is a former chief deputy prosecuting attorney of Marion County (Indianapolis). He resigned this position in 1942 to enter the Navy as a lieutenant (j.g.). Later he served as chief of special operations for the Office of Strategic Services in the Italian, Balkan and Central European Theaters.

He received the Army's Legion of Merit award and also an Italian decoration for the organization of behind-the-lines intelligence and underground resistance.

Since his discharge from the Navy last year, Deranian has been practicing law here.

President's Calling List

The Gallup Poll

61% of Independent Voters Would Vote Democratic Today

By George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., July 17.—The independent voters of the Nation, most of whom turned sour on the Democratic Party last November, have largely returned to the Democratic camp today.

If a presidential election were being held now, approximately three out of every five independent voters polled by the Institute would favor the Democratic Party rather than the GOP. That compares with a pro-Democratic vote of only 38 per cent among independents in an Institute poll conducted last October, just before the congressional elections. In the elections the loss of support from independent voters was an important factor in the Democratic Party's loss of seats in the House.

Independent voters have held the balance of power in recent elections. They are voters who do not consider themselves regular Democrats or regular Republicans, but claim they make their choice in each election according to their own independent convictions. One voter in five classifies himself as an independent, while the other four in five are willing to classify themselves as either Republicans or Democrats. When President Roosevelt was in office, independent voters tended to side with the Democratic Party, and their vote was an important reason why Mr. Roosevelt got reelected three times.

The trend of independent voter sentiment, showing the marked shift away from the Democrats in 1946, when the Truman Administration was accused of being in a state of confusion over OPA, economic policy, and foreign affairs, is given below.

"If a presidential election were being held today, which party would you vote for—the Democratic or Republican?"

Independent Voters

	% Dem.	% Rep.
1944 election	62%	38%
July 1946	51	49
October	38	62
February, 1947	50	50
Today	61	39

The general political situation today, one year before the nominating conventions, has been surveyed by the Institute in a series of polls reported during the past week.

The following main facts were revealed:

1. President Truman continues to be popular. He is strong with union labor and with farmers. Throughout the country generally, 54 per cent of all voters say they approve the way he is handling his job, while 33 per cent disapprove and the rest have no opinion. The President is outstandingly popular among Democrats for renomination, 7 out of every 10 expressing a choice wanting to see him named to run again in 1948.

2. The Democratic Party as a whole has bounced back after the low point of last November, when it lost control of Congress. Today 55 per cent of the Nation's voters say they would vote Democratic if a presidential election were being held, while 45 per cent would prefer the GOP. These attitudes are irrespective of candidates.

3. Among the Republican voters of the country, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York is the top in popularity as the 1948 nominee, with Harold E. Stassen second and Senator Robert A. Taft and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg tied for third.

4. The Wallace third party threat does not loom very large at the moment. Approximately one voter in every eight (13 per cent) says he would be inclined to vote for a third party if one is started by Henry A. Wallace. Such a party would draw more heavily from Democratic ranks than from Republican, but it would have difficulty getting a place on the ballot in many key States. Election laws in many areas present a formidable obstacle to the starting of new parties.

Hill Conferees Deadlocked On Funds for Interior, Farms

By the Associated Press

Senate-House conferees on the Interior Department appropriation bill broke up in a huff yesterday.

Both Senator Wherry (R., Nebr.), chairman of the Senate group, and Representative Robert F. Jones (R., Ohio), head of the House conferees, said they would wait for the other to make the next move.

At the same time Senator Young (R., N. Dak.) reported that a Senate-House Conference Committee had been unable to reach agreement on farm appropriations.

Young told reporters that House conferees, headed by Representative Dirksen (R., Ill.), planned to ask the House for instructions on the following deadlocked points:

Senate increases providing 295 million dollars to meet payments to farmers on this year's crops for those who complied with the Administration's conservation and youth program. The House voted only 165 million dollars.

A Senate provision authorizing continuation of the farm benefit payment program in 1948 with promise of 150 million dollars in Federal funds. The House directed that no benefit program be planned next year.

A Senate increase to 75 million dollars for Federal aid in the school lunch program. The House voted only 45 million dollars.

A Senate provision for 20-million-dollar loan authority to tenants and veterans for purchase of farms. The House allowed no funds.

A Senate provision of $11,140,000 to pay costs of Federal meat inspection. The House directed that meat packers meet these costs on a fee basis and set up a five-million-dollar revolving fund.

Senators said Dirksen refused to compromise these issues and said he would ask House instructions.

The Senate voted $663,736,426 in new funds for the current fiscal year, or $91,564,160 more than the House. Its Appropriations Committee said this cash plus contract authorizations and previous funds would allow expenditure of more than one billion dollars during the period.

Interior conferees who asked that their names not be used, said tentative agreement had been reached on funds for the Central Valley reclamation project in California and the Bonneville Power Administration, when an argument over the Southwestern Power Administration appropriation "blew the whole thing up."

There were suggestions that the conferees might report their disagreement to the House and Senate for further instructions.

It was understood that if disagreement is reported to the House and Senate, the tentative agreements on Central Valley and Bonneville will be out the window and will be declared items in dispute along with Southwestern power.

Meanwhile, legislation appropriating $55,294,435 for operating the legislative establishment during the fiscal year that started July 1 was signed yesterday by President Truman.

The bill finances not only Congress but the Congressional Library, the Government Printing Office, the Botanic Gardens and other branches of the legislative establishment.

Its total is $20,858,642 below budget estimates.

Amendment Gives Sub-Tenants Right To Stay On After Lessee Vacates

The Senate yesterday approved a three-month extension of District rent control.

Approval for the bill was given by unanimous consent after an amendment was added to strengthen the rights of sub-tenants under the rent-control law.

This change sent the bill back to the House for a conference.

Both houses have now agreed on extending the present District rent control law from December 31 to March 31 next year.

The House has not yet reviewed the subtenant question, raised in the Senate by Senator John H. Overton, (D., La.). His amendment protects subtenants against evictions even though the principal tenant has given up his lease.

Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) cleared the bill through the Senate after announcing that members of the Senate District Committee had agreed to accept Overton's proposal.

Three Senators were assigned to confer with House members on the Overton change. They were Senators McGrath, Senate District Chairman C. Douglas Buck (R., Del.) and Joseph H. Ball (R., Minn.).

Rats, Leaks Cited in Fight On Rent Hikes

Tenants of the 223 unit Skyland Apartments, 2500 Good Hope rd. se., testified yesterday during a hearing into proposed rent increases that their basement laundry rooms are overrun with rats and that water comes through the ceiling during heavy rains.

They presented their testimony after Miles Montgomery of the Chas. E. Koones and Co., rental agents for the property, requested rent increases averaging eight per cent on 222 of the apartments.

Montgomery told Rent Examiner Robert T. Smith that maintenance and operation costs in 1946 were $14,870.06 more than they were in 1941. He said that because of new real estate taxes and other expenses, costs this year will be more than $17,000 above the 1941 figure.

When tenants complained that they were not permitted to sign leases on their apartments, Montgomery said it was because the management feared that costs will continue to rise.

Collins W. McEachern, resident manager for Skylands, said that the rats came from a neighboring rat farm that burned several years ago. He said that exterminators were trying to rid the property of them.

Gordon W. Crozier, one of the tenants, testified that service in the development had deteriorated since 1941 and that current repair costs should be spread over the war years when the management was unable to make them.

Atomic Energy Week Planned In Prince Georges

An "atomic energy week" is to be held in Prince Georges County during the second week in October, the Prince Georges County League of Women Voters announced yesterday.

Invitations have been extended to 300 religious, civic and fraternal organizations in the county to discuss plans at a meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the county service building, Hyattsville, Mrs. Irma Bogdanoff, president of the league, said.

Wednesday's meeting is to work out plans for speakers, movies, displays and educational posters during the designated week to spread knowledge and understanding in Prince Georges County of atomic energy.

"The entire project is to be explained and a steering committee appointed to plan the specific program," Mrs. Bogdanoff said, "that will most effectively reach all the people in the county."

The group will be addressed by George L. Glasheen, executive director, and Irving R. Panzer, counsel for the National Committee on Atomic Information. The March of Time film, "Atomic Power," will be shown.

Nephew Held In Uncle's Death

Charlottesville, Va., July 17 (AP).—Deputy Sheriff W. Abbott Smith of Albemarle County said today Virgil Clinton Pritchett, jr., 21, of near Gilbert's Station, was being held in the county jail here on a homicide charge filed after the death last night of the youth's uncle, Harold Pritchett, 43, of gunshot wounds.

Smith said that young Pritchett said he fired because he believed his uncle was about to attack him.

Acts in Drama At Williamsburg

Funds to Build Schools Left In Budget Bill

But Senate Group Decides to Cut Money For Purchase of Sites

Senator Henry C. Dworshak (R., Idaho) said yesterday the District budget bill for this year will be presented to the full Senate Appropriations Committee today with school building funds intact.

Dworsha ksaid his Senate District Subcommittee had voted to join with the House in recommending a $3,219,230 fund for actual schol construction, but had decided to cut the House-approved fund for purchase of schol sites.

The House granted $880,000 for new school sites, but only about half that amount is expected to remain in the bill as cleared by Dworshak's group.

Dworshak said the bill cleared by the subcommittee would be slightly below the $95,930,310 voted by the House. He said the subcommittee had turned down almost all the projects in a $900,000 list which the Commissioners asked to have added to the bill, to be offset by a cut in school building money.

Their list included $400,000 for a new Industrial Home School at Laurel, Md., and $170,000 for a medical officers' apartment at the District's tuberculosis hospital at Glenn Dale, Md.

The subcommittee, however, was reported to have approved the Commissioners' request to restore to the bill a $229,000 House cut in the District's payment to St. Elizabeth's Hospital. The House fixed the payment at six million dollars.

Also reported approved by the subcommittee were funds for a mass tuberculosis survey of Washington, for a cancer control project here, and for continuing the child day care centers through next June.

Nursing Service Discontinued in 3 Communities

Beside nursing service has been discontinued in Olney, Laytonsville and Colesville districts of Montgomery County, except for acute emergency cases.

Run for the past few years on Community Chest Health Funds, "as a demonstration", the service halted July 15.

The Fund asked the Health Department to assume the service but no money has been appropriated for additional public health nurses, at least two or three more of whom would be required.

The announcement was made today by Dr. V. L. Ellicott, County Health Officer, and Mrs. Madge H. Longley, Health Fund director. If the budget permits, later in the year, an additional nurse may be employed to resume the service, they said.

Negro Suit Charges Schools Discriminate

Richmond, Va., July 17 (AP).—A complaint was filed in Federal District Court here today by 11 Negro children charging that the Surry County School Board and Division Superintendent M. B. Joyner discriminated against them because of their race and color by providing "old, inadequate, overcrowded and unsanitary school buildings."

The complaint was filed on behalf of the plaintiffs and all other Negro children similarly situated in the county as a protest to conditions which it was claimed violated the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution and the laws of Virginia.

D. C. Official Favors Curb For Agencies

Budget Chief Asks Congress to Put All Administration Under Commission

District Budget Officer Walter L. Fowler yesterday urged Congress to abolish the administrative powers of key independent city agencies.

Fowler, testifying to a House District home rule and reorganization subcommittee, listed the school, library, recreation and welfare boards among those whose administrative powers should be centered in the Commissioners.

The Commissioners, he said, should turn over all "housekeeping functions" in the city government to a city manager. He said the Commissioners could then sit "as a jury" in policy matters in the interest of the city as a whole.

Favors Full Suffrage

He said these and other changes would perfect the present Government setup so it could meet the needs of the city "admirably if not ideally." He added "it would be silly to disrupt the present setup if it can be perfected."

Fowler said he favored suffrage for District residents, but that the District is "too close to 500 or 600 men" at the Capitol for Congress ever to abandon fully its control over the city.

He said it would be just a "sop" to let the residents vote for a city commissioner or a poundmaster—"what we want of course is the full right of suffrage."

District Auditor A. R. Pilkerton said that in any District government setup there should be a comptroller accountable only to the governing body. "If you tie his hands and direct his activities you might as well not have him," he said.

Other Officials Heard

Pilkerton said the present title of auditor should be expanded to auditor and comptroller to conform with a recent classification of the auditor's job by the Civil Service Commission.

Tax Assessor Edward A. Dent told the subcommittee he did not believe it would be practicable for Congress to give the local government power to determine its own tax program. He said the city could support itself if Congress set up a formula for an annual Federal payment from 13 to 15 million dollars, added a sales tax and an income tax for all residents, and continued other existing taxes.

Other officials who testified in the home rule hearings included Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West, District Attorney George Morris Fay, District Tax Collector Guy W. Pearson and District Purchasing Officer Roland M. Brennan.

Third of $30,000 Combined Church Fund Is Obtained

Nearly $10,000 of a $30,000 building fund for a new church, to be used by three combined Southern Maryland Methodist congregations, has been obtained, the Rev. Royal A. Rice, pastor of La Plata Methodist Church said last night.

The contributions were received at a meeting at which formal plans for the merger of the La Plata Church, Bethel Church at Budds Creek, St. Mary's County, and the Dentsville Church were described by Tom Bowling, chairman of the building committee. Nearly 100 attended the meeting, held Wednesday night.

The three congregations total about 250 persons.

The new church will be located at the intersection of Highway 301 and Port Tobacco rd. and will be of cinder block construction with brick veneer. It is planned to break ground in August.

Plans call for using the Dentsville Church as cemetery chapel there.

No Remodeling Due This Year In Senate, House

Senator Chapman Revercomb (R., W. Va.) said yesterday the Senate and House chambers will not be remodeled this year. He made the announcement after a conference with Capitol Architect David Lynn.

Revercomb is chairman of a special committee on reconstruction of the Senate roof and skylights. His groups has not yet decided when to start the remodeling and exactly what should be done, he said.

Lynn estimated the remodeling program would cost $2,890,0000, but the lowest estimate furnished by a contractor is $3,378,000.

Trustee Objects To U. S. Claims

Attorney Lee W. Cowan, trustee for the bankrupt Delmonicos night club here, filed objections yesterday to the contention of the Federal Government that its claims for withholding and cabaret taxes get special priority in bankruptcy actions.

The Government seeks $31,974 in such taxes from the Duet, Inc., which ran Delmonicos. Cowan said the claim for the taxes should be treated like the claim of the general type of creditors. Referee John A. Bresnahan set July 23 for a hearing.

Budget Cut To Lay Off 57 At Annapolis

Academy Personnel Reduction Is Already Effected in Part

Annapolis, Md., July 17 (AP).—Capt. Jesse R. Wallace, Naval Academy executive officer in charge of personnel, said today the Congress cut of Academy appropriations would mean a reduction of 57 positions there.

He said 10 of the positions had been left unfilled as vacancies occured, and that there 138 fewer civilian workers at the Academy today than a year ago.

"We have tried to apply measures of economy here," he said. "Our staff reductions began last year, when a temporary cut in our funds was ordered. When it was restored, we continued the reductions. Where key positions became vacant, we filled them and let the others remain unfilled."

The Academy budget had been set at $4,800,000 by the Budget Bureau, but this was trimmed $300,000 in the House of Representatives.

The Academy had asked for 185 new civilian instructors, but this proposal was cut to 175 in the House.

There are now 1875 civilians employed.

The Academy budget has to do with maintenance of Academy services and grounds. It does not include the Severn River Naval Command radio station or experimental station.

Rotary Carnival Slated Next Week

The annual carnival of the Herndon, Va., Rotary Club gets underway next week at the Herndon High School grounds, it was announced yesterday.

Opening Monday at 7:30 p. m., the carnival will feature free vaudeville shows and prizes every night. The school band is to give concerts during the festivities, which close July 26.

Five Herndon High School girls have been nominated for "Queen of the Carnival," Stanley Hanes, a co-chairman of the event, said. Candidates are Josephine Wilson, Dolly Pollard, Mary Harrison, Inez Ankers and Jane Johnson. A wrist watch will be awarded the winner.

Proceeds, Hanes said, will go to community youth activities.

Donaldson Low On Repairing Bid

The District will pay more than $190,000 to widen and repave H st. ne. between 2nd and 15th sts., highway officials revealed yesterday.

Bids for the project were opened yesterday at District Building by Chief Engineer Clerk P. M. Lumpkins. Lowest of four bidders, with estimates totaling $193,912, was Donaldson Paving Co., 20 Potomac ave. sw.

Highway Director H. C. Whitehurst said work on the project would begin "about August 15." Preliminary underground work, including rearrangement of utilities, has already begun, he said.

'Turn-Outs' At Scenic Spots Planned in Md.

Road Commission Accepts Proposal Of Community Group

Baltimore, July 17 (AP).—Robert M. Reinhollar, chairman of the State Roads Commission, said today the commissione had accepted a proposal of the Confederation of Western Maryland Communities, Inc., that scenic highway "turnouts" be constructed in the mountainous parts of the State.

At the same time the commission turned down a suggestion that it create a system of roadside recreational camps, on the grounds that it had no authority to do so.

Headed by James H. Gambrill, jr., of Frederick, approximately 25 members of the western Maryland organization attended a hearing here today before the Roads Commission.

In addition to the roadside turnouts and camps, the confederation asked for zoning regulations to keep billboards and roadside stands from scenic areas; erosion control along highways, and a program of advertising Maryland's scenic beauties outside the State—the latter to be done by an appropriate State agency.

Reindollar told the group erosion control is already included regularly in construction contracts, and that trees are currently being planted for that purpose alongside the new Hagerstown-Frederick hiphway. He added that turnouts with space for four or five parked cars would be built at scenic spots "wherever this can be done at a nominal cost."

Wife's Forgiveness May Save Man From Deportation

Baltimore, July 17 (AP).—Forgiving him for beating her, Pablo Organ's wife went into court today and pleaded for a five-day sentence reduction by which he may escape deportation to Poland.

Judge Joseph Sherbow granted the request after Mrs. Organ testified she loves her husband. The judge reduced the sentence from one year in the House of Correction to 360 days.

Federal law provides an alien, even though married to an American citizen, shall be deported if convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude or if sentenced to a term of one year or more.

Judge Sherbow said he did not know if immigration authorities would feel wife beating involves moral turpitude.

Lincoln to Speak On Greenbelt Day

Murray D. Lincoln, president and director of the Cooperative League of the U. S. A., will be one of the principal speakers at the Greenbelt, Md., tenth anniversary celebration Saturday, August 2, Mrs. Lucille Fonda, chairman of the anniversary festival committee, announced yesterday.

The festival, which will celebrate the tenth birthday of the Nation's oldest and most famous planned community, is sponsored jointly by the town of Greenbelt, and Greenbelt Consumer Services, Inc., the local consumer cooperative.

Officers Installed

Synod Head Is Heard by Mission Body

Strasburg, Va., July 17 (AP).—The final session of the three-day annual convention of the Women's Missionary Society of the Lutheran Synod of Virginia was held here this afternoon, and most of the delegates had left for home tonight.

The invitation of the Marion Lutheran Church to be host next year was accepted.

Featuring the final session were an address by the Rev. J. J. Scherer, Richmond, president of the Lutheran Synod of Virginia, and other talks by Mrs. J. T. Frye, the retiring society president, Wardensville, W. Va.; Miss Genevieve Silcox, Roanoke, a medical missionary under appointment to China; and Mrs. E. R. Miley, Toms Brook, who gave a farewell talk on "Homewood Meditations."

Officers were installed by Dr. Scherer. They are: Mrs. Chester Osborne, Roanoke, president; Mrs. A. A. Shutters, Edinburg, vice president; Mrs. Ted H. Clark, Roanoke, recording secretary, and Miss Mildred Alphin, Lexington, statistical secretary.

The convention closed with a devotional program conducted by Mrs. R. G. Schulz.

Dr. Scherer declared that Christianity has what no other election has—Jesus Christ.

"But Christianity depends on the Christian home," he declared. "No one will deny that the home is breaking down."

He asserted there are two alternatives, the State and the individual, and added:

"We must rebuild the Christian home. Jesus Christ and his way is the only way and solution of the world today."

Brothers Hurt in Crash

Salisbury, Md., July 17 (AP).—Harry and Ira Williams, brothers, of Salisbury, were injured last night when their plane crashed into a field shortly after a takeoff from a private field near here.

Both were taken to Peninsula General Hospital, where Harry, 33, the pilot, was treated for cuts and bruises, and Ira, 29, for a fractured kneecap and possible broken ribs. Ira was admitted for further treatment.

Boys' State to Open

Blacksburg, Va., July 17 (AP).—Some 335 Virginia high school boys will learn how government works by operating one of their own for a week at the fifth Old Dominion Boys' State, opening Sunday on the Virginia Tech campus.

Delegates, selected from high school juniors for outstanding leadership, will get their government in replica under way by forming 10 "cities" and organizing two mock political parties, "Federalist" and "Nationalist."

Bridge Hearing Set

Norfolk, Va., July 17 (AP).—A public hearing on the proposed low-level bridge across the York River at Yorktown will be held August 15 at Williamsburg, Col. George T. Derby, district Army engineer, announced.

Four Firemen Are Burned by Flash Blaze

Oil Ignites as Men Are Cleaning Boiler At Engine Company

Four firemen suffered second and third degree burns yesterday when caught in a flash fire while cleaning a boiler at No. 18 Engine Company, 8th and D sts. se.

They were:

Pvt. Calvin B. Green, 23, of 1501 22d st. se., attached to No. 7 Truck Company; second and third degree burns of the arms, back, chest, face and legs.

Pvt. Clyde Fletcher, 48, of 3413 Rhode Island ave., Mount Rainier, Md., also of No. 7, second and third degree burns of the arms, face, back and chest.

Pvt. Harry E. Jones, 31, of 1705 Capitol ave. ne., of 18 Engine Company; third degree burns to both arms.

Pvt. James K. White, 27, of 453 Mellon st. se., of 18 Engine Company; second degree burns and cuts on the right arm.

Three of the firemen remained in Casualty Hospital, but White was released after treatment.

Fire Marshal R. C. Roberts said the four men were cleaning and rust-proofing a boiler in the basement of the firehouse about 2:15 p.m., when the oil they were using ignited in a flash of fire. It could have ignited from a smaller furnace, about 8 feet away, used for heating water, Roberts said.

Except for a shattered window, 10 feet from the furnace, there was no damage to the building.

Public Assistance Payments Reach New Low in Md.

Baltimore, July 17 (AP).—General public assistance payments in Maryland last month reached the lowest point since October 1946, the State Department of Public Welfare reported today.

June payments totaled $269,070, as compared to $276,196 the preceding month. The high point this year was January, with a total of $302,624.

The caseload was likewise the lowest this year, with an index of 81.1 as compared to an average of 100. The May index was 82.9.

Allegany led the countries in the number of cases with 132 receiving payments during the month, followed by Baltimore County with 128 and Prince Georges County with 96.

Dance to Select Queen Set Aug. 8 at La Plata

La Plata, Md., July 17 (Spl.).—A nominating dance to select candidates for Queen Nicotina XIII, and the six princesses who attend her, will be held August 8 at Chapel Point, Md., it was announced by Reed McDonagh, chairman of the Charles County Fair dance committee.

The queen and her princesses, who will reign during the September 24-27 fair, will be chosen by popular vote at an election dance to be held September 6 at Chapel Point.

Plank Death May Be Held Suicide as Clews Fade

FBI Making Tests On Marks Left by Target Pistol in Close Range Shots

Possibility that the death of Norman Le Roy Plank, 29-year-old District Small Claims Court clerk, may be changed to suicide again was revealed last night by Fairfax Chief of Police Carl McIntosh.

An original certificate of suicide issued when Plank's body was found on July 6 was later changed to homicide after police found that there were no powder burns on Plank's forehead where the bullet entered and no fingerprints on the weapon.

FBI headquarters are now making tests on the revolver to determine if it were necessary for a target pistol of that type to leave powder burns when fired at close range.

There is also the possibility that if there were fingerprints, they might have come off on the cloth which the police used to pick up the gun at the scene.

Witnesses to Be Questioned

Meanwhile Commonwealth Attorney Hugh Marsh, after a conference with Fairfax police, has ordered all witnesses in the case to appear for questioning Saturday morning.

This will include all those who attended the party held by Plank, Friday night, July 4, in the home of his sister, Mrs. Nellie Burrer, 4108 Forest la., Chesterbrook Woods, Fairfax; his sister, her son, Donald, who found the body, and neighbors.

Marsh and police will also re-examine Alvah B. Martin, 29-year-old ex-convict who was arrested five days after the death by Kingston, N. Y., police, driving Plank's car.

Martin admitted spending Friday night with Plank and admitted taking his car but made conflicting statements as to the time he left Plank.

After the conference with police yesterday Marsh expressed the opinion that they did not have enough evidence to support a charge of murder against Martin.

He is currently being held at the Fairfax County Jail on a charge of larceny of the automobile.

Farmers to View Beetle, Fly Control

A tour of Montgomery County will be made by Maryland county agents and leading farmers on July 25 to observe the county's Japanese beetle and fly-control program, County Agent O. W. Anderson said yesterday.

The county agents and farmers will observe different types of spray equipment, see the operation and exchange ideas as well as review the entire program, Anderson said.

26-Year-Old Veteran's Death Ruled Suicide

Romney, W. Va., July 17.—The death of John N. Day, 26, World War II veteran, was held a suicide by Hampshire County Coroner A. L. Russell here yesterday after an investigation which showed the man had shot himself with a pistol in the head Monday at his home at Points.

Day was a member of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Moose. He had been in the Army Medical Corps and served with the armed forces for 38 months with overseas service in Europe.

Farmer Killed in Fall From Top of Hay Load

A Montgomery County farmer unloading hay from a wagon yesterday fell from the top of the hay load to the barn floor and was killed instantly.

The farmer, Charles F. Burdette, 48, of Browningsville, received a fractured skull and a broken neck in the fall. A certificate of accidental death was issued.

Newport News District Court Hears 15 Cases

Newport News, Va., July 17 (AP).—More than 15 cases were heard during the morning session of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia today, which was held in two sections.

Presiding over court in the main courtroom was Judge Albert V. Bryan, while Judge Sterling Hutcheson held court in the library of the postoffice building.

Causing quite a disturbance during Judge Bryan's session, was testimony given by a witness in defense of his stepson, John H. Blunt, stepfather of Ralph A. Massenburg, charged with illegal veterans compensation claims, took the stand, denying vehemently that the defendant had earned any money during the time which he was receiving veterans compensation.

He said that on occasions he had given Massenburg money and admitted that he had done odd jobs for him. He declared, however, that he would have given the boy money anyway, since he felt it was his duty as a parent.

He denied that the small amount he offered the defendant was for payment of any services rendered by him. During and following his testimony, he shouted "That's the truth," "That's the truth."

The case was dismissed.

Reporting that he was confused without intent to defraud, Elijah Haywood, 365 44th st., charged with a "52-20" misdemeanor, received a suspended sentence for a period of one year on the condition that he repay the amount in excess of what the law permits.

Upon motion of Assistant District Attorney L. S. Richardson that the case against Ricks Ernest Johnson, charged with violation of veterans compensations claims, be dismissed, the motion was sustained.

Eugene F. Griffin, Negro, charged similarly, received a suspended sentence for a period of two years, on the condition that he make restitution for the amount unlawfully obtained.

Armstrong, 55, Ex-Captain In Navy, Dies

Capt. Daniel W. Armstrong, USNR, 55, of New York City, who received a bronze star for meritorious services in directing Negro Navy personnel in the Pacific during World War II, fell dead Wednesday while playing tennis in New York.

Captain Armstrong, who served here during part of the recent war, was grauated from the Naval Academy in 1915 and commanded a destroyer during World War I. He transferred to the Reserve in 1919 with a rank of lieutenant.

During the period between wars, he was employed by the Eastern States Petroleum Co., Inc., in New York. Returning to active duty in 1940, as a lieutenant commander, he served here in the Bureau of Ordnance until May, 1942.

At that time, Captain Armstrong, whose father, Brig. Gen. Samuel C. Armstrong, had established Hampton Institute in 1867, was sent to the Navy's Great Lakes Training Station to direct Negro personnel. In 1944 he was transferred to similar duties for the Pacific area on the staff of the commander of Service Forces.

He left the Navy in March, 1946, with the rank of captain.

Riverdale Zoning Plan Is Outlined

A comprehensive zoning plan the town of Riverdale in Prince Georges County was outlined to residents of the community last night by Fred W. Tuemmler, director of planning for the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Prepared as part of a "master plan" for the suburban Maryland area adjacent to the District, the proposal would create 14 zoning classifications to replace the present five categories, Tuemmler said.

A map outlining the proposed new zone districts also was presented.

Some Apartments Allowed

According to the commission's plan, most of the area in the town has been designated for single-family construction. Some apartment construction is authorized along the Baltimore blvd. where commercial zones also would be set up.

In response to questioning, Tuemmler said the zoning plan is an attempt to adjust the use of land to uses already predominant and to utilize property in the town for purposes best suited.

Another informal public meeting dealing with the proposed plan will be held at 8 p. m. today in the County Service Building, Hyattsville.

Sixth Meeting In Series

This meeting, sixth in a series of similar informal gatherings, will offer to residents of Mount Rainier, Brentwood, North Brentwood, Cottage City, Colmar Manor and adjacent areas an opportunity to study the proposals.

An official public meeting will be held later in accordance with law.

E. T. Swenson To Head Md. Penitentiary

Baltimore, July 17 (AP).—The Maryland Board of Correction today named Lieut. Col. Edwin T. Swenson, commandant of the U. S. Disciplinary Barracks at Green Haven, N. Y., to be the new warden of Maryland Penitentiary here.

Swenson is expected to take over when he obtains his release from the Army about September 1. He succeeds Patrick J. Brady, who is retiring.

The 44-year-old Army man has devoted most of his life to penal work. He is a native of Minnesota and worked in that State's prison system from 1927 to 1941.

While deputy warden of the Minnesota State Prison at Stillwater he was called to active service with the National Guard and led a battalion which participated in the assault landing at Algiers, North Africa, in 1942.

He has been commandant at Green Haven since 1946. The place has an average prisoner population of 2000.

U. S. Flag Denotes Absence

Annapolis, Md., July 17 (AP).—The American flag flies these days from the State house dome—signifying the absence of Governor Lane.

By tradition, the Maryland flag is flown from the State House when the Governor is in Annapolis. The State banner gives way to the national flag only on special national holidays and when the Chief Executive is absent.

Ready to Open Hospital

Hagerstown, Md., July 17 (AP).—Officials reported they were ready for the long-delayed opening of the chronic disease hospital at Camp Ritchie as soon as the State Employment Commission certifies staff personnel from examinations held last month.

Equipment shortages and lack of personnel both have contributed to opening of the hospital.

Probe Pollution Sources

Annapolis, Md., July 17 (AP).—The Annapolis Civitan Club is taking up the challenge of Dr. William J. French, county health officer, regarding pollution in College Creek. Members of the club are going to investigate possible sources of pollution with a view to eliminating them.

Auditor Hits Bookkeeping At Hospital

Richmond, Va., July 17 (AP).—Methods of accounting and collection of bills were criticized today in an audit of the Medical College of Virginia by State Auditor J. Gordon Bennett.

In an annual report to Governor Tuck and the MCV board of visitors, Bennett said he found poor accounting procedures and incomplete bill collecting. He recommended employment of a credit manager. He conceded that in recent months steps have been taken to improve operations.

In the hospital division, Bennett noted the fiscal year was completed with a deficit of $170,193 and, on June 30, 1946, from accounts receivable of $544,040, delinquent accounts totalled $304,438. Of this sum $138,888 was reported as "uncollectible."

Bennett said the condition of the records made it clear that for months "the institutional authorities were unable to determine what the financial condition of the institution was."

The auditor pointed out that while he was mindful of the social aspects of hospitalization, he felt arrangements should be made with a patient when he is admitted, or as soon thereafter as possible, for payment of hospital bills. This, he said, would require an extremely competent credit manager.

He criticized handling of accounts in the emergency rooms of both MCV and St. Philip's hospitals and suggested a cashier be employed in each place and treatment handled as much as possible on a cash basis.

Henry McCoy Sims

Funeral services for Henry McCoy Sims, 56, of Rockville, Md., will be held today at 9:15 a. m. in the Pumphrey funeral home, Rockville.

The Arlington contractor who had lived in Rockville for 15 years died suddenly at his home, 300 W Montgomery ave., on Wednesday.

Following a short service in Rockville, the body will be moved to the Fort Myer Chapel for another service prior to burial in Arlington Cemetery.

A veteran of World War I, Mr. Sims was overseas for 24 months. He was seriously wounded in action. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Bethesda and the Henderson-Smith-Edmonds American Legion Post, Rockville.

A native of Brevard, N. C., he moved here about 15 years ago and until his death was a partner in the building and real estate firm of Behm and Sims, Arlington, Va.

Beside his wife, Mrs. Olivia Kerby Sims, of Rockville, he leaves his 91-year-old mother, Mrs. Sara Allison Sims; a sister, Mrs. Leta Brown, and a brother, Charles T. Sims, all of Brevard, N. C.

Thomas H. R. Clarke

Military services for Thomas H. R. Clarke, Spanish-American War veteran and retired District Deputy Recorder of Deeds, were held yesterday at Arlington Cemetry.

Mr. Clarke, 79, a lifelong Washington resident, died Tuesday at his home, 1225 T st. nw., after three months illness.

He was a graduate of Howard University Law School. In 1898 he entered the Army as a second lieutenant, rose to first lieutenant and judge advocate and was acting regimental adjutant of the Eighth U. S. Volunteer Infantry. He was a member of the Charles M. Thomas Camp, SWV, Federal Annuitants Relief Association, and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Mr. Clarke clerked in Treasury from 1902 to 1916, then was in the real estate business until 1935. He served as deputy recorder of deeds for the District until his retirement in 1938.

Surviving is his widow, Mrs. Alta Webb Clarke, of the T st. address.

Henry Kolker

Hollywood, July 17 (AP).—Henry Kolker, 76 veteran stage and screen actor, died Tuesday. Funeral services will be held Saturday with burial in suburban Glendale.

Kolker, who began his drama career with a stock company in 1895, was born in Quincy, Ill. He entered motion pictures in 1925 and appeared in scores of films, some of them with Mary Pickford and Jean Harlow. Surviving is his widow, Margaret.

Congress Lacks Confidence, Robertson Says

Staunton, Va., July 17 (AP).—Senator A. Willis Robertson (D., Va.) declared here tonight that the present session of Congress "has been characterized by turmoil and confidence in what the future holds in store for us has been notably lacking."

"Never in the history of our Nation," said the junior Virginia Senator in a speech at a joint meeting of Rotary and Ruritan clubs, "have the tasks that confronted a Congress been of greater magnitude than those of the past six months.

"They transcends the normal consideration of the general welfare and embrace a threat to the perpetuity of democratic institutions and even the possibility of fulfilling the prediction of H. G. Wells, who said 'civilization, which commenced in a cave and behind a windbreak, will end in the disease-soaked ruins of a slum.'"

Robertson p.edicted that if the price inflation which has occurred since the end of the war continues for another six months it will eventuate "in a depression of more serious consequences than the one that followed World War I."

Robertson said he considered the United States' principal international problem centered around plans for a lasting peace and after reviewing recent revenue policies of the Federal Government, he said "the present best guess" is that the budget appropriations by Congress for the fiscal year 1948 will amount to 35 billion dollars.

J. A. High, 57 Contractor, Deis in Home

Joseph A. High, 57, plumbing contractor, died late Wednesday night at his home, 1821 Parkside dr. nw., after a brief illness.

A native of Washington, he attended local schools and established his own firm here some 35 years ago, at 1215 13th st. nw.

He was a member of the Washington Board of Trade, Washington Executives Association and the Benjamin B. French Masonic Lodge, No. 15.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Carrie High; two daughters, Mrs. Frances G. Cannond and Mrs. Jane Ellen Fridley; two sisters, Mrs. Nettie Franklin and Mrs. Mabel Grimes, and three grandchildren, all of Washington.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 11 a. m. at the residence. Burial will be private in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

In Md. Election

Void Ballots May Hit Total Of 60,000

By The Associated Press

Charles Ruzicka, counsel for D. John Markey, defeated Republican who is contesting the election last fall of Senator O'Conor, Maryland Democrat, said yesterday a recount of 140,000 votes in 17 State counties was expected to result in 60,000 contested ballots.

Ruzicka told reporters that 20,000 of a total of 42,000 votes in Baltimore County alone had been challenged by attorneys for either Markey or O'Conor.

The Senate Rules Committee laid down procedure to be followed in judging whether a ballot is valid or invalid. These rules adhere strictly to the Maryland law, which states ballots with any other identifying mark than an X in the box should be thrown out.

Under this formula, ballots, for example, with a dash or dot on the face would be invalid.

Ruzicka said, however, that attorneys debated now on such questions as "whether a dot is a light dot or a heavy dot."

He said the present rate of progress in ruling on the disputed ballots was "200 to 300" a day. He added it was hoped to speed this up to 2000 daily.

O'Conor won the election by an official State margin of 2232, a lead which was whittled down by 426 in a recheck of voting machine totals in Baltimore city and Montgomery County.

Mrs. Mary A. T. Kingsley

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Amos Tumlin Kingsley, 54, wife of the president of the board of the Norfolk & Southern Railway, will be held tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. at Fort Myer Chapel. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

Mrs. Kingsley died of a heart attack Tuesday night at the Cavalier Hotel, Virginia Beach. She accompanied her husband, Joseph T. Kingsley, to Virginia Beach where he was attending meetings of the board of the Norfolk & Western Railway & Bus Corp. The Kingsley home is at 412 N. Cherry st., Falls Church, Va.

Counting Pennies with Carolyn

Have you visited the Shirlington Business Center? What a treat! You'll find it the real shopper's paradise. It is planned for shopping comfort and pleasure, out of the rush and bustle of the hot city. There's parking space, and plenty of it. You needn't be an expert to park here. Once parked, you're right in the heart of things—a step from every shop.

These Shirlington stores stay open for your convenience every Friday night until nine—all day Saturday until six P.M. now, and all year round.

What a convenience to know that Shirlington is waiting to serve you these summer week-ends when you must have something in a hurry.

A. S. Beck's modern air-conditioned store was our first call, in search of a white handbag. We found the very one we wanted—a gleaming white plastic patent—in a group of summer bags at much reduced prices. With vacation in mind we also picked up a little beauty of a cosmetic case known as "Powers Model" because it's a miniature hat box like the cover girls carry . . . it cost less than two dollars! A glance at the thunderous sky caused us to invest in a 16-rib rayon taffeta umbrella . . . very special for less than three dollars.

Some lovely matched lingerie in the window of Ann Lewis' spacious air-cooled shop caught our eye. Stepping inside we found Playtex girdles, the ones that "come clean" with a damp cloth, had just arrived. Thinking how it eliminates one more garment in summer, we were delighted to find something new to us . . . panties with built-in garter belts.

A stop at the Hot Shoppes solved the "Where and What to Eat" problem for one hot night! We went in to order a dish of ice cream, but came out with a frozen, pre-cooked chicken, a quart of potato salad, and an ice cream pie. What food! Had it been cooler, we would have taken along spaghetti, Boston baked beans, chow mein, or a dozen other melt-in-your mouth specialties. Doesn't thinking about it make your mouth water?

Jerry's Kiddies' Center answered our prayer for Juniors' needed socks. There, too, we fell for a raw silk shirt for the young man. It was only a little more than a dollar in Jerry's July sale of children's overalls, sunsuits, beach sets, and boys' shorts, all by famous children's wear makers.

Ted Louis men's shop has those sports shirts friend husband needs for his vacation. Two buttonless Hollywood Rogue shirts, a blue and tan, were easy to locate in his wonderful sports shirt collection, from under three dollars now. We just couldn't resist two pair of knee-length seersucker pajamas he'd been looking for all summer.

Brand new, shining and efficient looking with its enormous stock of just about everything you and your household need right at hand and easy to find—that's the impression you get of the Shirlington Business Center Woolworth's. It's a super-duper store! We were very happy to find paper plates and napkins for our Sunday picnics—and some generously large Cannon terry towels at a price we haven't seen for years!

Sunburn's "no joke son," as we found to our sorrow. So we resolved to get one of those terry shirts men are so fond of. Woodrow's Men's Shop had an ample supply in tan or blue, for less than two dollars each, and if we'd been a man we would certainly have come away with a pair of Hawaiian motif shorts, too. Being mere woman, we were content with beach shoes, men's but small enough to fit us.

Once you've tried it, you'll agree with us that summer shopping is really a "breeze" at Shirlington.

Nagy Places Stalin, Hitler In Same Class

The "fires now breaking out in southeastern and eastern Europe" are threatening the whole world with conflagration.

Nagy

This assertion was made here yesterday by Ferenc Nagy, who was ousted as Hungarian Prime Minister by Communist pressure.

Addressing the Junior Board of Commerce luncheon meeting at the Hotel Burlington, through an interpeter, Nagy declared, "Just as you couldn't do business with Hitler, so you can't do business with Stalin."

In a question period after his talk, the former Premier, who came to this country to work for the restoration of Hungary's freedom, said the Soviet system has the same aim and methods as the Nazi system had.

Hopes for U. N. Aid

He said he "hoped" the United Nations could check the Soviet power without the use of a police force.

Nagy was accompanied by his former minister to the United States, Aladar Szegedy-Maszak, the former legation counselor, Steven Borosody, and others of the staff who resigned after the Communist coup in Hungary.

His interpreter was W. L. Hauser, 8104 Piney Branch rd., Silver Spring, Md., native of Hungary, who came to this country in 1914 and recently retired from Government work.

Tried to Cooperate

The former head of the Smallholders' Party in Hungary said he had tried to cooperate with the occupation forces of Soviet Russia, hoping to postpone the crisis until the Soviet troops should be withdrawn. The Communists, he added, "are not looking for cooperation, but for power."

One cannot compromise with such a political ideology, Nagy emphasized, because in southeastern Europe now "you are either in power or in jail," he said.

Hungary has an outward appearance of religious freedom only, nobody is safe., the unions are under state control and "everything will be done under a blueprint drawn in advance" instead of through free enterprise, the former Premier declared.

The only solution, Nagy concluded, is "for the large powers to make it possible for the small countries to express their will on what kind of governments they shall have."

Silesia Citizens Ask Improved Roads, Telephones

Plans to fight for improved roads and telephone service were announced yesterday by the Broad Creek Citizens' Association of Silesia, Md.

A spokesman said the Association will appeal to county and State authorities to link existing roads with a Federal highway now being built through Silesia. The group will press for a telephone dial system. A committee will investigate dumping of trash in the Potomac River, Broad Creek and along the highway.

Arlington Women Hear Candidates

Eleven Arlington candidates in the Democratic primary for county and State offices yesterday spoke at a luncheon meeting of the Organized Women Voters at the Evans Coffee Shop, 4770 Lee highway.

The meeting, presided over by Mrs. Herbert Marcey, is held annually by the group to give Democratic candidates opportunity to state their platforms.

Speakers yesterday were: incumbent Charles R. Fenwick and Frank L. Ball, jr., for State Senate; Albert Carretta, C. Harrison Mann, and incumbents George Damm and J. Maynard Magruder for House of Delegates; incumbent Harry K. Green for commissioner of revenue; Malcolm Miller and Denman T. Rucker for Commonwealth's attorney, and Clarence Hodges and incumbent Hugh Reid for trial justice.

Entertainment Planned At St. Anna's Home

A program for elderly guests of St. Anna's Home, 2224 N st. nw., will be given Sunday at 4 p. m. at the Home by the Daughters of the King, an organization of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, it was announced yesterday.

Mrs. Henrietta Perkins, who will lead the program said it would consist of a talk, Scripture reading and singing, followed by refreshments.

50 St. Vincent's Girls Spending July at Camp

Fifty girls of St. Vincent's Home and School, 4th and Channing sts. ne., are enjoying a month's vacation at Camp St. Rose, on Seton Point, Mayo, Md., it was announced yesterday.

The girls, six to eleven years of age, will return here August 1, when a group of the Home's older girls will take their turn at the camp.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Yankees Win 19th in Row, Tie Record

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

CHICAGO, JULY 17.—Rocky Graziano, the uncombed, untamed alley fighter who is the new middleweight champion of the world, was the devoted parent, alive to his responsibilities, an hour after he won the title.

POVICH

"What happened, Daddy?" asked his 3-year-old daughter, Audrey, when the new champion walked into his Chicago hotel apartment after his torrid battle with Tony Zale.

The child's curiosity was understandable. Graziano's right eye was all but swollen shut and he wore a 3-inch patch at the brow over his left eye. Rocky, the opportunist, didn't miss the opening.

"See this, kid," he said, pointing to his wounds. "Stay out of the gutter. Little girls get hurt if they play in the gutter. This is what you get if you play in the streets."

Rocky is going to be the most quotable champion that ever came down the pike. He says what he feels like saying, in the language of the street fighter, but he told newspapermen today, "Clean it up for me, will ya, I don't want people to think I'm such a dope."

He's completely uninhibited, as the radio audience heard after the fight when he said, "Hello, mama, your bad boy did it. The black sheep's the champ now."

To newspapermen who asked him if he would fight a return match in Chicago with Zale, he said "Yeah, maybe. I like Chicago. They treat me pretty good here."

HOW WERE ROCKY'S eyes in late rounds; he couldn't see so well in the last rounds, they suggested. "Yeah, I couldn't see him pretty good." Rocky repeated, "That's right, I couldn't see him pretty good at all."

As for Jake LaMotta, the fellow who is rated his challenger in the middleweight class, Rocky said he'd fight him any time. "Why not," said Graziano. "I used to beat him in the streets all the time without getting a dime for it."

He called the knockout in the sixth, Rocky said. "At the end of the fifth I told Irving Cohen in my corner, "I'll get him in the sixth because that was the round he said he was gonna get me in."

The second Zale-Graziano brawl was almost the reverse of their New York battle. This time it was Rocky who was hurt and came back to win a sixth-round knockout as the desperate Zale had done 10 months ago. Graziano's victory nailed the impression that he might dog it when he was hurt.

"Tell 'em I was fighting three men last night," said Rocky. "I was fighting Egan, Hogan and Zale, and I wasn't mad at Zale so much as I was the other two." (Note—Egan is the New York boxing commission chairman who revoked Rocky's license, and Hogan is the district attorney who grilled him so relentlessly on the story of the alleged $100,000 bribe offer that brought his suspension.)

IT WAS WITH SUDDENNESS that the battle tide turned at Chicago. During the third round, Graziano was a seemingly beaten fighter, helpless to protect himself from Zale's sharpshooting, and on one occasion turning his back on the champion as if trying to find a streetcar out of the ring. But in the fourth round, Zale was arm weary. He weaved Graziano into easy openings, but Zale's fists wouldn't respond. The champion was starting on his way out.

There was merit to the claims of Zale's handlers that the unholy heat from the stadium lights helped to wilt their 33-year-old champion. Ringsiders and the working press were in heavy perspiration from the 40 strong lights that shined down on the fighters. The air conditioning was, paradoxically, a frost. There wasn't any despite the claims of stadium officials that there would be.

But Zale's claim that Referee Johnny Behr stopped the fight too soon is absurd. The champion was done in as he struggled off the ropes after taking 13 punches to the head, by actual count, from the enraged challenger. Behr did the sensible thing when he pulled Graziano away from the groggy Zale.

One more punch and Zale might have been dead wrong in his desire to continue the fight.

Oliver Sets Mark of 131 In Canadian

Toronto, July 17 (AP).—Ed Oliver, the hefty Wilmington, Del., pro, set a blistering race today in the second round of the Canadian open golf championship, establishing a double-round record of 131 for the open and equalling the Scarboro club's competitive course of 63.

Oliver's sensational eight-under-par sent him three strokes ahead of Bobby Locke, the South African money player who carded a five-under-par 66 today and set his two-round score at 134.

Oliver set the fashion for the long-driving boys who had a field day under a scorching sun. Eagles were made with amazing frequency—eight in all, and they came after long drives to the greens at five different holes.

He Lowers Little's Record

Oliver's 131 for the two rounds bettered the old mark of 133 made by Lawson Little of Cleveland when he won the open in 1936. Oliver's 63 for today's play matched the mark made in 1938 by Amateur Don Carrick of the Scarboro club.

Locke, three strokes away from Oliver, was nevertheless the closest although more than two score players were under par for 36 holes.

Nearest to Locke, at 136, came Clayton Haefner of Charlotte, N. C., who had a 67 yesterday, and Bobby Gray, the host professional, who shot a four-under-par 67 today.

Palmer Goes Up to 73

Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., who led yesterday with a 66, couldn't keep up the pace and took a 73 today, two over par, for a 139 total.

Gray's 136 was best of the Canadian entrants, but one stroke behind came Nick Wisnock of Detroit—who uses the famfly spelling "Westlock" there—but was formerly from the Scarboro Club.

Wisnock stayed under par with a 70 today. Also with 137 were Ed Furgol of Pontiac, Mich., who shot a 65 today, and Tony Penna, Cincinnati, with a five-under 66.

They're Talking About Third Bout Between Graziano, Zale

By Sid Feder

Chicago, July 17 (AP).—They were cooking up an official hero's homecoming parade today for Rocky Graziano and his brand new middleweight championship along the streets of Brooklyn. The Rock-A-Bye Kid headed east to get into it, as the build up to a third Graziano-Tony Zale thriller began.

The cheif buzzing in this respect centered around where the third of these hair-raisers would spread its thrill-a-second shocks among the fans.

The best guesses were that it would be Chicago or Philadelphia or Cleveland or even New York—were Rocky is still barred—depending on where a big enough building could be found to hold all the customers who'd want to sit in on it. The huge Atlantic City Auditorium also was mentioned.

Last night's No. 2 brawl in Chicago stadium—the first was in New York last year—drew 18,267 fans who contributed to a record indoor gate of $422,009.18.

One thing is certain—thriller No. three can't be held until late October or November, because while Rocky has the title, he also has some fancy souvenirs from his six-round technical knockouot victory over game Tony, which evened things for his six-round knockout defeat by the Indiana steel mill hand last September.

These souvenirs included a sliced left eye, which was still held together with clamps today, and a right eye which was shut tight.

Rocky took these assorted mementoes of the mauling home with him by train after he was informed of the homecoming Brooklyn is cooking up. Rocky hails originally from Manhattan's lower East Side streets, but lives in Brooklyn now, and Brooklyn boro president John Cashmore phoned him today to tell him about the frolics planned in his honor.

Meantime, a disappointed Zale was looking ahead to the third meeting, with the quiet prediction that he wanted to "try Rocky once more, because I'm sure I can lick him."

As a matter of fact, for all the scars of battle on him, he looked far moore the winner than Rocky.

Panama Ace Capital Victor

George Stewart, tennis champion of Panama, won his opening match in the National Capitol Open tournament yesterday at Banneker Recreation Center. Top-seeded Stewart stroked out a 6—0, 6—1 victory over Sheridan Perry of Washington.

Yesterday's men's singles results:

Moses Campbell (Washington) defeated Robert Jackson (Washington), 6—0, 6—3; Ted Thompson (Washington) defeated Dave Robinson (Washington), 6—2, 6—3; LeRoy Millender (Washington) defeated John Gordon (Washington), 6—0, 6—2; Jack Wells (Tuskegee, Ala.) defeated Lafayette Flourey (Washington), 6—1, 6—3; William Roulhac (Washington) defeated Vic Lawson (Washington), 6—0, 6—2; Douglas Henderson (Baltimore) defeated Stanley Brant (Washington), 6—1, 6—4; George Stewart (Panama) defeated Sheridan Perry (Washington), 6—0, 6—1; Dr. J. L. McGriff (Portsmouth, Va.) defeated Sherman Sheppard (Washington), 6—1, 6—1; David Thompson (Hartford, Conn.) defeated Jack Harris (Washington), 6—0, 6—4; Art Williams (Washington) defeated Louis Moore(. Washington), 6—0, 6—2.

Babe Easy Winner In Broadmoor Golf

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 17 (AP).—Babe Didrikson Zaharias of Denver paced favorites through the second round of the Broadmoor Women's Invitational Golf Tournament with a 6 and 5 decision over Marilyn Smith of Wichita, Kans.

The top-ranked entrants who had easy triumphs were Polly Blanton of Enid, Oklahoma, a 6 and 5 winner against Mrs. Kay Pearson of Houston, Tex., and Dot Kielty of Los Angeles who swamped Mrs. Isobel Defiore of Pueblo, Colo., 7 and 5. Mrs. George Noble of Dallas ousted Mrs. Virgil Proctor of Colorado Springs, 4 and 3. Mrs. Zaharias and Mrs. Blanton will meet in tomorrow's third round and Mrs. Kielty will be matched with Mrs. Noble.

Browns Sign Two Negroes

St. Louis, July 17 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns signed today two Negro players, outfielder Willard Brown and infielder Henry Thompson of the Kansas City Monarchs of the Negro American League, General Manager Bill Dewitt announced. They will be in uniform and available for duty in tonight's game.

The Browns also have purchased a 30-day option to buy Negro infielder Lorenzo Davis of the Birmingham Black Barons, also of the Negro American League.

Dewitt said the contracts of Brown and Thompson were purchased from the Kansas City Negro club through the cooperation of Tom Baird, one of the owners of the Monarchs.

Signing of the pair put the Browns two over the player limit but Dewit said that two other players would be dropped.

Brown has been with the Kansas City club for more than 10 years and is considered a heavy hitter. Thompson has played with the Monarchs four years. Thompson currently is batting .347 and Brown .333.

Owner Richard Muckerman of the Browns said the players were signed "to help lift the Browns out of the American League Cellar."

Davis, who has been hitting .361 with the Birmingham club, will remain with the club and the Browns will continue to scout him before deciding whether he should be signed.

Dodgers Bow Again to Bucs

Brooklyn, July 17 (AP).—Pittsburgh's revised Pirates today plastered another defeat on the record of the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers who next tangle with the St. Louis Cardinals, pennant favorites who moved into the first division recently.

Today's defeat was by a 7 to 1 score and was manufactured on the steady hurling of Mel Queen, making his first start as a Pirate since leaving the New York Yankees, and the home run knocks of Ralph Kiner, Hank Greenberg and Jimmy Bloodworth.

All the circuit smashes came in the fourth inning with the bases empty. Kiner's was his 23rd, tying the Pittsburgh club record set by Jonny Rizzo and equaled last year by Kiner. It was No. 15 for Greenberg and No. 5 for Bloodworth, recently recalled from Indianapolis.

Semi-Pro Play Opens Monday

Frederick, Md., July 17 (AP).—Pairings for the first round of the Maryland semi-pro baseball tournament here July 21-27 were announced today.

Monday in the twilight curtain-raiser, Colesville of the Montgomery League, meets Andrews Field, one of three service teams entered. The Frederick Hustlers oppose Damascus of the Tri-County League in a night game.

Tuesday night's card pits Westvaco of Westernport, against the Bolling Field nine of Washington, at 6:30 o'clock and Brunswick of the Tri-County League, against Aberdeen Proving Ground under the lights.

The survivor of the State scramble goes to Charlottesville, Va., early next month for the regional tournament. National finalists will travel to Wichita, Kans., late in August to battle for the United States championship.

4 Yanks Win In French Net

Paris, July 17 (AP).—Four feminine stars from the United States pushed aside all opposition today and entered the semifinals of the French International Tennis Championships, assuring an all-American scrap for the women's singles title.

Wimbledon Champion Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, who won here in 1946 by defeating Pauline Betz in the finals, moved within two notches of another title when she eliminated Susy Kormoczy of Hungary, 6—0, 6—3.

Her opponent in the semifinals will be Mrs. Pat Todd of Hidden Valley, Calif., who swept past Lucia Manfredi of Italy, 6—1, 6—4.

Doris Hart of Miami, Fla., Wimbledon runner-up, stopped Mrs. Magda Rurak of Romania, 6—3, 6—4, to reach the semifinals

Neurotic Nats Lose Two More, 7-5, 4-3

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Detroit, July 17.—The Tigers beat the Nats today and you can say that over again, because the Tigers beat the Nats twice. For the Washington club, which had lost a 7-5 game earlier in the afternoon, the second defeat was more painful. The Nats blew that one in the ninth, 4-3.

Young Eddie Yost had the second ball game in his glove for a fleeting moment in the hectic ninth inning of the second game when he speared a line drive for the second out with the bases full and the Nats leading 3-2.

And then with a bright chance for a game-ending double play, Yost threw wild to second, the tying run scoring, and set the scenery for a winning single by Hal Wagner that followed.

Chic Pieretti, five-hit conqueror of the Tigers yesterday, who was entrusted with the Nats' one-run lead in the ninth of the second game, was the losing pitcher. He asked for it when he walked the tying run on base to start the ninth.

Bluege, Scarborough Chased

The opening game had its hectic sequences, too. Manager Ossie Bluege ad Pitcher Ray Scarborough of the Nats were thumbed out of the contest when they wrangled with Umpire Jim Boyer on a disputed steal of home by George Kell in the fourth inning.

Coach Clyde Milan took over direction of the Nats from that point, with Bluege directed to a seat in the grandstands.

Stan Spence hit two home runs in vain for the Nats in the first game. Each blow was a two-run wallop, but the Tigers had rapped Mickey Haefner out of the box with four runs in the first inning to offset a 3-0 lead given up by Al Benton.

Sid Hudson was forced to withdraw from the second game after figuring in a 1-1 duel with Virgil Trucks for six innings. A home run by Roy Cullenbine into the right field stands moved the Tigers in front, 2-1 in the seventh, and Hudson registered pain in his right shoulder. Tom Ferrick took over for the Nats.

Yost Misses Winning Play

Going into the ninth trailing by a run, the Nats stirred up two quick ones to move in front, 3-2.

Al Evans opened up with a two-bagger to center and Pinch-Hitter Early Wynn followed with a duplicate to tie the score. Yost's bunt was of no account, and Sullivan, running for Wynn was out at third, but Buddy Lewis revived hopes with a single to right that put Yost on third.

Southpaw Frank Overmire moved in and walked McBride to fill the bases, whereupon Mickey Vernon got a run home with a fly to Wertz in right that gave the Nats a 3-2 margin.

With 12,999 Detroit fans begging for a Tiger rally, Cullenbine was walked in the home ninth as Pieretti's first act, and Pieretti was in deep trouble when Wakefield singled to left. Outlaw, running for Cullenbine, moved to second, and Kell sacrificed them along.

In this crisis, Pieretti gave a deliberate pass to Wertz to fill the bases and Cramer lined a hot drive toward left. Yost speared it with a sensational dive and with a chance to double Wertz off second threw the ball away.

The tying run scored and after Mayo was purposely passed to refill the bases, Wagner sent the winning run and the 12,999 fans home, with his single to right.

The first game was enlivened by an argument that led to the ban-

No. 10 for Dobson

Bosox Snare 2d in 11, 6-3, Opener 4 to 1

Chicago, July 17 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox took a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox today, 4 to1 and 6 to 3, scoring three runs in the eleventh inning to win the second game.

Joe Dobson became the American League's sixth 10-game winner by limiting Chicago to six hits in the opener. Johnny Pesky and rookie Sam Mele got three hits apiece to account for half of Boston's 12 swats.

Trailing 3-0 going into the eighth, Dave Ferriss' pinch single accounted for the Red Sox' first run.

Wally Moses walked to open the ninth and Ted Williams flied out. Bobby Doerr hit his ninth home run of the year, scoring Moses, to post a 3-3 tie.

Williams got his second single to open the Red Sox eleventh. Doerr sacrificed and Dominic DiMaggio was purposely passed. Gordon Maltzberger, third White Sox pitcher, stalled trouble by striking out Murrell Jones.

Birdie Tebbetts then singled Williams home and Earl Johnson, fourth Boston pitcher, doubled to score DiMaggio and Tebbetts to assure his fifth victory of the season.

Tap Lightly and Colored Boy Finish Race in Dead Heat

Bennings . . .

At Charles Town

Dear Folks:

Jockey Henry Romaine was suspended for the remaining four days of the meeting here. When I first heard about it I thought it must be for riding too good. However, the Stewards say he did some rough riding in the first race aboard Dusty Moment, the even money favorite. He didn't get beat on one then come back with a silly grin on his face. We have seen the last the horse Happy Moose around here. After hurting a couple of good boys like Willie Nertney and Eddie Hopkins it is no wonder the horse has been barred. He shouldn't have gotten the second chance. When Ariel Legend won it was the 18th winner of the meeting for Trainer Henry Houchin and the Virginian virtually sewed up the trainer honors for the meeting. John Foster has taken over Mrs. E. A. Deaner's Karakal to train. Jockey Jimmy Baird has passed the 50 mark in the number of winners. Sammy Palumbo is second with 39. R. L. Livingston has purchased Lady Doctor from F. Pence. See you on the rail. BILL.

Rider Hurt At Start as Horse Bolts

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., July 17.—Battling on even terms from the head of the stretch, A. August's Colored Boy, ridden by Jockey Jimmy Baird, and G. Pell's Tap Lightly, with Stanley Austin up, finished in a dead heat today in the featured Morgantown Purse.

The rivals hooked up in their struggle for third position on the backstretch and carried the battle right into the wire. Five lengths back was Tonio Simon's Singing Sun to show.

In the split win payoff, Colored Boy returned $4.20, while Tap Lightly earned his backers $3.60. The pair were clocked in 1:27 for approximately seven furlongs over a fast track.

Apprentice Jockey Eddie Hopkins was injured before the field got away and his mount, J. E. Crider's Happy Moose, was ordered scratched. Hopkins suffered a possible fracture of the right leg.

Race A Thriller

The accident was similar to the one involving the same horse here last Saturday, when Jockey Nertney suffered a dislocated arm. Happy Moose without warning dived head-first under the starting gate, Hopkins going high in the air before hitting the track.

The race was a thriller throughout. The favorite, Wayne Kendrick's Psychic Fancy, went to the front early and then Singing Sun forged into command as the Kendrick mare quit. Tap Lightly, rated to this point, was joined on the outside by Colored Boy.

Approaching the stretch, Singing Sun tired and the ding-dong battle of Colored Boy and Tap Lightly was on. So obvious was the dead-heat that several of the press box occupants called it.

The sixth race, another purse affair, went to Virginia McKenney's Ariel Legend with Jockey Woody Kirk keeping the six-year-old mare in front all the way.

D. C., Brooklyn Stars Play Here

Griff Tosses 1st Ball in Boys Game

Selected teams from the Boys' Clubs of Washington adn Brooklyn tehethe field at Griffith Stadium at 8:00 tonight in the Capital City's own all-star baseball game with a sizable turnout expected.

The Touchdown and Optimist Clubs of Washington, and Clark Griffith, owner of the Nats, are sponsors of the second annual intercity game, all proceeds to go to the Boys' Club athletic fund.

Some of the big names of baseball, Griffith, Joe Judge, former Nat first baseman, Billy Werber, a star for many years with the Red Sox, Yanks, Reds and Athletics, and Coach Nick Altrock of the Nats, will be one hand.

Griff will toss out the first ball, Judge will be honorary manager of the Washington club, and Werber honorary pilot of Brooklyn.

There'll be plenty of sideline color. Altrock will go through his comedy routine before the game.

And accompanying the Flatbush team will be the six-man Brooklyn "Sym-phoney" band, whtich entertains behin the dugout when the Dodgers are at home. Fans may see the Brooklyn Boys' Club manager, Jack (Shorty) Laurice come out and lead the band, which is patterned after Spike Jones' outfit. Shorty wields the baton for the "Sym-phoney" in Ebbetts Field.

Co-managers Joe Branzell and Ollie Dryzer of Washington, have announced their starting pitcher will be Tom Evans, lanky right-handed strikeout artist, who twirled last spring at Woodrow Wilson High. He'll be opposed by either Jack Laurice, jr., son of the Brooklyn manager, or Bill Donovan.

Starting lineups:

Our Boys Lose Two of 'Em

ishment of Bluege and Scarborough in the fourth inning. With the score tied at 5-all and he bases filled, George Kell decided the time had come to steal home. Kell slid across the plate on an extremely close play and Umpire Joe Boyer called him safe.

Instantly, Frank Mancuso, Scarborough, Bluege and other Nats surrounded the umpire in violent protest. Scarborough was ordered from the game for pushing as well as screaming at Boyer. Bluege was ejected for prolonged wrangling.

The Nats set Haefner up in a nice 3-0 lead in the opening inning with Spence striking the big blow, a two-run homer into the right field seats with Vernon on base. A bit earlier, Vernon's single to center scored Tom McBride, who was on second following a pair of Detroit errors.

The Tigers got those three runs back, and more for Al Benton in their half of the inning, driving Haefner to the showers before it was over, and taking a 4-3 lead.

Kell's Triple Scores Pair

Lake singled and Cullenbine walked. With one out, Kell tripled to center, scoring both. Outlaw walked and when Evers grounded to Yost, Kell scored from third. Scarborough moved onto the scene and wild-pitched Outlaw to third. After Webb drew a walk, he worked a double steal with Outlaw that fetched the fourth Tiger run.

Spence reclaimed the lead at 5-4 for the Nats in the third when he walloped another two-run homer into the right-field section. His blow followed Vernon's double.

The Tigers broke loose against Scarborough in the fourth. Singles by Cullenbine, Kell and Pinch-hitter Wertz tied the score at 5-all, and when Webb beat out an infield hit, the bases were filled.

At this point, Kell stole home to put the Tigers in front and the argument that put Bluege and Scarborough out of the game. Candini took over the Washington pitching and held the Tigers to a lone run thereafter—Wakefield's homer in the eighth.

But the Nats went runless in the last six innings.

Early Wynn, who pitches the series opener for the Nats at Cleveland tomorrow, is rapidly becoming famous in a mild sort of way . . . He's now known as the last pitcher to beat the Yankees, something that happened three weeks ago . . .

PRESIDENT LOOKS ON—Gerald A. Kopp (left), Spokane, Wash., and Leo L. Ladouceur, Detroit, bowl from their wheel chairs as they give an exhibition for President Truman (center) at the White House alleys

Mr. Truman Receives Bowling Tips From Some Former GIs

By Arthur Edson
By The Associated Press

President Truman got some bowling tips yesterday from three champions.

These experts are former GIs whose legs are paralyzed, but who bowl—and very nicely, too—from wheel chairs.

Mr. Truman awarded trophies to:

Gerald A. Kopp, a patient at the Veterans' Administration Hospital at Van Nuys, Calif., who averaged 137 pins for 12 games. His home is 3913 E. 29th ave., Spokane, Wash.

Leo L. Ladoucheur, also of Van Nuys, who averaged 134. His home is 14103 Sorrento ave., Detroit.

Gordon C. Scott, a patient at Kennedy Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., who had a 129 average for his 12 games. Scott, the pride of Crossville, Ala., edits the Memphis hospital newspaper, the 7-Star Spinal.

The tournament was for wheel chair patients in six of its paraplegic centers. There are some 1600 patients in these centers, of whom about half can get around in wheel chairs.

After presenting the trophies—given by the Bowlers Victory Legion, sponsors of the contest—Mr. Truman took the boys downstairs for an exhibition on the new White House alleys.

Without even a warmup toss, Kopp swung the heavy ball and down plopped 9 of the 10 pins. Ladoucheur got eight. Scott waited until the first and second place winners were finished, warmed up with a few throws and then picked up a strike, a spare and a strike.

When a reporter wondered what Kopp's best score was, Mr. Truman turned legman, and came back to report:

"It's 180," said Mr. Truman admiringly. "That's 80 better than I can do."

Mrs. Kipp's 70 Wins

Mrs. H. H. Kipp won low net honors in the Ladies Day golf tournament at Indian Springs Country Club yesterday with a 106—36—70 score. Second low net went to Mrs. Willard Edwards, who carded a 99—25—74. Leading the guests was Mrs. A. J. Howard of Kenwood with 95—23—72.

Basic Tennis Seen Need at School Here

Fundamentals will be stressed tomorrow as The Post and the Recreation Department resume their weekly tennis lessons at 9:30 a. m. at 17 playgrounds.

The faculty, comprising top stars of the Eastern States, decided to emphasize fundamentals after such a large percentage of the 1000 youngsters who registered for the first class last Saturday turned out to be beginners.

If there is enough time, the instructors will lecture and demonstrate the serve, forehand and backhand.

The instructors were pleasantly surprised at the enthusiasm shown. They spotted several potential stars and are planning to give them special lessons after the school ends.

Registration is still open to youngsters, 19 and under, at all playgrounds. Remaining classes are slated for tomorrow, July 26, August 2 and 9.

Stewart Hits Tourney Peak

Top-seeded Pfc. Hugh W. Stewart of the Philippines turned on the heat yesterday to stroke his way into the semifinals of the Army tennis championship tourney at the Army-Navy Country Club.

Stewart blanked Maj. Larry Myers of Maxwell Field, Fla., 6-0, 6-0, and earned the right to meet Capt. Charles B. Hippenstiel, Sixth Army titlist, today. Hippenstiel, ranked third, eliminated Lieut. R. S. Boyer of the Military District of Washington, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

In the other quarterfinals, second-seeded Lieut. Dave Freeman of Panama trimmed Major Tom Bonner of Far East Command, 6-1, 6-3, and T/Sgt. Tom Malloy of Camp Lee, Va., No. 4 seeding, defeated Lieut. C. J. Douglas of Strategic Air Command, 6-1, 6-4. Freeman meets Molloy today in the other semifinal.

Doubles results:
T/Sergt. Molly-Capt. R. P. Evans (Second Army) defeated Major Myers-Col. A. J. Evans (Maxwell Field, Ala.), 3—6, 6—2, 6—0; Pfc. Stewart-Capt. Elson Staugaard (Far East) defeated Lieut. Boyer-Corpl. Ed Shipp (MDW), 6—0, 6—3; Capt. Hippenstiel- M/Sergt. Louis Persinger (Sixth Army) defeated Lieut. Col. Christopher W. Chaney-Lieut. Robert Reade (Third Army), 6—1, 6—0; Lieut. Col. James W. Parsons-Capt. Lloyd R. Babcock (ATC) defeated Lieut. Freeman-Capt. Robert D. Pillsbury (Caribbean), 6—4, 3—6, 6—2.
Today's semifinals doubles pairings:
Molloy-Evans vs. Parsons-Babcock; Stewart-Staugaard vs. Capt. Hippenstiel-Persinger.

Worsham Set To Defend Title

New Telephone Dial Center Ready to Open

After midnight tomorrow residents of Greater Washington can throw away their September, 1946, phone directories and tear off the yellow "do not use" sticker on the new books.

For at midnight the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. is placing in operation its new $3,300,000 Victor-Twining dial center.

The center will open up Victor and Twining dial designations and will reopen for dialing Capitol Heights, Locust, Hillside and Spruce numbers.

The new center, located at 28th and N sts. se., will bring telephone service to areas of the Southeast east of the Anacosia River which have been without phones. It also will release 8000 numbers of the Franklin exchange which now can be turned over to residents west of the Anacostia River.

J. B. Morrison, vice president and general manager of the telephone company, in announcing opening of the center, said that within a few weeks more than 15,000 customers in the Southeast who have been waiting for telephones will be able to get them. Service will be provided, he said, as fast as new cables can be placed and connections made.

Completion of the Victor-Twining center is a major step of the company's 46-million-dollar expansion and improvement program, Morrison said.

Pulaski Tract Leased for Oil Search

Pulaski, Va., July 17 (AP).—A Radford physician and an Oklahoma prospector have leased about 3000 acres of land in Pulaski County on which they plan exploratory operations to determine if sinking of oil wells in the area would be profitable.

Court records today disclosed the transaction, negotiated by Dr. Andrew A. Giesen of Radford, and I. Groskins of Oklahoma.

Signed one-year leases have been recorded for about 1700 acres belonging to three individuals in Little Walker Mountain Basin in the northwest portion of the county, and more than 1300 acres were reported leased to the operators by a fourth property owner.

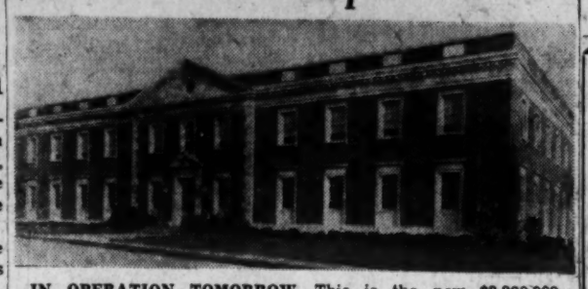
Two or three oil wells were drilled in the section many years ago, and surveys in recent years have discovered traces of oil floating in recesses of the abandoned shafts. Geologists have indicated the possibility of extensive deposits in a "fault" formation—described by them as an irregular break in a rock strata—running roughly from Wytheville to Blacksburg.

Details of plans for commencement of drilling operations were not available here today, but they were expected to start within a few weeks following determination of the outcome of some drilling now in progress.

Myers on Law Faculty

Col. John Sherman Myers, of 5105 Chevy Chase Parkway nw., has been appointed to the faculty of the Washington College of Law as Professor of Torts and Equity Law, it was announced yesterday by Horatio Rogers, dean of the Law School. Colonel Myers, 50, is on terminal leave from the Army after five years' service, most of it in Europe. He will begin teaching at the fall term.

Phone Service Expanded



IN OPERATION TOMORROW—This is the new $3,300,000 Victor-Twining dial center at 28th and N sts. se., which the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. will place in operation at midnight tomorrow. It will bring additional service to subscribers in the Southeast area and vicinity

Columbia Horse Opera Leans to Opera Bouffe

By Leo Brady

At times during "The Michigan Kid" at the Columbia, you get the impression that, as a western, it has its tongue in its gritty, lantern-jawed cheek. Not only does it possess that air of improbability common to all tales of the lonesome pine, but it actually seems to work to achieve it. It shoots to kill but tries to be arch about it.

Rita Johnson

In the first place, the film is colored so that the mesa, the sagebrush and the rocks have all the garish splash of a child's paintbook. In the second place, Director Ray Talor's general approach is that usually applied to musical comedy—broad, exaggerated, overblown. In the third place, Jon Hall and Andy Devine are prominently cast—two performers whose touch is about as light as their combined weight. In the fourth place, I suppose, it's a western in the first place.

The effect of this cynical attack on what was originally a story by Rex Beach is a self-consciousness which, though it never lifts it out of the wagon-wheel rut, doesn't destroy its traditional values.

The actors ride tireless horses, whose diet must consist largely of adrenalin, shoot each other out of six-times-six shooters, and bash each other with collapsible bottles—even though they do take time out here and there for a farcical remark.

Although there are gobs of Eastern sophistication mixed with Western melodrama, it's still just another horse opera with a slightly different design on the saddle.

Victor McLaglen plays one of the numerous villains and reminds you of the time he played Gypo Nolan—possibly this picture's greatest value. Otherwise the acting is strictly buckboard.

Barry Nelson, apparently relegated to MGM's second team, expends a pretty fair talent proving that crime doesn't pay in a short called, "The Luckiest Man in the World."

"THE MICHIGAN KID." Universal release produced by Howard Welsch. Story and Screenplay by Roy Chanslor. At the Columbia Theater.

BACK AGAIN: Clark Gable as Vic Norman in Metro's version of that satire on radio, "The Hucksters," opening this morning at the Palace

Unexpected Thrills

Hollywood.—Quick work by studio firemen standing by confined damage to $200 when a burning hay wagon got out of control in a scene for RKO Radio's "Return of the Madmen" and rolled into a western street set valued at $56,000.

One on the Aisle—

Pearl, to Betty, to X ... Who'll Be Star Of 1977 'Perils'?

By Richard L. Coe

JITTERY BETTY HUTTON delivers a lot of laughs in "The Perils of Pauline," at the Earle, so long as the picture sticks to spoofing stock companies and the early silents.

But the film also presumes to tell you something about Pearl White, the heroine of a score of cliff-hangers made between 1910 and '20. It's probably all pretty touching but we couldn't help letting our mind wander, wondering who'll be playing Betty Hutton when the feelies of the future get to dreaming about her heartaches.

The laughs are good, though, giving Betty a chance to be herself while making theatrical costumes in a New York sweatshop to the tune of "The Sewing Machine." Betty strong-arms her way into a hammy touring company and falls in love with the conceited leading man. This gives her a chance to appear in various stock parts, which she does with high humor and arm flapping.

Befriending her is that grande dame of the theater, Constance Collier. Miss Collier may be 70 in real life with many pages in "Who's Who" to chronicle her triumphs, but she's a swell foil for Betty, darling of your teen-age daughter. To keep eating, Constance takes a job in the lowly fillums. Her first assignment is to be on the receiving end of custard pies. Betty is so incensed at this treatment of her friend she kicks up a storm on the earnestly working silent stages.

Old Times on Deck

This propels Betty into the daredevil episodes for which the real Pearl White became famous. When the popularity of serials dies out, Pearl heads for Paris and becomes a music hall sensation only to cripple herself in a stage accident. Through her ups and downs, the conceited ham actor pops in and out, finally, it says here, realizing that their love is true, good and beautiful.

You'll enjoy those early reels, though, for Paramount has gone to loving pains to recreate the atmosphere of the movies' early stages. Chester Conklin, James Finlayson and Hank Mann are on deck to throw pies. William Farnum, Creighton Hale, Bert Roach, Snub Pollard, Francis McDonald and Heinie Conklin wander about their studio chores.

The mood musicians fringing the set, the assistant-assistant-director always ready with the megaphone, and the contrast of showing the "Perils" in black and white while the rest of the film is in color, are all fascinating touches that suggest the hectic atmosphere of the early flicker days.

Bily DeWolfe Amusing

Having been occupied serving as Mayor of Tanganyika during this period, we cannot vouch for the facts so far as Miss White's personal life is concerned. However, we trust it was not quite so contingent for its happiness on the character John Lund plays with puzzled surliness.

But even if Miss White could hardly have been so rambunctious as Miss Hutton makes her appear, Betty's style is contagious fun, especially when seated on a piano singing "Rumble, Rumble, Rumble." It's good to have Betty back. And Billy DeWolfe is most amusing when he explains how to e-nun-ciate properly.

The Earle also has an instructive "March of Time," this one on railroads. It's a pretty comprehensive report on railroadin', its current problems and novelities. If the sight of a train delights you, you'll get a bang out of this MOT release.

"THE PERILS OF PAULINE." Paramount release produced by Sol C. Siegel. Directed by George Marshall. Screenplay by F. J. Wolfson and Frank Butler. Music arranged by Robert Emmett Dolan, with four new songs by Frank Loesser. At the Earle.

Williamsburg Crowded for 'Glory' Drama

Williamsburg, Va., July 17 (AP). Thousands of persons streamed into this Colonial capital tonight for the premiere presentation of Pulitzer prize-winning playwright Paul Green's "The Common Glory," a symphonic drama depicting America's infancy, in the big amphitheatre on Lake Matoaka.

Tonight's opening performance was designated as "State Night," and sprinkled among the throng were many notables, including Lady Nancy Astor and Mr. and Mrs. Colgate W. Darden, jr. Darden formerly was governor of the commonwealth and is now president of the University of Virginia. Admiral William Halsey had expected to attend, but other business took him elsewhere.

Every one of the 2600 seats in the spacious outdoor showplace was sold for this first showing of Green's drama, a production in two acts with 15 scenes and one which carries the audience back to witness historical events between 1775 and 1782 at the palace of King George II, in London, to the Colonial capitol in nearby Williamsburg, to Philadelphia, to Thomas Jefferson's home at Monticello, to Jamestown and Yorktown and Richmond.

Tonight's initial presentation brought the climax to months of hard work by 150 persons in the cast, composed of experienced players and talented amateurs from colleges and community theater groups throughout the Old Dominion, and to months of grueling work by directors, technicians, and laborers.

Green, who wrote the drama which has Thomas Jefferson in the leading role, was optimistic about the presentation, scheduled to continue nightly at 8:15 o'clock except Mondays until September 14.

Book on Hopkins May 'Refer' to Jim Farley

New York.—Robert E. Sherwood in the Stork Club the other night said that his forthcoming book on Harry Hopkins will contain no "reply" to the Jim Farley articles, but that he will make some "interesting references" to them . . . Sherwood, incidentally, is trying to find Vernon Wright, who flew Hopkins over Europe. Wright can be reached at Grossinger's, where he operates the new airfield at the resort and flies passengers to LaGuardia Field in half an hour . . . Ashton Stevens, Chicago's dean of the drama interviewers, is at Mayo Clinic . . . Mike Todd vows that Gian-Carlo Menotti, who wrote "The Medium" and "The Telephone," will work for him not only in the theater but also in his film unit.

Gen. Leslie Groves

Gen. Leslie Groves, who headed the Atomic Bomb project before civilian control, has been conferring with Representative J. Parnell Thomas of the House Un-American Committee concerning exposes of laxity in guarding the atom bomb secrets. A series of these exposes, naturally, might retore control to the Army . . . Dr. Edgar Mayer flew to London recently to treat the Maharajah of Indore, who suddenly has been stricken with a mysterious fever . . . Walter Bernstein, ex-Yank writer, has taken a leave of absence from the New Yorker magazine to write a screen adaptation of Dostoievsky's "The Brothers Karamazov" for Columbia.

Sam Lewis has been the trombonist of the NBC Symphony for many years. He is a wise man as well as an able musician. Many years ago he started to invest his money in an annuity. A few days ago, during a rehearsal session, his insurance man came to the rehearsal hall, beckoned to Lewis and notified him that his annuity now was all paid up and that he could start collecting immediately . . . Lewis nodded, broke his trombone, announced his retirement and went home.

Al Jolson tells of the time last spring when he was driving back to California after he appeared at a Damon Runyon Memorial Fund benefit at the Lord Tarleton Hotel in Miami Beach. The hotel management rewarded him with a gold coin, inscribed with his name on one side and the name of the hotel on the other. During a stopoff at a diner in Arizona the waitress studied Jolson and said: "You look like somebody I should know. Who are you?" . . . Jolson, proud of his new coin, said: "This is who I am." He showed her the coin—on one side "Al Jolson" and on the other "Lord Tarleton" . . . "But of course," said the waitress. "I knew it all the time." Then she shouted to the kitchen crew: "Hey, look who's here. Lord Tarleton."

Julie Dassin, who is in New York making background shots for "The Naked City," the movie he's directing, tried to use a midtown theater as a background. He was stopped by a warning that if he photographed any part of the theater building, the stage crew would have to be paid . . . The same ruling prevented the Saturday Evening Post's cameraman from photographing Ferenc Molnar in front of the Shubert Theater recently. The photo was to be used for an article on Molnar by Joseph Wechsberg . . . Gypsy Rose Lee has been offered $150,000 for her Manhattan house, which once was the home of a Vanderbilt. She paid $21,000 for it . . . Al Clapp, the cartoonist, will have a New Yorker profile. E. J. Kahn, jr., is writing it.

Swing Sessions

That West Indian Stuff Is There!

By Bill Gottlieb

New York, July 17.—Guys who don't know a tymballi from a tamale have recently begun to listen to rhumba bands, and at its authentic best this south-of-the-border stuff has the fire and frenzy that you'd expect from music with the same African roots as jazz, only even closer to the original. Swing cats who listen closely to real rhumbas recognize the pulsations . . . and love it.

No fiddle-packed, dainty orchestras are the honest-to-goodness West Indian combos. The best are scorchers that are hipper than a jitterbug's slipper. They play hot jazz, only with diluted Spanish melodies and a complex rhythm base that begins where Buddy Rich ends. They have their riff forms (mambos), their rocking blues (Afro-Cubanos) and their savage jumps (nanigos). Their sour trumpets bite with beat and their passionate flutes sound like a love bird with fever. The stuff is there, man, and it's gone.

Two Top Bands

If you want to hear the real thing, forget about your Cugats. Two other bands stand out a sugar cane's length above the nearest competitors (and two canes' length above Cugat). They are, first, Machito, a purist who is the Duke Ellington of the rumba, and, second, Noro Morales, who states he'd like to be the Ellington of the rhumba but who is actually closer to being the Harry James. That is, he's more commercial than Machito, but still eminently respectable, musically.

Machito draws the real aficionados to the Palladium, the public dance hall on Broadway where he's currently appearing. Morales, who recently packed the Havana-Madrid every night at $4 minimums, is now attracting a less exacting but still knowing crowd to the Glen Island Casino, where he gets top billing over Bobby Byrne.

Machito and (insert) Noro Morales, top dispensers of West Indian music

In 1939, when Byrne played Glen Island, Morales was playing downstairs, unbilled, in the cocktail room. Machito records for Continental and Morales for Majestic.

The backbone of the rhumba is the rhythm section. In addition to a piano and bass, common to both swing and rhumba bands, a unit like Machito's uses a maracas shaker, a claves knocker, one bongo and one conga drummer and, resembling a conventional drummer, a tymballi player. A tymballi is like a snare drum, except there are two of them stuck side by side. One is generally hit by the fingers, the other by thin, flexible drum sticks that break at the rate of about a dozen a night. The bongo and congo players must keep their drum heads especially taut; so about every five minutes they heat them over open alcohol flames and with electric heaters.

The big trick with authentic rhumba bands is the way the many rhythm instruments, playing a confusion of beats each in a different way, manage to produce a collective, integrated beat. Machito insists that just as only Americans can play jazz rhythm correctly, only Cubans—which is naturally what he is—can play rhumba rhythms correctly. Morales, a Puerto Rican, would extend the line to Puerto Rico.

Senate Probe Absence In Atom Leak Puzzles

By Drew Pearson

Capital observers who have seen a lot of probes launched by Congress on relatively unimportant matters are wondering why the Senate War Investigating Committee has failed to probe the recent disclosed leak of atomic bomb secrets.

Byrnes

If anything is important to the national security, it is atomic-energy secrets, and the fact that they were so loosely guarded by the military certainly would appear to be something a War Investigating Committee should investigate.

However, the current silence of the old Truman Committee—now the Brewster Committee—has led Capitol Hill observers to speculate as to whether Senators want to protect the Army — which happens to have been responsible for the atomic leak. Had the civilian commission under David Lilienthal been responsible, probably Senators would now be investigating up to their armpits.

Should the Brewster Committee later decide to probe, it would discover some startling facts; namely that atomic security under the Army was woefully lax, also that security was so bad Lilienthal hired Frank Wilson, former head of the Secret Service, to reorganize the atomic setup inherited from the Army.

[Editor's note: Brewster said Tuesday that his committee had joined in the hunt to determine whether atomic secrets had been lost to foreign agents.]

Note—Several weeks ago the Atomic Energy Commission decided to report to the Joint Atomic Committee of Congress the fact that two former sergeants had stolen data while the Army was in charge. One Congressman leaked, and that was how the news got out.

Byrnes' Scholarships

Former Secretary of State Jimmie Byrnes, who, like old wine, gets better with the years, will make a minimum of $60,000 on his soon-to-be-published memoirs, but will give the money away.

His law partner, Donald Russell, a trustee of the University of South Carolina, wants him to found the "James F. Byrnes Department of Political Science" at the university. But Jimmie says no.

He remembers the struggle his mother had rearing and educating two fatherless boys and he wants to do something now to put fatherless boys through college.

Jimmie's father died when his brother was about 2 years old, and a few months before Jimmie was born. His mother reared her sons by sewing and by singing at church, where she got $5. On this she managed to bring up one boy who became a Senator, Supreme Court Justice, War Mobilizer and Secretary of State.

"I have never forgotten the struggle she had," Byrnes mused to a friend recently. "And I should like to found some scholarships to help fatherless boys get through college."

No 3rd Party for Wallace

The third-party conference called by California's former Attorney General Bob Kenny in Fresno tomorrow has high-up Democrats more on pins and needles than almost anything occurring since the 1944 convention.

For if Kenny should go through with his plans, and form a sure-enough third party, it automatically means a Republican victory in 1948. It also means that the prediction of Harrison Spangler, "the Republican Party can win with a Chinaman," would come true and that Bricker or Taft—admittedly less popular candidates, but strong with the party leaders—might be nominated.

However, though Kenny is calling his meeting for the express purpose of booming Wallace, the third-party movement may be launched without the blessing of the men who is supposed to head it. For Henry Wallace privately has made it quite clear he is a Democrat and will remain a Democrat. He does not intend to head a third party.

Wallace has suggested that his friend, Senator Claude Pepper of Florida, might head a third party, which has caused Pepper to toss the ball back to Wallace.

This "after you, Alphonse" act indicates exactly one thing: A third party has no chance of getting anywhere and the wise politicos know it.

Truman Argues for DPs

President Truman put up a stiff argument to the "big six" congressional leaders this week to permit 400,000 displaced persons a haven in the United States.

The congressional chiefs had claimed that the American people had to be "educated and adjusted" to receiving the foreign homeless; but Mr. Truman rejected this, declaring that all but a few American citizens were ready to welcome the DP's to our shores. The 400,000 persons, he contended, could easily be assimilated in our economy, and he maintained it was chiefly an American responsibility to give them refuge.

To this, former Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas replied that Southern Democrats in the House would vote almost en bloc against the displaced persons. Senators Vandenberg of Michigan and Barkley of Kentucky also expressed doubts that the bill would "have a chance" in the Senate—though they agreed it stood a better chance there than in the House.

Truman finally gave in, but only on the promise that the DP issue would have a top legislative priority at the next session of Congress.

As the meeting broke up, the President said he was happy to learn that Congress had decided to make Speaker Joe Martin "my successor, if anything happens to me."

Whereupon Vandenberg, with a side glance at Martin, quipped:

"Thanks, Mr. President. But if you take any long plane trips, I hope you take Joe along with you.

"That's my only chance," explained the Michigan Senator, who, as President Pro Tem of the Senate, is next in line behind Speaker Martin to become President under the new succession bill.

Friendly Senate Enemies

Despite heated debates on the Senate floor, GOP Leader Bob Taft and the Democrats frequently exchange sympathetic words.

Such an exchange occurred during the heat of the debate over confirmation of Joe B. Dooley as United States judge for Texas, an appointment vigorously pushed by Texas' statuesque senior Senator, Tom Connally, and just as vigorously opposed by Texas' junior razzle-dazzle Senator, Pappy O'Daniel.

Because O'Daniel votes so frequently with the Republicans, he had lined up most GOP Senators against Dooley. But during the debate Taft came over to Senator Connally and whispered:

"If you need a vote or two, we can switch them over to you. We wouldn't be for this guy (O'Daniel) except that he has supported us (the Republicans) so much we had to do something."

Under the Dome

Two Mississippi lawyers are getting set to try unseating Mississippi's John Rankin: Judge Claude Clayton, who ran against Rankin once before, and Maj. Floyd Cunningham of Booneville, now in Japan . . . Composer Jack Lawrence, who wrote 1947's top song, "Linda," has the backing of all labor leaders for his newest tune, which won't make Messrs. Taft and Hartley very happy. The title is "Have a Heart, Taft-Hartley, Have a Heart?"

D. C. Phones In Use Rise 21,198 in Year

Telephones in service in the District on June 30 totaled 393,597, an increase of 21,198 over the total on June 30, 1946, according to officials of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.

The total on June 30 represented an increase over that of May 30 and a return to a normal gain after the strike.

Average daily calls in June numbered 1,898,457 compared with 1,892,457 in June 1946.

Old Dominion Bank

Plans for a new building for the Old Dominion Bank at 2900 Columbia Pike, Arlington, are in the final stages, it was learned yesterday. The new structure will have a limestone front and brick side walls and will measure 58 by 88 feet. It will cost from $80,000 to $100,000, according to estimates. The building will be one story high and will have a mezzanine.

Capital Airlines Freight

Air freight shipments flown by Capital Airlines during June reached a new all-time record for the company, Guy Springer, jr., cargo sales manager for Capital, disclosed yesterday.

A total of 998,514 pounds of air freight was flown by the airline last month. This exceeds the previous record month of April by 41,751 pounds and denotes an increase of 345,494 pounds over May, Springer stated.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, July 17 (AP).—All grains suffered wide losses on the Board of Trade today, corn pacing the downturn with declines extending to more than 6 cents.

Profit-taking after the recent advance, more favorable weather developments in the Corn Belt, easiness in cash prices and withdrawal of the Commodity Credit Corporation from the cash wheat market all combined to create selling pressure.

Final prices were close to the day's lows as the market showed no rallying power. Wheat finished 4½@5⅜ lower; July, 2.36@2.36½; corn was 2⅜@6¼ lower; July, 2.12¾@2.12⅞, and oats were 2@2⅛ lower; July, 99⅜@99⅝.

Flour business was somewhat less aggressive, but milling circles confirmed reports of heavy business over the past few days.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, July 17 (AP).—All grains suffered wide losses on the Board of Trade today, corn pacing the downturn with declines extending to more than 6 cents.

Profit-taking after the recent advance, more favorable weather developments in the Corn Belt, easiness in cash prices and withdrawal of the Commodity Credit Corporation from the cash wheat market all combined to create selling pressure.

Final prices were close to the day's lows as the market showed no rallying power. Wheat finished 4½@5⅜ lower; July, 2.36@2.36½; corn was 2⅜@6¼ lower; July, 2.12¾@2.12⅞, and oats were 2@2⅛ lower; July, 99⅜@99⅝.

Flour business was somewhat less aggressive, but milling circles confirmed reports of heavy business over the past few days.

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, JULY 18, 1947

Probably Reasonable

Surcease Awaits Statesmen in Own Backyard

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

INSCRIBED in dingy letters across an upper window on Rhode Island ave. near 9th st. there's a wonderfully heart-lifting sentence: "Divine Healer for All Nations." Here, right around the corner from the Capitol, is a simple solution for a woeful world seething with battling guerillas and snarling statesmen. Washington's harassed diplomats haven't a thing to lose—they'd better nip and see what it's all about!

Mme. Chiang's Deadhead

GENERAL "AL" WEDEMEYER, off for a six weeks' tour of troubled China, is one of the finest examples of American manhood extant. Simple, friendly, gallant, he's not impressed with pomp and circumstance or bamboozled by personal charm. After his last wartime tour of duty in China he told a fascinating story about the sometimes grimly indomitable Mme. Chiang Kai-shek.

The General was returning home. His plane had been readied for the long journey. At a farewell party Mme. Chiang asked if all seats were taken. "I don't know," replied the General. "My aide handles such matters." "I asked," said the Generalissimo's wife authoritatively, "because I want you to take my niece with you." "I imagine every inch is filled," countered Wedemeyer tactfully. "Then," continued the madame firmly, "you must put my niece at the head of the list on the regular Army plane."

"I could, madame," Wedemeyer replied mildly, "but I won't. Each place in those planes is reserved for an American soldier who was wounded fighting for your country. I cannot believe that your niece did more for China during the war than these boys who traveled thousands of miles from home to help your people." After that, when the madame saw General Wedemeyer her smile spread no further than diplomatic necessity demanded.

He Beards the Beaver

MOST of the foreign correspondents who take in Washington on their beat deal solely in foreign affairs and politics. Exception is Trevor Evans, industrial correspondent for Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express. He's right-hand man to the Beaver, who's a picturesque soul and often hard to handle. But square-jawed Mr. Evans, so it's rumored, slaps him down so delicately that the Beaver actually bobs up smiling. The British public is gobbling Evans' feature stuff, which stars Petrillo, John L. Lewis and other tough hombres. Tonight, at the Press Club, some of the fourth estate boys are giving Evans a farewell dinner.

There's little doubt that Secretary of War Patterson is retiring. New York's William Shepherds (he's one of the innumerable descendants of old Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt) have bought the Georgetown house where the Pattersons have lived the past two years. And, as far as anyone knows, the Secretary hasn't acquired another rooftree.

Bill and Virginia Shepherd are tucking in for two years, the amount of time it will take Architect Bill to complete elaborate additions to the Art Museum in Hagerstown, Md. Partnered with Gotham Architect Musgrave Hyde, he designed the original building and now is increasing the space to house Mrs. Anna Singer's new acquisitions.

Chemical Dissolution

ONE of the best "shapes" in town, whose name must remain secret for esthetic reasons, has a sure-fire diet which preserves her enviable symmetry. You must stick to it 10 days, then you can return to normal eating. And you mustn't skip a thing, as it's a chemical food combination, each item eating up another and thus tearing flesh from your bones. "The Shape's" plump cook recently tried the diet and shelved 12 pounds. After the weekend this columnist will attempt the same stunt and report progress from time to time.

Here goes! Breakfast (every day), 1 cup tea with sugar and milk, 1 slice dry toast, either a half grapefruit or orange juice. Luncheon (every day), 1 cup tea with sugar and milk, 2 slices dry toast, a bowl of cut up fruit or a green salad with mineral oil dressing.

NOW, here comes the best part. You can drink one cocktail every evening and eat whatever you want and as much as you want for dinner provided you touch nothing fattening. In other words, stick to lean meat, non-starchy vegetables, fruit desserts and, of course, no bread or sweets. Simple, eh?

That Curvaceous Contour

MOST startling of Hattie Carnegie's collection were her hats, which appeared to billow out from the heads of her models. Here is one of her "Lamplighters," not unlike the "big top" hats worn by some of the characters in Charles Dickens' novels. This chapeau, which caused spectators to gasp, is of shaggy white felt lavishly trimmed with gold, turquoise and pink satin ribbon

La Carnegie disdains hip-padding, as do all the top-flight American designers. She achieves the extra curved look in her jackets by clever use of circular welting of the seams. The "Evangeline" suit (extreme left) in pastoral green wool was part of her collection shown to the press in New York last night

Reminiscent of the fashions of 1910-14 is the Chantilly-type lace dinner dress (at left) called "Pink Champagne," from Anna Miller's collection. Note absence of shoulder padding, fichu collar and low V-neckline. Sash is dark green velvet ribbon

THE slim, wrapped look for 1947 is expressed by Nettie Rosenstein in a dinner dress of black crepe with off-the-shoulder line and new semilow back emphasized by a flat cuff of taffeta. The latter fabric is repeated in a circular flare set in at side back and topped with large bow

Waist-Minimizer Hipnotizes

Carnegie Features 'Ladylike' Look

By Peggy Preston

NEW YORK, N. Y., July 17.—For that "Curvaceous Look" pick a Carnegie.

Other designers may "hem and haw" over whether the new feminine silhouette should be pencil slim or fully curved. But not Hattie Carnegie, one of the country's most important stylists. La Carnegie definitely wants us to display what she calls our "God-given charms of ladylike curves." And she said so in practically every item in her collection of fall suits, dresses, gowns and coats which she showed to the press tonight in her Fifth Avenue salon.

Generally speaking, the collection was the most spectacular in this week-long series of fashion shows sponsored by the New York Dress Institute. It had everything the fashion reporters were looking for—color, glamour and revolutionary styles. But if most of us came away with a dazed look on our faces, it was because the "Carnegie Curved Silhouette" was too sensational for us to comprehend in one sitting.

A Carnegie creation, which can run into the three-figure bracket, is a bit too rich for our blood—both financially and esthetically. Perhaps when one of them is toned down and copied in a $14.95 version, we'll join the herd and dash out to buy it. But Carnegies are high-style just now, and in many instances truly beautiful. What's more, they are news. So here goes . . .

How does Miss Carnegie

Spoiled Young Widow Sojourning in Her Elder Married Sister's Home Makes Treacherous Bid For Brother-in-Law's Heart and He Responds

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My problem is my sister Sally who came to live with us six months ago. If something isn't done I fear I will lose my husband or my own sanity. Being the youngest, Sally was dreadfully spoiled by mother, who gave her everything she wanted, even if it was beyond our father's income.

When I married Jim five years ago we moved to this city and have been very happy. Two years after our marriage, Sally married a young flyer who was killed in Europe during the war. In the meantime mother had died and I thought Sally would be lonely so I asked Jim if she might come to live with us for a while. He agreed and she came.

Everything went smoothly for a while, but soon she began to make a play for Jim. She acts sweet and innocent and Jim is taken in. She will criticize me in front of him, and keep saying how badly I look and that I should go to the beauty parlor more often.

Wife Walks In On Love Scene

I WAS just about ready to ask her to leave when she fell and broke her leg. Then I just couldn't put her out. Things got worse as she worked in her quiet way on Jim and the situation came to a head yesterday. I came home from late afternoon shopping and found Jim at home, in Sally's room. I can't tell you what a shock it was. They were in each other's arms.

When I taxed Jim about it he swore it never would happen again; also, that it was only a fleeting embrace. He tells me he still loves me; that he just lost his head and that he won't ever see Sally alone again. I know he will try, but he is no match for her in the game she is playing.

I love my husband and don't want to lose him; but what can I do? I just can't put Sally out of the house with a broken leg; yet if she stays she will wreck our home. Please advise quickly.

V. R.

Sister's Injury Very Interesting

DEAR V. R.: It is very interesting that Sally broke her leg just as you were about to put her out, thereby turning the tables on your intent in a great big way—or so it seemed to both of you.

On the one hand, it gave her a perfectly dandy excuse to take for granted she would stay on—to continue her dirty work, although ostensibly to convalesce. On the other hand, if you proceeded to bounce her anyway—as you should have done and still should do—she felt she had the stage set to persuade Jim (and any others she had in mind) that you were a hideous heartless sister and she "beauty in distress" right out of a fairy tale.

All of which is preliminary to saying that Sally's broken leg wasn't exactly an accident. Taking her measure as a whole, and weighing it against scientific studies of psychological factors contributing to "convenient" or self-serving accidents, it's a pretty safe guess that Sally's subconscious engineered the spill that prolonged her stay, after you had shown signs and portents of wanting to be rid of her.

Time to Send Sister Flying

SALLY has already done vicious damage to the marriage, working serpent-style on Jim's naive vulnerable temperament. The harm she has done may be a long time healing, even if her game is blocked right here. Jim's contrition is doubtless sincere, but as you say, he's no match for her, and his good intentions need fighting support from you, to give the marriage a chance to survive.

So, for advice, never mind about Sally's broken leg. Be forthright, firm and drastic in figuratively booting her out. You would be as weak as Jim in dealing with her, if you merely taxed him and said nothing to her about the love scene you witnessed yesterday. The situation calls for purgative action and it's your business to send Sally packing, without apology or diffidence. M. H.

Begin Your Day by Stretching Those Kinks Out of Disposition

By Ida Jean Kain

HUMID weather leaves everybody as limp as a wilted petunia, and it's easy to get up on the wrong side of the bed. It's an effort to get up at all. Well, just lie there and relax. I'm not going to urge setting-up exercises!

Stretching is nature's way of helping you to get up on the right side of the bed. You'll think I'm just making this up, but here are the facts: On waking from sleep, circulation is slow and the blood in the muscles is somewhat stagnant. So nature gives the impulse to stretch and s-t-r-e-t-c-h . . . and yawn. It's split-second timing to get to work that throws a monkey wrench into the original plan for jogging the sluggish circulation into action. The unwelcome ring of the alarm prods you into action, still half asleep, and it's known as getting out on the wrong side of the bed.

Well, as I was saying, stretching is nature's way of making it a good morning. A natural stretch and the general twist and pull that is part of it, contracts the muscles, squeezes out the old blood and lets new blood flow in. A follow-up stretch raises the ribs and allows the air to get into the diaphragm. Then the old blood is carried away and the next big stretch brings a fresh supply of blood and nourishment into the muscles. And that's the way stretching strengthens and refreshes the body, and does a lot to prevent neuritis, neurosis and rheumatism.

You can make up your own stretchers . . . stretch arms up overhead, legs down and pull . . . twist and turn and pull. Then one arm up, cross one leg over the other and stretch all along that side, then stretch along the other side.

Between stretches, let yourself go limp, so limp that you seem to sink right down into the mattress. Take it easy, but get in six big luxurious stretches. It keeps anyone from starting the day tense or grumpy.

Follow with a cool shower . . . not too hot, but not icy cold. Have a good breakfast to supply energy for the morning. And don't run after the bus! Happy day.

Action, Not Words Is Policy Of Brackenridge Club Founder

By Genevieve Reynolds

Most folk merely blah blah about international friendship. But tall, affable Mrs. Erich Schwartze, founder and past president of the Washington National M. Eleanor Brackenridge Club, puts words into action. In a few weeks she will leave for Chile to launch a friendship project among the nurses' and doctors' wives of that country.

Moreover, she will carry with her a full university hospital training scholarship to offer some Chilean graduate nurse who would like to study in the United States. Accompanying her will be nurse Margaret Bond, also a past president of the organization.

Funds for the scholarship were raised by members of the club. Dr. Theodore I. Gandy, chief, field division of health and sanitation, Institute of International Affairs, is aiding the project.

The idea of bringing a graduate nurse to study here was suggested to Mrs. Schwartze by Senorita Hilda Lozier, a Chilean nurse, who was in town recently.

Senorita Carmen Fernandez of the Dominican Republic, was the recipient of the Brackenridge Club's first international friendship scholarship. Mrs. Schwartze reports that Carmen is continuing the friendship project in her own country, dedicating her new book, "The History of the Oldest City in North America," to club members.

Club members within the past seven years have given various types of scholarships to girls from Brazil, China and other countries. Mrs. Margarette Andrade of the Brizilian Embassy staff heads the Brazilian group and Mrs. Edward Martin, newly elected club president, is in charge of the Holland friendship project.

Wasps and 99's Plan Breakfast Flight

"99's" (Women's International Pilots) will hold their second combined breakfast flight Sunday. Taking off from Cross Roads Airport at 9 a. m., they will fly to the Annapolis Airport.

Breakfast will be served at the Annapolis Road Club where the group will be "members for the day." Golf, tennis, sailing, swimming and, of course, flying will be on the agenda.

Members of the FBI Flying Club, the Revenue Aero Club, the Aero Club of Washington and the Washington Air Derby Association have been invited to join the flight.

This will be the first time the groups have flown into the Annapolis Airport, where Helen McGilvery, a former WASP, is one of the operators.

La Carnegie Stresses Curves In New Silhouette for Fall

achieve the fuller, more rounded silhouette? Well, as do all good designers, she employs some tricks.

Cutest trick in her bag is a gadget she calls the "waist minimizer" or "hipnotizer." This is a minute corselet that laces to give the figure a molded look from the bodice to the upper hipline.

"Once a woman accustoms herself to the use of the hipnotizer," according to the show's commentator, "she achieves a trim, fashionable look and confidence in her new silhouette."

The little corselet does manage to give the effect of a tiny waist and full hips. But there are other figure aids as well. Hiplines are never actually padded in the Carnegie collection. Instead she used buckram, taffeta or baby-bonnet ruching under the lower hipline, giving a slightly protruding look.

Shoulders Rounded

SHOULDER padding is used in the collection, but instead of being squared off in the old-fashioned way, it slopes along the natural line and adds to the general, all-around effect of a more feminine silhouette.

Carnegie skirts are amazingly full, but never bulky. The designer recommends 14 inches for day time; 12 inches for the cocktail hour and 8 or floor-length for dinner.

However, she points out that these measurements are for the woman of average height and must be modified in proportion to the person wearing the garment.

There are some wonderful colors in the Carnegie collection. Copied from tapestry colors of the French and Flemish renaissance, they include Flanders, a brilliant clear red; pastoral green, a vibrant, soft green of the pine trees; Navarre grey, a silvery grey much used in tapestries and paintings, and Lebrun, resembling mahogany.

Splashed With Glitter

SEQUIN and jeweled details make their appearance in the formal gowns. They gleam on laces and on satins. One outstanding white dress was a high-neck bodice sprinkled with diamonds and shirred low into a sundial pleated skirt.

Other notable items include "Don't Dress for Dinner" suits, composed of dainty jackets hung with rhinestone buttons and swirling skirts; innumerable suits for sports and street, all following the "curved silhouette" pattern.

Coats, as usual, were a highlight of the show. The famous "indispensable" is longer this season, with intricate welting detail and huge rhinestone buttons fastening high at the large, round turnback collar. Another "indispensable" is of navy chinchilla wool with a double "milliner's fold collar" and the back repeating this same treatment. Many of the coats have a bell-shaped skirt, molded waistline and extremely low hip pockets.

Your Questions On Homemaking

How should tailored nylon curtains be laundered? I washed mine and tried ironing them wet, but they still remained rough dry in appearance. Would it be best to have them dry cleaned? M. A. T.

Nylon fabrics usually launder satisfactorily, but ironing is made difficult by the fact that they dry out so quickly. The type of weave also may make your curtains hard to iron well. The method you used seems essentially correct. However, here's a brief review of the recommended laundry procedure for nylon curtains:

Wash and rinse the curtains in lukewarm water. Roll immediately in towels to keep them from drying out. (Nylon does not iron as well if it has to be redampened). Unroll the curtain from the towels a few feet at a time as you iron. If the whole curtain is exposed, part of it will undoubtedly dry before you are ready to iron it. If necessary, use damp towels in rolling up the curtains to keep the nylon moist. Iron with a warm (not hot) iron.

Dry cleaning these curtains should be satisfactory if home laundry methods fail.

How can I remove iodine stains from bedding? The stains are on a pillow, quilted mattress, as well as on linens? Also, what type of alcohol should be used to remove a bluing stain from a shirt? I tried rubbing alcohol but it was not effective. A. L. C.

Soap and water will often remove fresh iodine stains from washable materials. You might moisten spots with water and then dry, placing material in the sun, over a radiator, or in the steam from a boiling teakettle.

Use water sparingly in treating the mattress, pillow, and pad. Or sponge lightly with denatured alcohol.

It's denatured alcohol that should be used to remove the bluing stain. Rubbing alcohol isn't as strong, and has other substances added.

I spilled nail polish remover (the pink instant remover that doesn't contain oil) on a cotton dress. I tried using a chlorine bleach and also lemon juice to remove the stain, but it still remains. What would you suggest? M. J. D.

Since acetone, the chief ingredient of the type of nail polish remover you deseribe, does not affect cotton, it must be the dye in the liquid that's causing the trouble. Chlorine is a strong bleach and should have removed this dye, it seems to me. You might try oxalic acid. Sponge the stain well with cold water, then stretch over a bowl of hot water and apply oxalic acid crystals directly to the stain. Rinse by dipping in the hot water, and finally in water to which a few drops of ammonia have been added.

If your dress is white, you might use a commercial dye stripping agent to remove the pink stain. These dye removers can be purchased in drug stores.

The tart creamy dressing in the bottle is just the thing to enhance the flavor of this tossed salad of tomatoes, cucumbers, onions, leafy greens and olives

Especially True of Green Salad

Dressing Is Mark of Social Success

By Lucia Brown

THE way your garden salad is dressed has a lot to do with its social success!

Of course, all the salad ingredients should be good. But distinctive dressing can transform a run-of-the-garden collection of greens into an offering that qualifies for a popularity prize.

Dressings for tossed salads should point up the flavor of celery, lettuce, carrots, beets, tomatoes and other raw vegetables. They should also lend a piquancy of their own to the combination. Here are recipes for three tart, flavorsome dressings that will turn the trick.

TOMATO FRENCH DRESSING

1½ cups salad oil
Juice of 1 lemon
½ cup vinegar
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 medium-sized onion, grated
2 teaspoons salt
Cayenne pepper to taste

Mix ingredients in the order named. This dressing can be kept on hand in a jar in the refrigerator, ready for use at a moment's notice. The same is true of Creamy Chef's Dressing, the recipe for which follows.

CREAMY CHEF'S DRESSING

½ cup evaporated milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons catsup
½ cup vinegar

Blend milk and oil thoroughly. Add vinegar and other ingredients slowly, beating all the while. If dressing tends to separate when standing, a shake will mix it up again.

SOUR CREAM CUCUMBER DRESSING

2 egg yolks
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon flour.
1 teaspoon mustard
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tablespoons vinegar
1 cup sour cream
¾ cup diced cucumbers

Beat egg yolk in top of double boiler. Add dry ingredients and mix well. Add sour cream and milk. Cook slowly, stirring constantly. When thickened, add lemon and vinegar. Stir and cook 3 to 4 minutes. Remove from fire. When cold, add diced cucumbers.

Market Memo

By Lucia Brown

SAD news this week on the meat front . . . many retail prices are jumping following the highest wholesale prices since last winter. Best beef buys now are the more modest cuts . . . chuck roasts and such. Frying chickens maintaining their low price. . . and fish are inexpensive and abundant.

Croaker and trout from the Chesapeake crowding local fish counters . . . along with butterfish and porgies from the Jersey coast. First fresh shrimp to arrive from Carolina this season are on sale now at the wharves.

Fresh vegetables and fruits are unusually abundant this weekend. United States Department of Agriculture lists peaches, corn, potatoes, onions, squash and cantaloupes are top bargains locally. California grapes on the market in greater quantity . . . white Thompson's seedless, red Malaga's and Rivieras. Radishes, celery, carrots, cabbage, and other salad supplies plentiful. Good many mushrooms on sale . . . and arrivals of pineapples from Florida and the West Indies are increasing.

Amazing Statistic

Studies of work in the kitchen sponsored by the Porcelain Enamel Institute, revealed that the average housewife opens her refrigerator about 62 times each day.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

The Signs Ought To Light Up And Say, "Tilt"

"Shoe Clerk" passes along a few observations regarding local taxes:

"Congress is showing its customary statesmanship in supporting a District income tax law that hits everybody except Federal employes (such as Congressmen).

"Now we're told that the whole income tax idea may be scrapped in favor of a sales tax.

"If this comes to pass, I trust that there will be adequate safeguards to protect our legislators. Perhaps we could equip them with neon signs reading 'I am a Congressman.'

"Then, when a clerk like me says, ' . . . that'll be one dollar, sir, plus two cents tax,' the Congressman can press a little button and light up his sign, thereby exempting himself."

FOR PUNSTERS ONLY

The recent marriage at Bolling Field of three members of the band opens up vast vistas to our old friend Cody Pfanstiehl of 2222 I st. nw.

Being an inveterate punster, Cody observes that here we have a wedding of note.

The wives of these men may worry a bit, inasmuch as their breadwinners are forever going from bar to bar, in line of duty.

But things shouldn't be so bad for them, since they can always get a flat—if they look sharp.

So let's hope that they live in harmony, and that all their discords will be musical.

IS THIS YOUR DOG?

M. M. Weintaub, of 6800 Piney Branch rd., writes that he recently found a male wire-haired terrier wandering about his neighborhood.

The dog appeared to have been in a fight, so Mr. Weintraub took him in, dressed his wounds, and then tried to find the dog's owner. No luck.

Meantime, dog and host are becoming fast friends, and now the question arises:

"Do you think I have a right to keep him? If his owner doesn't claim him, I'd like to. Of course if he's claimed and identified, I'll give him up."

My guess would be that if this item plus your other efforts to locate the owner fail to get a response, you'd have a perfect right to keep him.

TRADE SECRET

Mrs. S. H. Glidden wants to know how a fellow goes about digging up news. She writes:

"We're trying to send news from a small section called Oaklawn to a county paper, but find it very difficult to get good items. We've been wondering how you manage to get so many interesting stories."

Well, I'll tell you, Mrs. Glidden. I print letters from folks like you and then I tack on an extra paragraph that says:

"When you run across a good item, don't be selfish. Send it in to the District Line, and share it with other readers."

The system works very well—especially when you supplement it with some old fashioned leg work and telephoning.

SWEATER GIRL

Sp. X 2/c Virginia Hewlett of Wave Quarters B, West Potomac Park, went to Triton Beach, Md., with three girl friends recently.

Miss Hewlett

On the way back to Washington, they were given a lift by a couple driving a Lincoln Zephyr sedan bearing Virginia license tags.

When the girls got out, Virginia picked up a white sweater, thinking that it belonged to one of her friends—but now she's horribly embarrassed to discover that the sweater belongs to the folks who gave them the ride.

The owner of the sweater can ease Virginia's conscience by calling Executive 9305, billet F-105.

YEAH—NO SPACE, TONY

Friend Tony Neri writes:

"The St. Mary's Boys Club is sponsoring an air circus to raise funds for athletic equipment and such. The date is July 27, the place is the Hybla Valley Airport. We'll have stunt flying, parachute jumps, plane crackups, and other attractions. Do you have room to squeeze in a plug for us?"

Golly, Tony, I'm terribly sorry, but I don't have.

IT'S JUST A THOUGHT

Calvary Baptist Church held a Christmas-in-July service last Sunday, to raise funds for mission projects.

Do you suppose it would do any good to have Dr. Clarence W. Cranford and his flock drop around to sing some Christmas carols to the weatherman?

Grin and Bear It

"It's not only maddening, it's economically unsound—I practically bathe in $35-an-ounce perfume—and he takes me to a 50-cent movie!"

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

The Bridge Deck

By Florence Osborn

You are declarer of today's six-heart contract and West opens the club jack, you cover with dummy's king and East takes the ace and shifts to the spake jack. Study only North and South cards, and plan your play for 12 tricks.

South wins his six-heart contract by choosing the right discard, enabling him to set up dummy's diamond suit by a ruff. He has a spade and a diamond loser to get rid of, but it is too risky to finesse East's spade jack to North's queen. It is also wrong to plan on discarding the spade loser on the high club, for then a diamond must surely be lost.

Declarer decides on a safer plan, which requires a 3-3 break in the adverse diamonds. He goes up with the spade ace and takes the king and ace of hearts, drawing trumps. He lays down the queen of clubs, discarding a diamond from the closed hand, and cashes the ace and king of diamonds.

Next declarer trumps a diamond in his hand, setting up the fourth diamond on the board. Now he reenters dummy with the heart jack, cashes the good diamond, on which he throws off his losing spade, and claims the balance with good hearts.

South wins his small slam at hearts, losing only the club ace.

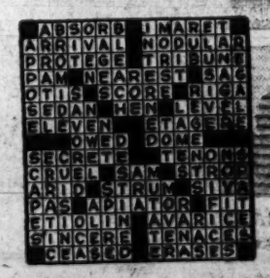
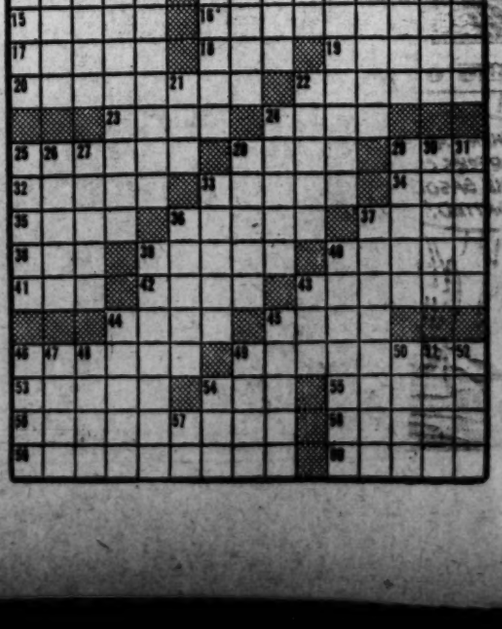
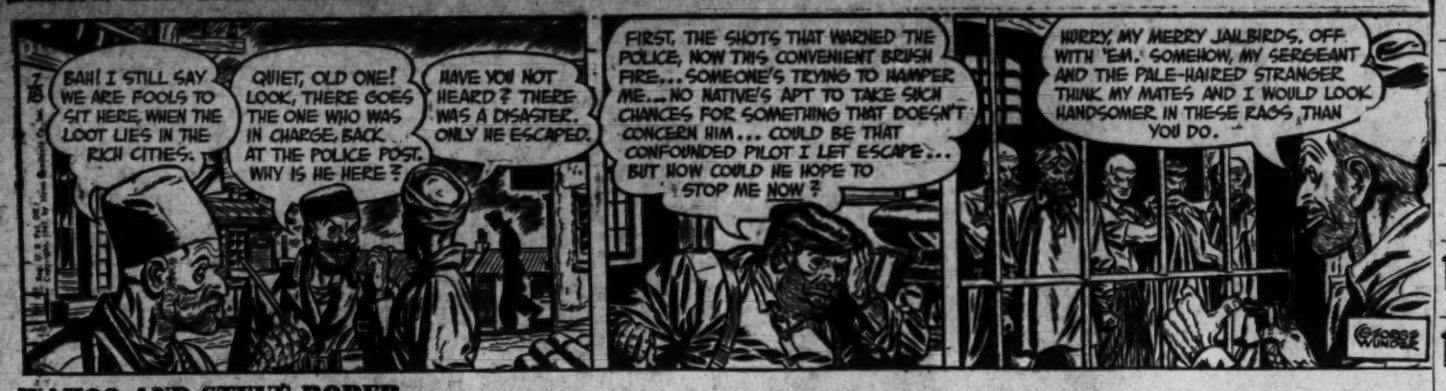
Solution to Yesterday's Puzzle





TERRY AND THE PIRATES



BAH! I STILL SAY WE ARE FOOLS TO SIT HERE, WHEN THE LOOT LIES IN THE RICH CITIES.
QUIET, OLD ONE! LOOK, THERE GOES THE ONE WHO WAS IN CHARGE, BACK AT THE POLICE POST. WHY IS HE HERE?
HAVE YOU NOT HEARD? THERE WAS A DISASTER. ONLY HE ESCAPED.
FIRST, THE SHOTS THAT WARNED THE POLICE, NOW THIS CONVENIENT BRUSH FIRE... SOMEONE'S TRYING TO HAMPER ME... NO NATIVE'S APT TO TAKE SUCH CHANCES FOR SOMETHING THAT DOESN'T CONCERN HIM... COULD BE THAT CONFOUNDED PILOT I LET ESCAPE... BUT HOW COULD HE HOPE TO STOP ME NOW?
HURRY, MY MERRY JAILBIRDS. OFF WITH 'EM. SOMEHOW, MY SERGEANT AND THE PALE-HAIRED STRANGER THINK MY MATES AND I WOULD LOOK HANDSOMER IN THESE RAGS THAN YOU DO.
GEORGE WUNDER

WAHOO AND STEVE ROPER

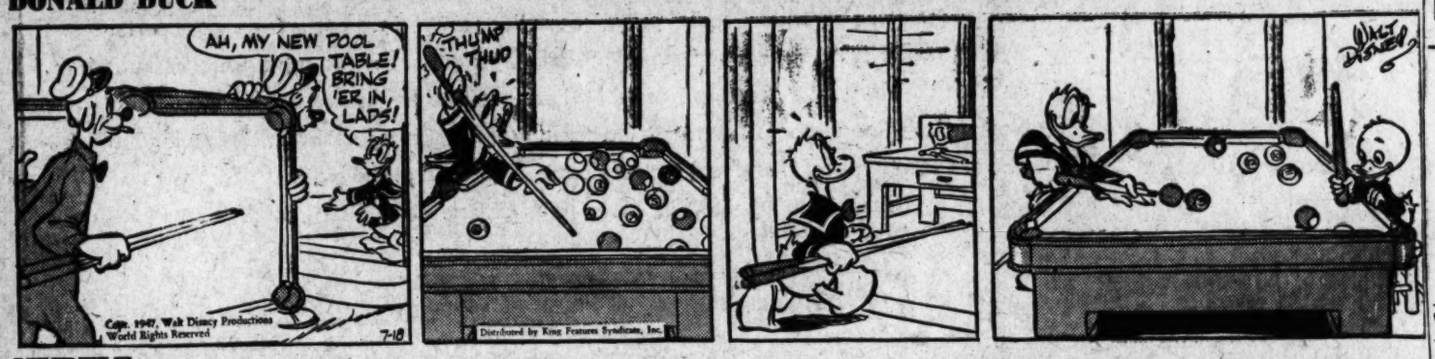
JUST A SECOND, MOLLY!
TICKETS
SNACKBAR
7-18-47
WELL, BOSS LADY! THAT LINE ABOUT "THE BEST LAID PLANS OF MICE AND MEN" APPLIES TO RATS ALSO, DOESN'T IT--?
WHAT ON EARTH ARE YOU TALKING ABOUT, STEVE?
YOU WROTE THE POLICE THAT ANONYMOUS LETTER ABOUT SONNY AND ALI BABOON, DIDN'T YOU?--- YOU'D RATHER PUT HIM ON TRIAL FOR MURDER THAN SEE HIM WIN THE $25,000 THAT WOULD MAKE CUPCAKE WELL AGAIN WOULDN'T YOU?
SOME DAY, STEVE ROPER, YOU'LL APOLOGIZE TO ME FOR THAT SPEECH---ON BENDED KNEES!
HEY! WHAT IS THIS? IT'S OVER MY HEAD LIKE A HAIR-DRYER---!
SAUNDERS Wilgus

DIXIE DUGAN

NO, MAZIE, I DON'T WANT ANY UNDERHANDED METHODS USED TO BREAK UP KEN BRADFORD AND BARBARA KEMPER EVEN IF I AM IN LOVE WITH HIM
WE SHOULD HEAR "HEARTS AND FLOWERS" WITH THAT LITTLE SPEECH, MARTYR!
BESIDES, I WASN'T THINKING OF ANYTHING UNDERHANDED--IF THIS FELLOW CAN BREAK UP THE MATCH SHE WOULDN'T BE WORTHY OF KEN, WOULD SHE?
{?!?} --I NEVER THOUGHT OF IT THAT WAY
O.K.--SUPPOSING YOU BRING THIS HUMAN DYNAMO--WHAT'S HIS NAME?
CARTER SEXTON
WELL, BRING MR. SEXTON OVER HERE TOMORROW AFTERNOON AND I'LL TRY TO HAVE BARBARA HERE
ROGER!--AND SEE WHAT HAPPENS!

DONALD DUCK



AH, MY NEW POOL TABLE! BRING 'ER IN, LADS!

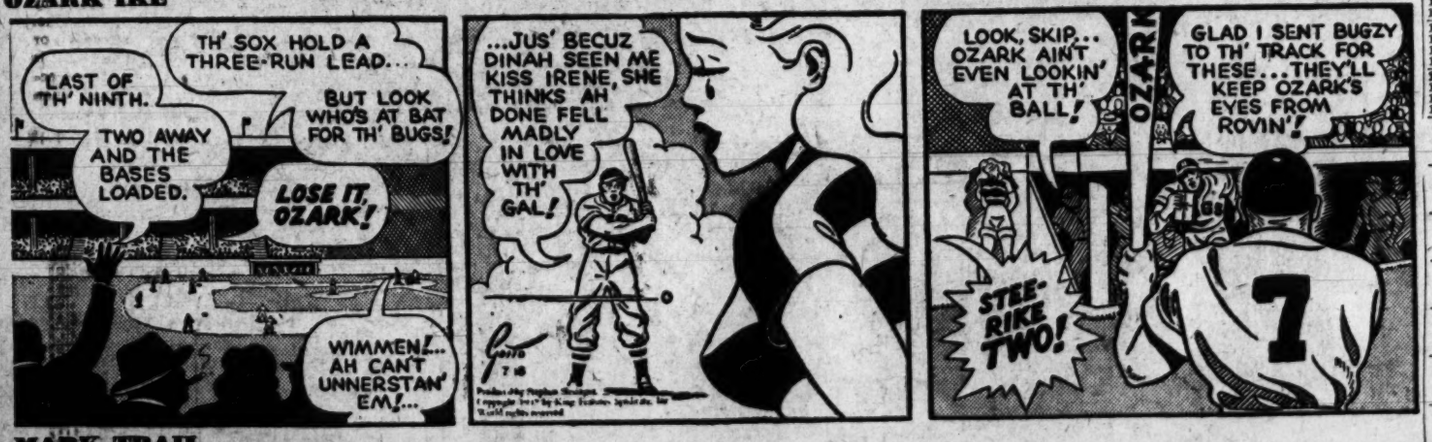
OZARK IKE



LAST OF TH' NINTH.
TH' SOX HOLD A THREE-RUN LEAD...
TWO AWAY AND THE BASES LOADED.
BUT LOOK WHO'S AT BAT FOR TH' BUGS!
LOSE IT, OZARK!
WIMMEN!... AH CAN'T UNNERSTAN' EM!...
...JUS' BECUZ DINAH SEEN ME KISS IRENE, SHE THINKS AH DONE FELL MADLY IN LOVE WITH TH' GAL!
LOOK, SKIP... OZARK AIN'T EVEN LOOKIN' AT TH' BALL!
STEE-RIKE TWO!

MARK TRAIL

I'M GOING AFTER 'EM!
NO, BEN, WAIT...
WHOEVER'S AFTER FLASH HAS BEEN SPYING ON US... THEY FIGURED THEY'D LET US BUILD THE TRAP AND THEN LEAVE US STUCK BY TAKING OUR PONIES...
...NOW WE'LL NEVER CATCH THEM...WE'VE BUILT THE TRAP AND FOUND THE HERD... AND HERE WE ARE WITHOUT PONIES TO RUN 'EM IN...
RIGHT... UNLESS WE THINK OF SOMETHING FAST!

KING OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED

WHEN THOSE WRECKS COLLIDED, THE GASOLINE IGNITED!
WE'LL GET NO SCALING ROPE NOW!
I'LL HAVE TO CARRY JENNY TO HIGH GROUND SOME OTHER WAY!..
OH! SHE'S GONE!
AT THIS MOMENT, ABOVE THE MURK---
FIRE!

Today

Today is just another day . . . As far as hours go . . . Unless we try to use the time . . . To gather and to grow . . . To gather joy and goodness in . . . The warmth of friendly smiles . . . And grow in wisdom and in strength . . . Along the passing miles . . . The day is all our own to spend . . . As we consider fit . . . We may employ it gainfully . . . Or we may squander it . . . Its workshop may be idle and . . . Its branches may be bare . . . Or it may be a fruitful field . . . With happiness to share . . . But when the shadows lengthen and . . . The sun has slipped away . . . It has to be a step ahead . . . Or just another day.

New Rounded Hiplines, Tiers, Peplums, Side Interest! Rich Rough Rayon Crepe Prints in New Brown and White, Black and White! New Colorful-Print Rayon Sheers!
